REVEAL FRANCE HAS 6,920,204 TRAINED TROOPS

Figures May Bear on Arms Holiday.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 8.—Although France has signified that she will be one of the powers to follow the lead of the United States and Japan in turning disarmament with armament statistics in accordance with the request of the league of nations council, THE TRIBUNE today obtained a complete list of French military man power and budgetary expenses and an appendix table of military supplies.

The table, which shows France as possessing total effectives numbering 696,000 trained men and intending to spend more than $750,000,000, or 37 per cent of the total budget appropriations for the current year, for armaments, is expected to be utilized by Secretary of State Stimson when he arrives here on July 11 in an effort to make an amended moratorium follow the debt policy.

Reveal French Understatement.

An amazing understatement of France's real trained man power is revealed in these figures. Whereas the government press delights in stating that the regular army contains only 250,000 men, and it is an open fact that France is demanding a disarmament pledge from Germany as a condition of the moratorium, these figures show that the actual effectives of the regular army amount to more than 592,682. Only about half of this total—292,682 men and 21,000 officers—are stationed in France. The formation has been spread that nearly the whole army except for a small handful in the foreign legion and in the colonies is stationed in France.

In reality, the scattered handsful total 143,895 men and 6,023 officers in North Africa and Syria alone. The forces listed under the departments of colonies and interior—the gendarmerie—or credited to the Syrian mandate, bring the total up to 592,682.

12,000 Reserve Officers.

Under the head of organized reserves there are included 77,000 officers, chiefly war veterans, and 5,830,000 men in France and 430,000 men in Algeria.

Likewise, the official estimate of military expenses for security purposes totals only $649,280,000, whereas a study by expert observers shows that the actual expenses are in excess of $782,680,000. This is 37 per cent of the total government disbursements for the coming year.

Regarding actual armaments, no exact figures are available, but THE TRIBUNE has obtained an approximate table which shows France as possessing tremendous numbers of planes and artillery.

1,300 Planes in Active Use.

The air force numbers 1,300 planes in active use, not counting other large planes attached to special departments.

In artillery France possesses a formidable battery of more than 500 big guns of varying calibers and more than 1,000 motorized five inch guns and 4,000 of the famous 75's in active use, in addition to large reserves.

Including the reserves, the army possesses 70,000 machine guns or automatic rifles in good condition and another 800,000 rifles.

RENEWS ARMS PLEDGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 8.—The affairs of Europe took a sensational turn for the better this evening when the German chancellor, Leopold von Hoesch, called on Premier Pierre Laval and the prime minister of his government, formally reiterated the pledge which Chancellor Bruening gave last Sunday that Germany would not use the benefits of the Hoover moratorium for armaments.

It is felt in official quarters here that this step will go far towards ending the distrust which France has felt towards Germany. It also is a notable action, for the first time since the death of Gustav Stresemann, foreshadowing which may lead to a complete Franco-German rapprochement.

Hold Friendly Chat.

While Ambassador von Hoesch's visit was an official gesture of considerable importance, it was far from being the formal expression of submission demanded by Premier Laval when he received the German ambassador a couple of weeks ago. Von Hoesch limited himself with presenting the views of Chancellor Bruening's radio

CROWDS DODGE FLYING SHOTS IN HYDE PARK

Three robbers were surprised in a holdup by a police squad in the busy Hyde Park district yesterday. For the next half hour there was a thrilling chase through south side streets punctuated by a series of gun battles in which one of the outlaws was shot and killed, and another wounded and captured. The third, believed wounded, escaped.

During the pursuit automobiles were commandeered both by the police and by the outlaws and street crowds were imperiled by bullets.

Bandit Slain; Comrade Shot.

The slain gunman was identified last night as Orie Lahnum of 6661 South Michigan avenue. His captured companion, who was shot in the right thigh, is James Clark, 22 years old, 26 East 23d street. The escaped robber is known only as "Stubby." Clark confessed at the detective bureau last night, and said he and his accomplices were out for some "easy money" when police intercepted them.

The heroes of the exciting gun fight are: Sergt. Redmond Gibbons and Policeman Louis Olsen of the Hyde Park station. Although the bandits fired at them half a dozen times, once with a shotgun, both escaped unscathed.

Gunmen Invade Store.

Late yesterday Clark, Lahnum and "Stubby" left a Wabash avenue beer flat armed with two revolvers and a shotgun and went to the cigar store of William Carey at 1500 East 55th street. At the door they met Elkan Berger, an attorney of 1440 East 55th street and a former aldermanic candidate, in the 5th ward. They shoved him inside.

In the front of the store was Lester Rockefellow, the clerk, and in the rear, police say, were twenty-five patrons scanning racing sheets. Carey, the proprietor, also was in the rear. The gunmen ordered Rockefellow to "fork over the dough." He was too slow and Clark struck him on the head with his shotgun, felling him. The bandits ordered the door leading to the rear opened and their command was emphasized when a charge of shot from Clark's gun was fired through the door.

Shot Brings Policemen.

It was at this moment that Sergt. Gibbons and Policeman Olsen were passing the cigar store. They heard the shot. They heard another shot as Carey, trying to steal to a rear exit, was fired upon. Gibbons and Olsen left their car and started for the store.

The bandits saw the approaching policemen. They ran to the street as Olsen and Gibbons were 20 feet away. Clark fired his shotgun at Gibbons, but missed. "Stubby" and Lahnum also shot and missed. Meanwhile, the policemen opened fire.

Gunmen Seize Car; Flee.

Suddenly the robbers bolted and ran to a coupe containing Miss Gail Vandernoot, 5427 Blackstone avenue, and Miss Betty Barker of 5327 Blackstone avenue. "Get out," one of the bandits ordered. The girls stepped out, terrified, and the gunmen got into the seat. Olsen and Gibbons rushed toward them, Olsen firing three shots through the windshield of the car seized by the robbers.

The outlaws sped away. Gibbons and Olsen each commandeered an automobile and followed. At 54th street and Dorchester avenue, Clark and Lahnum left the stolen coupe and "Stubby" drove away. The car was found abandoned later at 55th street and Lowe avenue, stained with blood.

Policeman Kills Bandit.

Meanwhile, Lahnum and Clark halted a taxicab driven by Eli Kabrinsky, 6116 Eberhart avenue. Inside rode Sam Ruby of 1400 East 53d street, a passenger. The gunmen pointed weapons at Kabrinsky and Ruby and told the driver to "speed it up." At 43d street and Oakenwald avenue, Lahnum leaped from the taxicab. Sergt. Gibbons, following close behind, fired three shots and Lahnum fell dead.

Clark continued on. A half hour later, with the aid of the taxi chauffeur, Sergt. Edward White and a squad raided his home and arrested him. They also held his wife.

IT'S TIME WE PUT THE SKIDS UNDER HIM

BREAK IN FLAT AS 'SURPRISE'; COPS SURPRISE THEM

A police radio call announcing that burglars were in the home of Miss Florence Ely Hunn, interior decorator, at 101 East Oak street, sent a squad to that address late last night.

The house was surrounded. Policemen Edward Basarek and John Fleming guarded the front entrance, while Policemen Neil Moynihan and Philip O'Neill went up the rear entrance to the second floor. They found a rear window jimmied. They also heard some one inside.

Unable to get any response by knocking on the door, one of the policemen smashed in a window and called out that he would throw in tear bombs unless those inside surrendered. A moment later two men emerged, hands in air. They identified themselves as J. D. Hough, 30 years old, of 219 Lake Shore drive, and Paul F. Hegg, 31 years old, of 552 Roscoe street. Hegg said he is an interior decorator with offices at 820 North Michigan avenue.

Hegg and Hough were taken to the Chicago avenue station and held on open charges. They explained their presence in the Hunn studio as being meant to surprise Miss Hunn, who is said to be in Michigan.

"Yes," remarked a policeman when they gave this explanation, "but it looks as if you were the ones that were surprised."

The police decided to hold the two men until Miss Hunn could be reached and asked about the story told by the night callers who broke into her flat.

EVANSTON PUTS THREE BEACHES ON FREE LIST

The Evanston city council's plan to charge a nonresident fee for use of its bathing beaches was modified last night and three of the suburb's seven beaches were declared open to all without charge. The other four are restricted, families, including Evanston families, being required to pay $1 per season. Individuals, if more than 14 years old, will be charged 50 cents for each swim, and children under 14 will be charged 25 cents.

Last week the council adopted a resolution to charge only nonresidents but this action drew fire from former Dean John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern university law school, who declared that by enacting such a law Evanston would show itself to be a "city of Schooges."

Last night's action fixed the following beaches as restricted: Sheridan Square, Lincoln, Main, and Lee streets. No charges will be made at the Clark street, Calvary, or Greenwood avenue beaches. The season tickets, it was declared, may be bought at the city hall.

Crooning Rudy Vallee Weds; She's Actress

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Rudy Vallee, whose crooning of love songs over the radio aroused mixed emotions among his hearers, depending principally on the sex thereof, was married secretly last Monday evening in West Orange, N. J., to Miss Fay Webb. This was revealed today. Announcement of the marriage was made through the National Broadcasting company, over whose system Vallee frequently broadcasts.

Miss Webb, who is the daughter of Clarence Webb, chief of police of Santa Monica, met the singer in Los Angeles about two years ago while he was making a sound picture. She also appeared on the screen. She came here from the west coast last Friday and visited friends in New Jersey until the wedding.

The ceremony was performed by Police Recorder Herbert Lighthipe of West Orange in the presence of a few close friends of the couple. Mrs. Herbert Schmidt of Hoboken, N. J., sister of Kenneth Dolan, personal representative of the orchestra leader, attended Miss Webb, and Edwin Scheuing, his business manager, was the best man. Mr. Dolan, William Vallee, brother of the singer, and Hyman Bushel, his lawyer, were also present.

Established in New Apartment.

Since the wedding the couple have been living in an apartment Vallee recently took at 53 Central Park West. Vallee has continued to appear nightly with his orchestra on the roof garden of a local hotel.

The marriage is Vallee's second. On May 12, 1928, he was married to Mrs. Leonie Couchois McCoy in the chapel of the Municipal building, not long after she had obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev., from Frank McCoy III, of Montclair, N. J. She obtained an annulment of her marriage to Vallee three months after it was performed.

The young man who has done so much for higher education—he put his alma mamma, Yale, on the radio map, dodged grapefruit tossed at him by Harvard students in Boston, and exploited Maine university by singing its stein song—was the defendant a year ago in a $200,000 breach of promise suit. It was brought by Agnes N. O'Loughlin, Follies beauty.

Rudy also has been named in several other civil suits, most of which have been classed as attempts to pry away some of the $20,000 a week he is reputed to earn as jazz band leader, saxophonist and megaphone crooner.

He has been reported engaged at various times to almost every celebrity of the opposite sex but Baby Peggy and Fanny Ward.

Parents Pleased by News.

Santa Monica, Cal., July 8.—[Special.]—"I'm not at all sore about it; her mother and I are pleased," said Police Chief Webb today, commenting on the marriage of his 23 year old daughter, Fay, to Rudy Vallee in New York. The girl played in several motion pictures for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio here, and met Vallee when the singer came west to act in films. Chief Webb said he and his wife had not anticipated his daughter's marriage to Vallee at this time, "but on the other hand we're not surprised at a telegram telling of it."

INVALID RESCUED FROM NORTH SIDE APARTMENT FIRE

Daniel C. Farrington, 60 years old, an invalid, was carried to safety early this morning after fire broke out in the west wing of the 36 apartment building at 1415 Jonquil terrace, and routed a dozen families.

Trapped by smoke in their third floor home, Farrington and his wife, Maud, made no attempt to escape. Chief James Byrnes of the 27th battalion climbed a ladder and carried Farrington down. Mrs. Farrington, assured of his safety, walked downstairs with firemen. Hundreds of motorists in Sheridan road watched the rescue and fire.

The blaze started on the rear porch of I. E. Malvey from an undetermined cause. The damage was estimated at $4,000 to $5,000.

Flyers Speed Over Alaska on Tokio Hop

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 8.—(AP)—The monoplane Fort Worth, bound on a 5,100 mile nonstop, midair refueling flight from Seattle to Tokio, Japan, arrived over Fairbanks at 12:33 a. m. Thursday, Chicago time, tonight.

The monoplane was refueled successfully by its trimotored mother ship and continued on its journey.

With the Tokio bound plane throttling down its speed to that of the heavily laden refueler, a contact was established at an altitude of about 1,000 feet.

Fighting head winds for the last 300 miles of their flight, Reg Robbins and Harold Jones arrived here from Seattle in elapsed time of 17 hours 36 minutes.

The air line distance between the two cities is about 1,400 miles, but the flyers' course took them inland, north over British Columbia and Yukon territory, probably adding another 200 miles to that distance.

The Texas aviators nearly maintained their schedule, having set 7 p. m. as the time of their arrival here on leaving Seattle at daybreak this morning. The first hop to Fairbanks covered about one-third of the distance to Tokio.

Take Off at Seattle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Seattle, Wash., July 8.—Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas aviators, tonight were presumably in the air beyond Fairbanks, Alaska, first refueling point of their 5,100 mile nonstop flight to Tokio. They took off here at 6:57 o'clock [Chicago time] this morning.

Their white monoplane, Fort Worth, had been sighted at various points in British Columbia and arrived in Fairbanks about on schedule time. There it took on fuel from the trimotored supply plane which had awaited it in the air.

Makes Fast Time.

Loaded with 300 gallons of gasoline, the plane made two attempts to rise before Robbins, the pilot, finally pulled it into the air. Riding a tailwind at an estimated height of 6,500 feet, it made good time in the early stages of the flight to Fairbanks.

The proposed trip will take the Texans over much rugged country, across the stormy Bering sea, over the mainland of Siberia and across the Kurile islands to Japan. They expect to reach Tokio Friday morning.

The flyers expect to have daylight for the entire 55 hours which they expect to be in the air. They will fly through Alaska and down the northern coast of Siberia at night, but not in darkness, since that region at this time of year has 24 hours of light.

Refueling Plane Ready.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 8.—James J. Mattern and Nick Greener, crew of the refueling plane which met Reg L. Robbins and Harold Jones, Seattle to Tokio flyers, tonight had their tri-motored plane ready to take off at first sight of the Fort Worth.

The refueling plane carried 800 gallons of gasoline. Over Fairbanks 250 gallons were transferred to the nonstop plane. The refueling ship then flew with the Fort Worth to Seward peninsula, where the last transfer of fuel will be made. From there the flyers will hop alone for Siberia and down the coast to Tokio.

MAYOR AND ALDERMAN ENGAGE IN VERBAL TILT AT COUNCIL SESSION

Echoes of the recent red hot mayoralty election filled the council chambers in the city hall yesterday when Mayor Cermak and Ald. Oscar Nelson, leader in the administration of Mr. Cermak's predecessor, engaged in verbal fireworks over the elimination of 54 jobs at the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium.

Nelson accused the mayor of violating council rules by talking from the rostrum, and the mayor answered:

"It is clear to me why this argument has lasted two hours. These speeches by leaders of the previous administration are for the purpose of sustaining their past reputations."

Nelson later submitted an order requesting Corporation Counsel Sexton for a ruling on the power of the mayor to engage in debate without the council's permission.

To this move Cermak countered:

"You might ask him also if I can have horses ridden into the council chamber and house donkeys in the mayor's office."

JUDGE ASKS NINE BE DISBARRED, 38 SUSPENDED

Maclay Hoyne Hit in Canal Whoopee.

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor yesterday made public a draft of his findings as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court in the disciplinary proceedings brought by the Chicago Bar association against 55 lawyers who were members of the law department of the sanitary district during the "whoopee days."

The judge recommended that nine of the attorneys be disbarred permanently, 11 suspended from practice of law for two years, and 27 for one year. Seven others were cleared in the report, and findings in the case of one lawyer were delayed.

The report of 175,000 words is to be presented at the October term of the Supreme court for final action. Judge Taylor granted the respondent attorneys until Aug. 17 to file objections and set arguments on the objections for Sept. 28. Judge Taylor was chosen by the Supreme court to take evidence and submit recommendations to the court.

Sets a Legal Precedent.

The case against the 55 attorneys is without parallel in Illinois legal history and the report for the first time definitely establishes the ethical relationship of attorneys in public office to their governmental clients. The bar association presented its petition for disciplinary action more than a year ago after many hearings before a special bar committee. Judge Taylor opened hearings Jan. 12 and delivered his draft almost six months later.

Frank J. Brewbaker	Klaofas Jurgelonis
Jacob M. Laventhal	Stephen A. Maiste
George H. Mason	Harry Mantell
James C. O'Brien	Adam E. Patterson
Joseph Paulisetis

Maclay Hoyne in Two Year List.

Former State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, chief of the law department from 1926 to 1928, is included in the list of 11 lawyers against whom the recommendation asks suspension from practice for two years. The others are:

Arthur Donaghue	Daniel Gallery
John C. Garriott Jr.	Thomas F. Grant
Al F. Gerstein	Medard A. Kraa
Henry E. Jacobs	Philip A. Leszwich
Nathan A. Lawrence	Bernard J. Mahoney

Harry J. Berman	John R. Horan
David S. Chasrow	Joseph A. Kolb
Robert H. Eberle	Carl H. Lundquist
John S. Hall	Arthur F. Manning
Eugene M. Hines	Eugene L. McGarry
Meyer D. Kaufman	G. Edwin Mitchell
Edward F. Lucsak	Victor I. Ohrenstein
Sidney Lyon	Ivor L. Smith
James J. McDermott	Augustus L. Williams
Mark J. McNamara	Abraham L. Misner
John M. Beverly	William S. Newberger
John J. Dillon	Leo V. Rooder
Roy J. Egan	William Scott Stewart
John F. Higgins

Hector Brouillett Cleared.

Hector A. Brouillet, chief of the department prior to Hoyne, was cleared in Judge Taylor's report because the abuses charged in the information reached their apex in the Hoyne administration. Others cleared by the report are:

Samuel J. Graff	Charles F. Brown
John B. Klee	A. Paul Holtib
John E. McCabe	John M. Lowry

The information against Edward H. Luebeck was sent back to the Supreme court for instructions. In his defense Luebeck declared he was engaged on matters of international complications and refused to testify. Judge Taylor asks the Supreme court to give him authority to go into the confidential matters, expressing the opinion he does not believe them to be confidential.

Accused of Pay Roll Padding.

The bar association in its information against the attorneys accused Hoyne and Brouillett of countenancing wholesale padding of pay rolls and permitting attorneys to draw salaries for little or no work. The remaining 53 respondents were charged with profiting through the padded pay rolls.

Hoyne offered in his defense that he might be fined for refusal to serve as chief of the department or manhandled by courts to keep his position. The defense was based on old English law. Judge Taylor held the English law applied to honorary positions without salary and not to those where the holder received sufficient compensation.

The Case Against Hoyne.

"It is the opinion of the commissioner that when Hoyne realized that the excessive employment of assistant attorneys was becoming a fraud upon the sanitary district, as he must and done from February to Novem-

List Lawyers Facing Suspension and Those Cleared

be.. ..port reads, "it was his duty as the chief attorney and counselor of his client, the taxpayers and the people of the district to demand a change, and, if that failed, to tender his resignation; that that duty was implicit as an obligation of a lawyer of good moral character and there is no known law that would thwart such moral conduct on his part."

Hoyne also offered in his defense that he was subservient to the board of trustees and could not have countermanded their orders. The board was that headed by Timothy J. Crowe. He and several of its members are under indictment in the Criminal court in connection with pay roll and contract inequalities.

Of this defense Judge Taylor's report states: "A lawyer's duty to his client is subservient to that which is ethical. His relations with the taxpayers, collectively, of the district, were more important than those with the trustees. They may have been ignorant or indifferent or criminal; he, as a lawyer, was assumed to be skilled in his profession, expected and required to act only in the highest of good faith for the best interests of the sanitary district.

Duty as Lawyer Told.

"It did not call for any great heroism or saintly virtue to quit, but a mere recognition of the fact that as he could not be reasonably and honorably useful, and could not, as a lawyer of good moral character, go on and ostensibly sanction what was being done, he must give up his client, suppress his motive, his desire for his position and salary in the interests of professional duty and honor . . . The evidence shows by a clear preponderance that the respondent, Hoyne, was guilty of unprofessional conduct."

At the time Hoyne headed the law department there were 126 lawyers on the pay roll of the law department. When Brouillet left the department in November, 1926, there were 53 lawyers. The number had been increased from 38 in July 1926. Of this fact Judge Taylor said: "There was an increase, but it does not produce, together with other evidence, the amazement and overwhelming conviction of dereliction that the figures under Hoyne do."

Applies Law to Padding.

On the 53 lawyers charged with benefitting through the padded pay rolls Judge Taylor cites the principles of law applied. In reaching these principles Judge Taylor studied during the trial after court hours and spent more than a month after final arguments were made early in June in research.

"The practicing lawyer," he wrote, "must be more than merely a law abiding citizen; he should be in his professional conduct a sociologically conscientious one; and that because the final goal of our jurisprudence generally considered, is identical with morality, and the lawyer is its especial sworn and licensed practitioner, and especially so when employed by a public corporation, such as the sanitary district."

The opinion cites a number of authorities on this point and the code of ethics of several bar associations.

"Where an attorney deceives his client by false representation or advice, or knowingly permits him to be deceived by the false representations of others, he will not be permitted to retain any benefit derived from transactions so entered into by his client, but they will be annulled," Judge Taylor quotes from Thornton on "Attorneys at Law."

Applies to Public Officials.

The judge applied the doctrine to lawyers "employed by a municipal or public corporation who do little or no work and make no special effort to find out what work there is, if any, to do and go on accepting a large or substantial sum paid out of the taxpayers' money."

The judge pointed out that the case is really 55 individual cases and after his recommendations on Hoyne and Brouillet lists each of the respondent attorneys individually. Listings of those recommended disbarred are as follows:

FRANK S. BRENWASSER, 46 years old, graduate of the University of Michigan, appointed through Michael J. Connelly after backing a post through Timothy J. Crowe. "Unfit to practice law," the report states, after finding he received $173.62 a month for a year while he was employed with an express company at full time.

KLEOFAS JURGELONIS, 45 years old, studied at Cracow university in Poland and law at De Paul university. Recommended by Crowe by Congressman A. J. Sabath. During the hearings he admitted having received $2,435 without returning work. "Chose that which was advantageous to himself and a detriment to his client; that showed a want of good moral character," the report states.

JACOB M. LAVENTHAL, 52 years old, graduate of New York university, appointed through Ike Doff. He received $2,874 without practically any services.

GEORGE H. MASON, 57 years old, graduate of Northwestern university, appointed through Michael L. Igoe. Received $10,000 for "meager" services.

STEPHEN A. MALATO, 58 years old, graduate of the Chicago Law school, appointed through George E. Brennan. He was formerly an assistant state's attorney and an attorney for the county board. He received $6,875 for "three or four weeks of service."

HARRY MANTELL, 30 years old, graduate of the University of Wisconsin, appointed by T. J. Crowe. He received $6,408 for no work.

JAMES G. O'BRIEN, 56 years old, graduate of the Chicago School of Law and former assistant state's attorney, known as "Ropes" O'Brien for his vigorous prosecutions in hanging cases. He was appointed through Martin J. O'Brien. He received $3,500 for no services.

ADAM E. PATTERSON, 51 years old, graduate of Kansas State university, appointed through George E. Brennan. He was formerly an assistant corporation counsel and a major during the world war. Received $3,500 for no service.

JOSEPH E. PAULISSEN. He did not appear at the hearings. He received $4,650.

The lawyers began gathering in the courtroom of Judge Taylor yesterday a half hour before 2 p. m., the hour set for announcing the findings. Greetings were exchanged in hushed voices as though the judge were on the bench. Attorney Willard R. Matheny, representing the bar association, and the staff of counsel for the respondents, headed by Edwin W. Sims and Angus Roy Shannon, seated themselves at the table before the bar. Hoyne was among the respondents who did not appear.

The judge took the bench promptly at the hour set. As he began speaking in measured tones the lawyers thronged in a circle about the bench. The judge first set the dates for objections and arguments.

Matter of Great Importance.

"At the inception of the investigation I considered the proceedings a matter of great moment," he began. "From month to month I realized more and more it would call to account knowledge, profound thought and wisest judgment. I undertook to do the best I could. May I state in all humility after seven months I still feel my possibility to fallacy?

"The report is not a final judgment, but goes to the Supreme court as a tentative product for consideration by a court of seven distinguished jurists to enter final judgment."

The judge fingered his report—one of 700 pages containing more than 175,000 words—larger than the average novel—as he pointed to its divisions. The first part of approximately 150 pages gives a history of the sanitary district and the work of the law department; the second, a conclusion of facts relating to Hoyne and Brouillet; the third, a preluds on the remaining lawyers as to law and ethics, and the last, conclusion of law and fact on each of the remaining 53 lawyers.

The audience became restive as they awaited a resumé of the decision. When the judge announced he would deliver his recommendation on each lawyer, silence beat on the ears for a moment in a room of more than 100 persons. The lawyers crouched to catch each name.

After the reading each lawyer was given the portion of the opinion relating to him. No words were spoken. The lawyers left immediately as the judge left the bench. In the halls those who escaped recommendations of punishment received congratulations of others.

The opinion of Judge Taylor was heralded by lawyers generally as a legal monument, the product of profound thought tempered with vast knowledge. It was seen as a precedent in the establishment of interpretation of ethics and as working toward the culminations of the highest ideals of the bar.

ONE YEAR SUSPENSIONS

The 27 lawyers recommended for suspensions of one year by Judge Taylor, with a summary of the findings, are:

HARRY J. BERMAN, 48 years old, appointed through Robert E. Crowe. Received $6,458. "did little work and made no special effort to find out what work there was," the report states.

DAVID S. CHERROW, 39 years old, received $5,370 for employment a few months after admittance to the bar after appointment through the late Recorder Joseph F. Haas. "Chargeable with unprofessional conduct" for giving little services, the report declares.

JOHN M. BEVERLY, 39 years old, received $4,600 for little work. He refused an appointment as assistant United States attorney offered by the late Senator Medill McCormick, because he would be forced to give up all his time to the work.

JOHN J. DILLON, 32 years old, former deputy fire marshal, appointed through Edward F. Moore. Received $5,799 for trivial and negligible service, the report states.

ROBERT H. EBERLE, 42 years old, appointed through Robert E. Crowe. Received $2,083 for interpreting law relating to trade waste and examination of 10 leases.

ROY J. EGAN, 34 years old, former assistant United States attorney, appointed through Denis J. Egan. Received $3,750 largely for listening to lectures in the publicity department.

JOHN S. HALL, 38 years old, appointed through President King. Received $2,950 for "work not in any reasonable way adequate for the compensation."

JOHN F. HIGGINS, 51 years old, former assistant state's attorney, appointed by King. Received $23,405. He has had experience in criminal, civil, contract, corporation and probate work. "It is difficult to determine the exact amount of work the respondent did . . . evidently it was sporadic . . . magnified. He was trusted to act in good faith and evidence shows he clearly failed."

EUGENE M. HINES, 33 years old, appointed through Roeder, a ward committeeman. Received $8,958 for work "of no substantial value."

JOHN R. HORAN, 42 years old, appointed through Martin J. O'Brien, district clerk. Received $2,955 for services "entirely inadequate."

MEYER D. KAUFMAN, 43 years old, appointed through Trustee John J. Tuohy. Received $8,729 for "such work as a law clerk might do."

JOSEPH A. KOLB, 39 years old, appointed through George Brennan. Received $2,000 largely for being "conversant with the water meter situation."

EDWARD P. LUCZAK, 31 years old, former assistant city prosecutor, appointed through Mayor Cermak when chairman of the county board. Received $2,153 for reading the book of the sanitary board's proceedings and "negligible work."

CARL H. LUNDQUIST, 47 years old, of Rockford, Ill., former toolmaker and newspaper man; also former assistant corporation counsel. Appointed through T. J. Crowe and received $5,833 largely for looking up Supreme and Appellate court reports and little work.

SIDNEY LYON, 45 years old, appointed through "prominent office holder." Received $9,351 for redditing and rewriting a book pertaining to the department's legal cases and little other work.

ARTHUR F. MANNING, 39 years old, former assistant corporation counsel, and of the department of internal revenue, appointed through George E. Brennan. Received $6,458 for attending lectures and educational work.

JAMES J. McDERMOTT, 36 years old, appointed through former Ald. William R. O'Toole. Received $6,776 for work not commensurate with his pay.

EUGENE L. McGARRY, 52 years old, former assistant state's attorney, former deputy county collector, and widely known attorney. Appointed through Crowe. Received $4,000 for trips out of town, looking over seven leases, preparation of a demurrer and some undescribed confidential work for President Crowe. McGarry was a candidate for congressman several times.

MARK J. McNAMARA, 58 years old, former first assistant city prosecutor, appointed through the late Trustee Michael Rosenberg. Received $5,416, largely in expectation of work he might be called upon to do.

ABRAHAM L. MISSNER, 34 years old, former assistant corporation counsel, appointed through Emil Kurts and Trustee King. Received $3,391, largely for examination of abstracts.

G. EDWIN MITCHELL, 36 years old, former employé of the bureau of streets, the Superior court, and the internal revenue department, appointed through Benjamin M. Mitchell, former legislator and an uncle. Received $17,666 for detail work "an ordinary law clerk might do."

WILLIAM S. NEWBERGER, 60 years old, former master in chancery for the Circuit and Superior courts, appointed through Brennan. Received for little work $4,500, which he repaid when the bar association brought proceedings.

VICTOR I. OHRENSTEIN, 63 years old, Spanish-American war veteran, appointed by Trustees Crowe and Berger. Received $1,874 for inadequate services.

LEO V. ROEDER, 60 years old, former assistant attorney general and member of the law department of the board of education, appointed through Brennan and former Ald. T. J. Bowler, now president of the district. Received $4,250 for examining files and pleadings in 11 cases, work of leases, attending board meetings, and making three trips down the Illinois river of his own accord.

IVOR L. SMITH, 38 years old, appointed through Circuit Judge William V. Brothers. Received $5,800 for little or no work.

WILLIAM SCOTT STEWART, 41 years old, former assistant state's attorney and well known criminal lawyer, appointed through Trustee Tuohy. Received $6,000 largely for services to the board of trustees rather than the law department. Stewart testified he received from his private practice $60,000 to $90,000 in the year he was associated with the district. "The commissioner is not able to give credence to Stewart's testimony that probably half his time from Dec. 1, 1927, to Nov. 30, 1928, was devoted to the sanitary district.

SEVEN ARE CLEARED

In addition to Hector A. Brouillett, Hoyne's predecessor as law chief of the sanitary district, the following six attorneys are cleared in Judge Taylor's findings:

SAMUEL J. GRAFF, 32 years old, former assistant corporation counsel, appointed through Trustee Rosenberg because of friendship. Received $1,350. "It cannot be said the preponderance of evidence shows he was guilty of misconduct," Judge Taylor held.

JOHN B. KING, 52 years old, son of Judge David F. King of Green county, appointed by President Crowe. Received $11,000. "Evidence which has been introduced is insufficient and fails to sustain the charge," the report states.

CHARLES F. BROWN, 42 years old, appointed through Brennan. Received $7,708. Served through the war, suffered ill health as a result of an infection, which at one time completely paralyzed his left side. "Considering that he has suffered as the result of a superior, in fact, the highest service, one far transcending peacetime service, it would be conjectural and not safely within human competence to hold he had been consciously blameworthy or wittingly guilty of dereliction," the report holds.

A. PAUL HOLLEB, 40 years old, former school teacher and former assistant state's attorney. Received $7,933 for work as an investigator which the report holds could not be held against him as a lawyer.

JOHN M. LOWERY, 50 years old, former assistant state's attorney and former assistant corporation counsel, appointed by President Crowe. Received $4,500. "Evidence fails to make a charge," the report states.

JOHN E. McCABE, 51 years old, former city clerk, former attorney for the city fire department and prominent attorney, appointed by President Crowe. Received $7,500. "Suspicion arises that what he did was meager in many ways . . . bearing in mind a clear preponderance of evidence . . . the commissioner is of the opinion the charges are not sufficiently proven," the judge declares.

WOMAN DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER GIRL IS KILLED

Leaves Scene of Crash; Traced to Home.

Struck by an automobile which failed to stop, Gertrude Juergens, 15 years old, 7930 Elm Grove drive, Elmwood Park, was fatally injured last night. Several hours later Mrs. Ethel Dyke, 30 years old, 722 Lee street, Des Plaines, was arrested as the hit and run driver by Irving Park police.

The accident occurred in the 7800 block on Belmont avenue as the girl alighted from a bus. Gertrude was taken to the West Suburban hospital where she died. Witnesses caught the license number of the car, and it was traced to Mrs. Dyke. She told Sergt. Charles Steffin that she saw the girl placed in another machine, and drove to the Belmont hospital, believing she would be taken there.

Another girl was killed by an automobile last night. She was Lois Wakeman, 4 years old, 2109 South 9th avenue, Maywood. She was struck by the car of Gino Giorgi, 3538 Grand avenue, River Grove, at Division street and Austin avenue, Oak Park.

These deaths and four others increased the Cook county motor toll to 533 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Earl Lundberg, 29 years old, 1410 Bryn Mawr avenue. Died of injuries suffered Sunday in a collision of three automobiles in Rand road, near Des Plaines.

Mrs. Nellie Wilson, 54 years old, 5824 North Washtenaw avenue. Died in the Rogers Park hospital. She was hurt July 5 in a crash of two machines at California and Touhy avenues.

Nicholas Boernhofen, 67 years old, 3709 Janssen avenue. Died at the Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries suffered on July 6, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Edward Kroll, 5008 Pensacola avenue, at School and Lincoln streets.

JONES CHOSEN FOR COURT RACE ON 78TH BALLOT

Ends Two Day Deadlock of Democrats.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Vandalia, Ill., July 8.—[Special.]—Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton won on the seventy-eighth ballot today for the Democratic nomination for supreme court judge for successor to Justice William M. Farmer, retired, in the special election in the Second supreme district Aug. 31.

The breaking of the stalemate followed the releasing of the delegates by the four candidates. At the close of the 78th deadlocked ballot Judge Franklin R. Dove of Shelbyville, Judge Jones, Judge Wilbur A. Trares of Edwardsville and Judge A. Clay Williams mounted the platform one by one and told the county delegations which have been supporting them for two days that they were free to vote as they chose and instructions were lifted. On the next ballot the delegates voted with little change, but on the 77th roll call, the march to Jones started.

The Crucial Ballot.

He had finished the 77th ballot with 81 votes. On the 78th Clay county swung its five votes from Dove to Jones, Marion county gave him two more votes than before, Montgomery county added eight. This put Jones within 9 votes of the necessary 113. Then Macon county, which had been fighting between Dove and Jones, recessed and cast its entire 14 for Jones, and he was across the line.

Arthur Roe of Vandalia, a Dove leader, jumped up and on his motion Jones' nomination was made unanimous.

The results of the deciding 78th ballot, which were not tabulated by the secretary, were as follows: Jones, 93; Dove, 82; Trares, 41, and Williams, 23.

A demonstration was staged by the delegates, who have been ball balloting for two days, and Judge Jones spoke briefly.

"This is the greatest honor that could come to me," he said, "my great ambition when elected will be to maintain the high tradition set by the supreme court justices who in former years have sat from this district."

Ran for Governor in 1924.

Judge Jones has been on the Circuit bench 11 years. As the Democratic nominee for governor in 1924, he polled 1,331,000 votes in the face of the Coolidge landslide, getting almost twice as many votes as Davis for president. He has been one of the active spirits in the judicial advisory council which have been working for court reform in Illinois. The 2d district, which embraces 21 counties in Egypt, The Republicans hold their nominating convention Friday in Alton.

The district is known for its judicial deadlocks. It set a record in 1920 when it took 320 ballots to nominate Justice Jesse J. Phillips as successor to Justice John Schoefield, who had declined President Cleveland's appointment to the chief justiceship of the United States supreme court. Just before the supper bell rang this evening over at the Evans hotel Charles A. Purdunn, a Clark county delegate, let out a blast against the convention.

"The convention," he said, "can't go into a marathon for the world's sitting championship."

A caucus was held and soon after the opening of the evening session Judge Dove mounted the stage. He released his delegates from Christian, Clay, Effingham, Fayette, Jasper, and Shelby counties, who had stuck by him solidly.

"It seems to me," he said, "the time has come to get down to business. I release by delegations. Let us not forget the work of this convention must be ratified at the polls."

Judge Jones followed in similar strain, and after him Judge Williams, who had the 13 votes of Calhoun and Pike counties all the way through. Judge Trares made the releases complete—Madison county with 41 votes had stuck with him from the start.

After this the breaking of the deadlock was accomplished in a quarter of an hour.

ALCOCK ORDERS POLICE TO PUT ON LONG PANTS

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock yesterday ordered the police to discard their puttees and put on long uniform trousers on July 23. The order resulted from an investigation by Dr. Elmer Mosley, police physician, during which it was found that the puttees in many cases had caused infection and varicose veins. The motorcycle and mounted traffic police will continue to wear the puttees, however, for their practical value in that work. Nearly a year ago Alcock banned the Sam Browne belts and more recently he did away with the high military coat collar.

U. S. PROSECUTOR AIDS CONSUL IN CONTEMPT FIGHT

Governor Sends Report to State Department.

Mexican Press Aroused

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—(AP)—The sentence of six months in jail meted out to the Mexican acting consul, Adolfo Dominguez, at Chicago yesterday on a charge of contempt of court brought an immediate reaction in Mexican newspapers today. Press comment linked the incident with the shooting of two Mexican youths at Ardmore, Okla., several weeks ago and the slaying of the Mexican, Ruben Pardo, near San Diego, Cal., recently. El Universal Grafico said in an editorial that it is convincingly proved that "Americans don't like us."

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson tendered his services yesterday to Adolfo Dominguez, acting Mexican consul in Chicago, whose commitment to the county jail on Tuesday on a contempt citation issued by Municipal Judge Thomas Green precipitated an international incident between the Mexican and U. S. governments.

Gov. Emmerson also took a hand in the case, an agent of his having spent the day studying the facts in the case as the basis for a secret report, which the governor transmitted last night to Acting Secretary of State Castle in Washington, The state department had requested action from the governor as the chief executive of Illinois.

Is Unofficial Action.

The United States attorney, in assigning his assistant, Joseph A. Struett, to coöperate in the case with Señor Dominguez's lawyer, T. Russell Baker, emphasized that he was acting unofficially and without instructions from Washington. He wished his action to be regarded only as a friendly gesture to the official agent of a friendly neighboring republic, Mr. Johnson said.

"The jurisdiction vested in the courts of the United States in cases and proceedings against ambassadors and other public ministers or their servants, or against consuls and vice consuls, shall be to the exclusion of the courts of the several states."

Cites the Constitution.

Mr. Baker also cited the second part of the third article of the constitution, to wit: "In all cases affecting ambassadors, public ministers, and consuls the Supreme court of the United States shall have jurisdiction."

"It couldn't be any more definite than that," Mr. Baker commented.

Undismayed by the intervention of the governor and United States attorney, Judge Green announced that "Not even President Hoover could make me change my mind about that contempt citation." As for an apology, the suggestion provoked the judge to laughter.

The whole case will be aired next Monday, it is expected, when the writ of habeas corpus, by which Señor Dominguez was freed after four hours in jail, comes before Superior Judge Burke in Criminal court for a hearing.

WIVES OF WORLD FLYERS IN CRASH AT OHIO AIRPORT

Both Uninjured, but Trip Home Is Delayed.

Columbus, O., July 8.—(AP)—Flying westward in the "Winnie Mae," the plane in which they completed a record breaking round the world flight last Wednesday, Harold Gatty and Wiley Post were delayed here tonight when another ship bearing their wives cracked up as it landed at Port Columbus shortly before 6 o'clock.

F. C. HALL.

Mrs. Post, Mrs. Gatty, and Pilot Marshall Headle of Los Angeles narrowly escaped injury when their plane, a sister ship of the Winnie Mae, ground looped, breaking the landing gear and the tip of the left wing.

Landed Plane Cross Wind.

Headle, chief test pilot of the Lockheed Vega corporation, expressed the belief he damaged a wheel in taking off from municipal airport, New York, this afternoon, and that it gave way on the runway here. Airport officials said the plane was flying cross wind before it landed.

Post and Gatty, accompanied by F. C. Hall, financial backer of the world flight, brought the Winnie Mae to earth three minutes before the arrival of their wives and were standing near the runway at the time of the accident.

The party had planned only a brief stop here for refueling before flying to St. Louis to spend the night. After inspecting the damaged plane, however, Post and Gatty announced they would remain until morning. Meanwhile the damaged plane will be repaired and it was hoped to have it ready for a takeoff at dawn.

Run to Aid of Wives.

A crowd, on hand to greet the famous flyers, circled the damaged plane and first reports were that the passengers were injured. Post and Gatty together with Hall ran to the ship and aided their wives and Headle from the plane. They were shaken up considerably but were unhurt.

It was learned after the crash that two officials of the Lockheed Vega corporation who had planned to accompany the women had changed their minds just before the takeoff from New York. They were Capt. Carl B. Squier, general manager, and Jack Miller, sales manager. The start had been delayed several hours by poor visibility.

Gets 45 Years for Theft of 90 Cents and an Auto

South Bend, Ind., July 8.—[Special.]—George Daoust, 19, was sentenced to serve forty-five years in prison by Judge J. Elmer Peck today for the theft of 90 cents and an automobile. Daoust engaged police in three gun battles here a week ago, in one of which Gertie Strobel, 16, his sweetheart, was fatally wounded. He surrendered last Sunday and pleaded guilty to robbery and banditry charges.

ROUTE OF SEATTLE-TOKIO FLYERS

Above is shown the route being flown by Reg L. Robbins and Harold H. Jones, Texas flyers who are attempting a non-stop refueling flight from Seattle to Tokio.

The flyers left Seattle early yesterday morning and expected to refuel over Fairbanks about midnight. A second refueling contact is to be made over Seward peninsula, Alaska. From there they will fly the route shown on the map above to Tokio.

FIND DEFECTS IN FIVE OF 8 NEW U. S. CRUISERS

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Defective stern posts have been discovered in five of the eight newly commissioned 10,000 ton cruisers, built under the terms of the Washington and London treaties, it was learned at the navy department today.

Among the five is the U. S. S. Chicago. The others are U. S. S. Chester, Louisville, Augusta, and Northampton. The stern posts of the five ships cracked while making full speed trials, the department reports. Whether this was due to faulty castings or an error in design, is being investigated by the board of naval construction.

The defect was first noticed about five months ago in the Chester, following her trials. The Chester has already been repaired, the bill of $13,000 being charged to the builders, the New York Shipbuilding company. The Augusta was built by the Newport News Dry Dock and Shipbuilding company, which will also be required to pay the cost of repair. The Chicago and Louisville were built in navy yards, and the contract liability on the Northampton has lapsed.

VENEZUELA VOTES NEW PRESIDENT HIGHER POWERS

CARACAS, Venezuela, July 8.—(AP)—The legislatures of all the twenty states in Venezuela have ratified amendments to the national constitution which meet the conditions imposed by Gen. Gomez. Gen. Gomez, who was elected president of Venezuela last month, informed congress he would be unable to accept the post unless the constitution were amended to place the army under the chief executive and to restore the presidential powers of appointment, of calling congress into special session, of declaring war and of suspending constitutional guarantees when such action was deemed advisable.

Ex-Legislator's Daughter, Mrs. D. Rodgers, Divorced

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Burke Rodgers, 33, daughter of James Francis Burke, former congressman and counsel for the Republican national committee, was divorced today from Donald S. Rodgers, a broker, on the ground of desertion.

$70,000,000 TOWN SOLD FOR $250,000 AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Charleston, W. Va., July 8.—(AP)—The wartime town of Nitro, W. Va., built by the government for approximately $70,000,000, was sold at public auction today to the Nitro Industrial corporation for $250,000.

Thirty factory buildings, erected for the manufacture of explosives, their equipment, nearly 1,000 acres of land, and 432 residences were sold.

The property was owned by the Charleston Industrial corporation, which purchased the wartime city from the government in 1921 for $8,000,000. A foreclosure action resulted in Federal Judge George W. McLintic ordering the holdings sold to satisfy a government lien of $950,448.

The Nitro Industrial corporation was formed by a group of Charleston lawyers and engineers. They said they intended to put the property up for resale.

DRAINAGE BOARD PASSES PENSION FUND ORDINANCE

The sanitary district yesterday passed an ordinance creating a pension fund for all employes of the district. A state bill authorizing the creation of the pension board was signed earlier in the day by Gov. Emmerson.

Funds for the pension will be obtained from a tax of .08 mill and deductions from employes' salaries. Male employés will be assessed 4¼ per cent and female employés 3½ per cent. The limit on salary assessments and for pension calculation was set at $3,000.

The pension ordinance is to be retroactive. Five members are to constitute the board, two of whom are appointed by the district trustees and three by the employés. Harry Wallace, assistant clerk of the board, who sat on the city pension board for 12 years, and Philip Harrington, assistant chief engineer, were appointed by the drainage board.

DAD IS CONFIDENT

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The thoughts of a snow white monoplane winging its way towards Japan by way of Alaska at a hundred miles an hour were constantly in the mind of John P. Jones as he went calmly about his duties yesterday as superintendent of the Portland block, 35 North Dearborn street.

Mr. Jones, 70 years old, ruddy faced and silver haired was visibly happy because that plane carried his son, Harold, as one of its two passengers. And because that son is "a good careful flyer," the father is confident that the white wings of the Fort Worth will come to rest on Japanese soil.

Trust Son's Flying.

"Nervous? Oh, a little," admitted Mr. Jones. "But Harold doesn't do any foolish tricks or stunting, so we're pretty sure he's going to get across. We know, his mother and I, that he has made up his mind to do it, so we'll just have to trust to luck, that's all. While my wife doesn't show it, I know she's worried, and proud, too."

Until three years ago Harold didn't know the first thing about aviation, his father said, and his first lessons were received from a Mexican between Tampico and Mexico City. Harold was then manager of the Tampico fields of the Midland Oil company, of which he is now president, with headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex. He decided it would take less time to make business trips by plane, so he learned to operate one."

Flyer Born in Chicago.

The flyer was born in Chicago 36 years ago and educated in the public schools here. Before the world war he went with his father to Mexico, where the elder Mr. Jones was superintendent of motive power for the Tehuantepec National railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones plan to follow the flight of their son by radio at their summer home at Long Beach, Mich. The family lives in Oak Park.

NOBODY LABORS ON THIS IDYLLIC SOUTH SEA ISLE

Eunice Tietjen, Poetess, Tells of Life There.

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Moorea, in the Society islands, as described by Eunice Tietjen, poetess and author of juvenile books, is the most idyllic spot in the South seas—and perhaps this is the cause—is the most difficult of access.

And not because it is far from the beaten track—it is only five hours in a forty foot steamboat from Papeete—or because it is one of the least frequented islands in the Society group, but because to arrive there one must first go through the customs house at Papeete, capital of Tahiti. Tahiti and Moorea are French possessions.

Miss Tietjen, her husband, Cloyd Head, playwright and former manager of the Goodman Memorial theater, a branch of the Art Institute of Chicago, and her 10 year old son, Marshal, arrived in Papeete, en route for the town of Paieleia, in Moorea, last fall. They spent the next two days clearing their baggage through the customs.

Worth It, She Says.

They each carried typewriters; they had cameras and rolls of new film, and before they could be officially admitted to this remote branch of the French republic they were compelled to tramp through the sun to seven different customs bureaus, from sunrise to sunset for two days. But, it was worth it, Miss Tietjen declares.

Not in the least enervated by the intense heat that has caused suffering in New York and throughout the United States for the last few days, Miss Tietjen today sent Marshal off in the Minnesota timberland as a change from the Moorean tropics, packed her suit case, told a reporter about life in the South seas, and caught a train for Chicago, all within an hour's time.

And the life as she described it, centered to the sound of passing street cars on Bleecker street outside her studio apartment, seemed almost too good to be true.

Nothing Happens There.

"If you're tired of the machine age and the swift tempo of modern life, go to Moorea," is Miss Teitjen's advice. "I think it is perhaps the most unspoiled spot in the world—and the most beautiful. But nothing ever happens there. We were there nine months and not a single thing happened—literally. The natives have no religion, no tribal customs, no folk lore, no rituals—and they do no work. They just lie out on the beach and sing and dance and giggle."

Miss Tietjen and her husband lived in the only modern house in the village at Papeiete—with a population of 250 Polynesians, a Chinese storekeeper and four white people—overlooking the beautiful bay of Foatoia, as described.

Food Comes From Store.

Although a bread-fruit tree grew in their "yard," they ate bread bought from the storekeeper. A Polynesian girl cooked them food in the Polynesian conception of western cooking, mostly from cans, and on rare occasions, at ceremonial feasts, they ate pig baked on hot stones underground, covered with leaves.

Although the bay was full of fish, Miss Tietjen said, they were difficult to procure unless one went fishing oneself. The natives couldn't be bothered. They simply sat around, sang, smoked their long, home made cigars, and went to the cinema on its weekly outing.

MARJORIE LIVINGSTON.

Sues Surface Lines

Miss Marjorie Livingston, 1819 North Park avenue, winner of a prize in a recent radio vocal contest, filed suit for $25,000 yesterday in the Superior court against the Chicago Surface Lines.

She asserted in her bill, prepared by Attorney Anne Burrows, that the taxicab in which she was riding was struck by a street car at Walton place and State street on Jan. 23. As a result of the injuries and shock which she sustained, Miss Livingston alleges, she was unable to use her voice for concert purposes for several months.

She is studying for the opera under Mme. Hannah Butler and will sail for Europe within a few weeks to study there, she said.

FEAR MISSING AIRMAN EATEN BY CANNIBALS

ADELAIDE, Australia, July 8.—[Special.]—A missing airman named Trist, it is feared, has fallen victim to New Guinea cannibals near Zenang. More than a month ago he left for the mountains in bad weather and has not been seen since.

A report from New Guinea today stated that two natives declared Trist's airplane crashed in the brush and that Trist, who was ill, walked to the nearest village and endeavored to make friends with the natives, but they struck him down and ate him at a festival. The plane, it was said, then was looted and buried.

Although the story has not been confirmed, it is feared it may be true, for the natives of that area are hostile and recently shot arrows at Trist's machine when he was flying low over their huts. A land party of 50 natives and a white man seeking the flyer were forced to return because of the hostility of the local tribes.

Trist was a Royal Australian Air Force pilot until 1929, when he entered the service of the New Guinea Airways.

Finish Club Smokestack Asked by City Inspector

The Hamilton club yesterday completed a fifty foot extension to the smokestack on its building at 20 South Dearborn street. The extension was put up at the request of Frank A. Chambers, city smoke inspector, who had received a number of complaints from tenants of the First National bank building and from the Morrison hotel that smoke from the old stack, which was below the tops of the other buildings, frequently drifted into windows. Chambers inspected and approved the extension yesterday.

Holds Up Pair as They Stand Beside Disabled Car

He forced them into Jameson's car and at Buena avenue and Sheridan road took $75, a $100 watch, and a $1,000 ring from Jameson, and $60 from Mudelman.

School Engineer Granted Continuance in 'L' Bombing

John Graff, school board engineer and flat building owner, charged with bombing the elevated tracks in the yards near Howard street Sunday, was arraigned in Felony court yesterday before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan and granted a continuance until July 14. Graff confessed he had attempted to bomb the "L" yards when arrested later by police. Only one bomb exploded, with little damage.

MOSLEY AND HIS NEW PARTY SIT ON OPPOSITION SIDE

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, aggressive young Socialist and founder of the "New Party," completed his break with the Labor government by leading his flock of four across the floor of the house of commons today to seats in the opposition.

Labor members jeered and shouted, "home again" as Sir Oswald took his seat on the extreme left of the Conservatives. By his side sat Dr. R. Forgan, who has been appointed whip of the Mosleyites. They were joined by Sir Oswald's wife, Lady Cynthia Mosley, and other members of his little band. Although only five strong in the house of commons, it now definitely ranks as an opposition party.

By relinquishing his seat on the Labor side, Sir Oswald, originally elected as a Conservative member of parliament, was not exactly back home. For he did not rejoin the Conservative party.

WAGE CUTS BREED COMMUNISM, DAVIS WARNS EMPLOYERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 8.—(AP)—United States Senator James J. Davis, Pennsylvania, said in a statement here today that it was "not alone bad business" for employers to reduce wages, "but it destroys the individuality and the morale of our own people and takes them out into the open highway of communism, which means the destruction of our form of government."

The senator's statement was made in connection with a discussion of the debt moratorium.

"Hoover's moratorium," he said, "has sent a golden stream of good will into all nations of the world. Let us, too, send the spirit of good will to all our people, and see to it that no one shall go hungry while we are emerging now from this, the world's greatest depression."

38 MILLION DUE CREDITORS ON '29 TAX WARRANTS

McDonough Figures Show Actual Situation.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Loans amounting to $38,662,000 are still unpaid to citizens, banks, investment houses, insurance companies, and others who supplied cash to the city and its school system on tax anticipation warrants for operating expenses in 1929. More than a third of the 1929 taxes, which fell due in May this year, have not been paid.

JOS. B. McDONOUGH [Wallinger Photo.]

County Collector Joseph B. McDonough, after careful calculations, concluded yesterday that when collections for the 1929 tax year are completed the city and the schools will still owe their creditors about $34,000,000.

Required Money Seen Lacking.

In his estimates the collector allotted every dollar which had been collected on the 1929 taxes, without the required deductions for collection and extension of taxes, and then produced figures to indicate that some of the nine city and school funds, against which tax anticipation warrants have been issued, would lack sufficient money to pay the warrants and promised interest thereon.

The city and the schools have not yet returned all of the money which they borrowed for operating purposes in 1928. Those unpaid debts total $11,685,000.

For both 1928 and 1929 the city and schools still owe $50,327,000 in tax anticipation warrants, and $6,000,000 more in judgments.

Believed Unable to Pay.

For the tax year of 1929 the city and the schools decided that the property owners should be assessed $145,886,297 for their support. They then issued tax anticipation warrants for $112,609,000 against these taxes. So far the taxpayers have paid only $89,025,075.02. Therefore it appears that with the taxes in hand the city and schools cannot pay off the tax warrants outstanding.

Collector McDonough estimated that he may collect $6,996,000 more on the 1929 taxes before he starts collecting the 1930 taxes on Jan. 1 next. Of this $6,996,000 the treasurer says that the share for the city and schools would be about $4,600,000. He said that he was hopeful of getting in a larger sum, but has been conservative in his estimates that the tax expending bodies may have a reasonably safe figure on which to do their reckoning.

Fund in Bad Condition.

At present the educational fund of the school board appears to be in the worst condition. For that fund $54,336,927 was levied in taxes. So far $32,529,859, according to Collector McDonough, has been collected for that fund, and $31,687,289 has been paid over to the school board.

Against the education fund the school board issued and sold $46,800,000 in tax anticipation warrants, of which $28,163,000 have been called for payment. There still remains unpaid $18,637,000 in tax warrants, all of which are held by the public, and a prospective $2,300,000—to be gathered in the future, with which to pay off this indebtedness.

Must Pay, Say Lawyers.

It is the opinion of the city, school and tax lawyers that eventually the borrowed money must be repaid. The budgetary law requires that appropriation must be made in 1932 to pay the holders of warrants. If the school board gets $2,300,000 more on 1929 taxes before the end of the year, it will still owe $16,000,000 on the 1929 tax warrants. It also must appropriate, against its educational fund, $3,250,000 which the board still owes on its 1928 tax warrants—a total of $19,250,000.

Altogether the city and schools have called for payment $73,947,000 out of the $112,609,000 originally issued. That leaves $38,662,000 of these warrants unpaid, with less than $7,600,000 in 1929 taxes—only two-thirds of which would go to city and schools—expected by the collector before the end of the year.

STEAL TRUCKLOAD OF DRUGS.

Rueben Leander, a driver for Kissproof, Inc., makers of cosmetics, was robbed yesterday of his truck and truckload of drugs, valued at $12,000, by two gunmen who stopped him a block south of the factory at 4316 North Kilpatrick avenue.

ONE MAN ELECTION DISTRICT NO MORE; LONE VOTER MOVES

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—George Schraeder of 226 West 38th street, who compelled the board of elections to maintain an election district for his exclusive use for the last two years, has moved to 302 East 57th street, and the one man district was abolished today by the elections board.

On each primary and election day Schraeder held the center of the stage in his district. For his sole benefit the city maintained primary election inspectors, registration inspectors, election day inspectors and police officer.

The cost of recording Schraeder's vote each year was about $400, which included the necessary stationery and supplies and the cost of trucking them to and from the polling place Schraeder's new address is in the 14th assembly district.

TAXPAYERS' BODY ASKS 1 PER CENT LIMIT ON LEVIES

Brittain Committee Gets Plan.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, of which Cornelius Teninga is president, submitted a revolutionary idea last night to the governor's revenue committee headed by Joseph K. Brittain. This committee will meet this evening at Union League club and members of the Chicago real estate board and of the taxpayers' organization have been invited to attend.

The tax solution proposal was made by the taxpayers' organization in accepting the committee's invitation yesterday. One of the association's remedies reads:

"A maximum tax rate of one per cent of the full fair cash value should be established by law to protect personal property and other forms of wealth from confiscation."

Would Mean 60 Per Cent Cut.

That proposal, if adopted, would mean a cut in real estate taxes of about 60 per cent. Chicago's estimated rate on full fair cash value for the 1929 taxes, payable May 15 last, is 2.275 per cent, and the estimate for the 1930 is 2.58 per cent.

This is in contrast with the formal statement of the Chicago Real Estate board, to the Brittain committee, on the same subject. The board makes only this general statement:

"It is needless to say the Chicago Real Estate board believes in the soundness of a program of governmental economies, and for the economic benefits of consolidation of the overlapping tax-spending bodies, and in the absolute necessity for spreading the base from which revenue is derived over a broader area than it now covers."

The theory of the real estate taxpayers' organization is that if it can get a maximum rate of one per cent, then more taxes must be collected from personal property or the governments will not have enough money on which to operate.

Urge Funding of Debt.

Among the other recommendations of the real estate taxpayers' organization are the following:

"A funding of the accumulated indebtedness, to an amount that will insure the re-establishment of their credit.

"The funding of the 1930 assessment, or a reassessment for 1930 that will provide an equitable spread of the tax and insure a collectible levy.

"The establishment of an efficient and effective assessment machinery that can and will assess taxes on the basis of constitutional and statutory provisions. This means a reasonable compliance with the law and the actual assessment and collection of personal property taxes in Cook county."

"Beyond Ability to Pay."

In the letter of acceptance, signed by James E. Bistor, chairman of the executive committee, it is asserted:

"In our memorandum to your committee we sought to demonstrate that the real estate of Cook county lacks the tax paying ability to produce sufficient funds to retire the outstanding obligations and meet the 1930 tax assessment."

The Brittain committee has invited Henry E. Cutler of Chapman & Cutler, lawyers specializing in validity of bonds, to help pass on plans of funding tax levies by bond issues.

Greeter Gaw to MakePolice and Bellhops Cheery Chaps

Col. George G. Gaw, Chicago's official glad-hander recently appointed by Mayor Cermak, yesterday announced plans to make of every bellhop, policeman, conductor, and taxicab driver a hale fellow with a warm greeting for every visitor to Chicago. At special meetings with these public servants Col. Gaw will explain how to make the visitors feel at home and forget all the evil things they have heard about Chicago.

CERMAK CLASHES WITH NELSON AS COUNCIL USES AX

Vote to Eliminate 54 Jobs at Sanitarium.

After a bitter debate between Mayor Cermak and Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th] the city council without a dissenting vote yesterday approved the elimination of 54 "unnecessary" positions at the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium with an annual saving of $57,062. Although he vigorously opposed immediate action Nelson passed his vote on the roll call.

Another economy ordinance, which was fostered also by the mayor, was withdrawn from consideration at the session because of an oversight in the finance committee draft. This ordinance, designed to trim approximately $2,400,000 from city employes' pay checks, will be submitted again at a session tomorrow.

Nelson Starts Fireworks.

Ald. Nelson started the row on the sanitarium economies which included the abolition of a position held by Mrs. Margaret Mivelaz, sister-in-law of Mayor Cermak's predecessor. In the argument of over two hours' duration Nelson repeatedly accused the mayor of using his influence to interfere with council procedure, and violating council rules by talking from the rostrum.

"It is clear to me why this argument has lasted for over two hours," said the mayor near the end. "These speeches by the leaders of the previous administration are for the purpose of sustaining their past position We are either for an economical administration or against it.

"If I had waited for you [Nelson] and your followers to act before making economies the city would not have been functioning on July 1. In one department unnecessary jobs were eliminated that will save the city $1,400,000. In another office there were so many clerks that if they had all been present at one time they would have been packed like sardines in a box."

Asks Sexton's Opinion.

Another exchange took place when, after the roll [illegible] called, Nelson submitted an order requesting Corporation Counsel Sexton for a ruling on the power of the mayor to indulge in debate without the council's permission.

"You might ask him also if I can have horses ridden into the council chambers and house donkeys in the mayor's office," retorted the mayor.

The saving at the sanitarium, the mayor indicated, will be used when a sufficient sum has been accumulated for an additional building to house some of the 800 patients on the waiting list.

Is Compromise Plan.

The other economy ordinance, as approved by the finance committee by a vote of 10 to 2, was a compromise between the various payless vacation and five day week plans which have been suggested.

It would institute a five day week for the balance of the year for all per diem employés, and also for all employés whose pay by the month is based on the per diem pay scale of various unions. Because of fixing on the five day week the aldermen had considered only those who work 5½ days, and not those who work 6 days a week, the ordinance was sent back to committee.

All employés paid by the week, month or year would be docked, under this ordinance, fourteen days' pay, the deduction to be made at the rate of one day for each of the next fourteen semi-monthly pay periods.

Increase Vacation Period.

To counterbalance that deduction, the committee increased the regular two weeks' vacation with pay allowed to city employés to twenty days with pay. Thus the employés who received the fourteen day deduction would actually work only eight of those days.

Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d], who with Ald. Nelson opposed the plan, demanded to know why it was impossible to allow the employés to lay off the days they were not paid instead of forcing them to work eight extra days without pay.

"If we gave them eight days in addition to the extra vacation period," replied Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, "police and fire departments would suffer seriously for lack of personnel."

"We are falling into an international scheme to cut wages," commented Crowe.

Cites Case of Firemen.

Ald. James B. Bowler [35th] pointed out that members of the fire department already have a twenty day vacation and thus would not receive the extra vacation "bonus" granted the other employés. At his suggestion and as a concession to the firemen, a subcommittee will be appointed to consider abolition of the fire drill school.

In a nearlier conference with the press Mayor Cermak said he would place before the governor's executive committee of eleven appointed to handle relief tax legislation the question whether he should sign tax warrants to establish a pay roll trust for the board of education.

Willing to Help Teachers.

"I understand that the proposed warrant trust has no legal standing," he said, "and that the teachers do not want certificates of a trust fund or any kind of scrip. However, I will do anything possible to help the teachers get their money."

While Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board, was appointing a committee of five members to cooperate with other governmental agencies to formulate relief plans, and Trustee Savage declared for sale of warrants in small amounts to individuals, the city was paying its firemen and policemen and other rolls due up to July 1. The money was obtained through the sale of $800,000 worth of warrants to the police pension fund and of a like amount to the municipal employés pension fund.

VETOES NINE COUNCIL ACTIONS BECAUSE OF CONFLICT WITH CODE

Nine orders and ordinances passed by the city council at its last meeting were vetoed yesterday by Mayor Cermak because they conflicted with the city code. The measures include several changes in the city budget and permits for erection of signs and other minor projects.

A resolution introduced by Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [39th] requesting Gov Emmerson to include among the purposes in the call for a special legislative session an amendment to the gasoline act so that one-third of the tax collected in Chicago would be spent on Chicago streets was sent to the traffic committee.

Two other resolutions were adopted. One called upon the mayor to designate Aug. 15 as Fort Dearborn Massacre day in memory of the day in 1812 when the fort's garrison was massacred by the Indians, and the other directed Corporation Counsel Sexton to give an opinion on the powers of the council to levy a tax of one dollar on every $100 of assessable value of all shares of stock of every bank and trust company, insurance companies and finance corporations subject to taxation in Chicago.

Two in Court as Violators of New State Pistol Law

Judge Samuel H. Trude was confronted in Fillmore police court yesterday with a case involving the new state law, in effect on July 1, regarding the carrying of weapons in an automobile by a man with a criminal record. In order to make a study of the law he continued until July 15 the charges of carrying a concealed weapon brought against Carro Piusso, 21 years old, and John Wilson 37 years old, both of 3501 Armitage avenue, who were arrested when police found a revolver under the back seat of their automobile.

CHARGES SCHOOL NEGLECT CAUSES LARGE LOSSES

Trustee Wants a Bureau to Salvage Property.

Charges of gross negligence in the care of school property were made at a meeting of the school board yesterday by Trustee William D. McJunkin.

"In no case," Mr. McJunkin said, "have I been able to find any one who could tell me even approximately how many desks, chairs, filing cabinets, electric fans, typewriters, adding machines, items of athletic goods and other things belonged to the board, and where they were located. I could not find any one person who was responsible or accountable for any item."

Makes Theft Easy, He Says.

In a long statement which the secretary read into the minutes Mr. McJunkin charged that all the board of education knows is "buy, buy, buy every year and in many cases no one knows whether the items are even used." Because of the lack of responsibility, he said, theft of school property is made easy.

Mr. McJunkin's charges were made after the consideration of suggested economies, made by the committee of the whole in a three hour star chamber session on Tuesday afternoon, had been postponed until Monday.

Wants Salvage Department.

"It isn't necessary to hire an auditing company to find means of the board's economising," Mr. McJunkin said. "I want a salvage department formed to halt this criminal waste of equipment."

The board voted to order the supply office to demand the return of every old article before a new one would be issued and to instruct the Cleveland Audit company to formulate plans for a salvage department.

SCRIP RECALLS CITY NOTES THAT FROZE IN 1920

Efforts by the board of education to issue "certificates of indebtedness" to creditors yesterday recalled the outcome of a similar scheme tried by the city ten years ago. At that time certificates were issued but the creditors found themselves holding frozen paper for more than a year.

Records at the city hall show that in 1920 the city found itself in a predicament about the same as that of the school board now. It had no cash to pay its bills. The council authorized the city to borrow from itself $2,500,000 on "certificates of indebtedness" in anticipation of the issuance of tax anticipation warrants. The certificates were to bear the current rate of interest on tax warrants.

Many creditors accepted the certificates, assured that they were negotiable. But banks refused to take them and it was not until July 10, 1921, more than a year later, after the city had received financial relief by the sale of an $8,000,000 bond issue for current expenditures, that the first certificates were redeemed.

DEBT HOLIDAY LIFTS G. O. P. OUT OF 1932 BLUES

Boom Hero Hoover as Democrats Rage.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—The Hoover international debt moratorium is on, but the domestic debt is off.

Republican leaders are fairly bursting with elation over the successful outcome of the project of the President to establish a one year reparations and war debt holiday and are scrambling to capitalize it for the political benefit of Mr. Hoover in his bid for reelection next year.

Democratic leaders are snorting with rage at the Republican tactics and charging breach of the tacit understanding that in consideration of the bipartisan support accorded the President's moratorium proposal political partisanship pertaining to the project was to be adjourned.

The Democrats accuse the Republican high command, which is under the domination of the White House, with violation of the truce.

Press Agent Is Busy.

James F. West, press agent for the Republican national committee, made a partisan radio speech in which he lauded Mr. Hoover to the skies and named first among his accomplishments the debt holiday plan.

Instead the Democrats waxed almost apoplectic. Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] denounced Mr. West's performance as "a shame" and Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] called it "infamous."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader of the senate, still himself in check until the moratorium had been consummated, and so let go with a demand that the president, having given Europe a one year moratorium, should now give the American people a moratorium on the effects of what he called the "Grundy tariff."

Senator Robinson and Representative John Garner of Texas, Democratic leader of the house and the next speaker, if that body should be organized by the Democrats, were conspicuously absent from the list of those Mr. Hoover lined up in support of his proposal.

G. O. P. Gloom Is Gone.

The Republicans are experiencing the first pleasurable political sensation in months. They have been down in the dumps, fearing that what with the widespread reaction against politics and with hard times, Mr. Hoover was as good as defeated right now for reelection.

Now anything looks rosy to them. They are not even given pause by the thought of what the popular reaction may be to a tax increase to offset the $1 billion dollar loss of revenue from war debt payments this year. They confident a tax raise can be staved off after election.

The Republican leaders are cheered by what they believe to be a recession of the prohibition issue into the background and the emergency of economic questions to furnish the paramount issue of 1932. With the economic issue foremost in the thoughts of the voters, they believe Mr. Hoover will breeze in for another four years term.

Other Cards up Sleeve.

From the viewpoint of the Republican managers, Mr. Hoover has been on the upgrade since the moment he proposed the debt moratorium. They regard the outcome of the negotiations with France and the establishment of the moratorium as adding immensely to his prestige. And they are looking to the remainder of the President's program of foreign policies to make him a well nigh irresistible contender in the struggle for the presidency next year.

The next feat of statesmanship to which the President is addressing himself is world disarmament.

It is being made known in Europe that Mr. Hoover will be extremely cold to any proposal of reducing European demands owed the United States unless Europe proceeds to disarm. Republican leaders are confident that Europe will take the hint and agree to a progressive disarmament and that Mr. Hoover will get the credit for forcing the result and will go into the election the hero of the arms abhorring American people.

Democratic leaders still think economic conditions will determine the outcome of the election and that times cannot possibly improve sufficiently to save Mr. Hoover.

CENSUS SURVEYS SOARING COST OF RUNNING CHICAGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—The financial difficulties of Chicago and Cook county were displayed in figures today in a census bureau report presenting statistics for the city during 1929.

In 1928 the comparative per capita cost for operation and maintenance of general departments in Chicago was $45.98 and for 1917 $22.26, said the bureau. In 1929 the figure was $44.71 per capita.

The total payments for operation and maintenance of general departments and public service enterprises, for interest and outlays, including the county, schools, forest preserve district, and sanitary district were $344,849,951 in 1929.

The total revenue receipts, including the county, schools, parks, forest preserve district and sanitary district, were $101,260,961 or $30.43 per capita. This was $71,534,001 less than the total payments of the year exclusive of payments for permanent improvements, and $143,538,990 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements.

In order to place Chicago on a comparable basis with other cities studied, the census bureau explained, 83.9 per cent of Cook county and the forest preserve district transactions were included, 86.1 per cent of the sanitary district transactions, and the total transactions for schools and parks. The per capita figures were based on an estimated population for 1929 of 3,327,600.

Property taxes represented 28.4 per cent of the total revenue for 1929, 67 per cent for 1928, and 56.5 per cent for 1917, the report showed. The decrease in the amount of property taxes collected was 45.1 per cent from 1917 to 1929, and 32.2 per cent from 1928 to 1929.

The net indebtedness [funded or fixed debt less sinking fund assets] was $306,268,963, or $92.04 per capita.

A New Era in Business

We are going forward into times of better business—business that will be on a sounder and more stable basis than heretofore. Purchasers will be better judges in the matter of Quality; Merchants will be more particular in adjusting Price; Manufacturers will be more careful in Production and will be given opportunity for greater Achievements. Banks, likewise, will be doing a better banking business—more exacting in their requirements and more rigid in their formula.

Success in any business necessitates a justifiable financial return. No one can expect to shear off the wings of profit and see business soar to new heights. The element of speculation in business is yielding more and more to organized effort, and Intelligent Service will have a higher rating than ever before. DETROIT CROWD DEMANDS DOLE OF 100 MILLION

Idle Turn on Their City Benefactors.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—[Special.]—Detroit's effort to solve the mass unemployment problem by an $18,000,000 municipal dole generosity reached a curious phase today. A thousand or so of the dole beneficiaries, finding the bankrupt city on the verge of closing down on free beds and food, gathered at the city hall, denouncing the city welfare workers and the common council and demanded that a welfare fund of more than 100 million dollars be created for them to spend.

MAYOR FRANK MURPHY.

Mayor Frank Murphy and City Controller G. Hall Roosevelt, head of the mayor's special unemployment committee, who have incurred much criticism for their open handed spending of the city funds, found the men, or at least their leaders, had turned on them and were so ungrateful as to demand that the mayor and the controller cut their own salaries down to $3,000 a year, or try living on $1.75 a week, as they had asked the men to do.

Police Called, Sent Back.

It was a hectic day at the city hall, with the police reserves called out one minute and sent back the next, with the council, which is heartily tired of the unemployed burden and sinking in a sea of deficits, bearded in its chamber by the communist leaders of the masses on the streets, and threats heard against the mayor, and talk of the mob taking government into their own hands.

John Schmies, communist candidate for mayor, was the leader of the crowd, which was well organized and controlled by himself and his lieutenants. The council had ordered a lodging house, where 2,000 have been taken care of for months, closed, and they had come to protest. Not only that, but to demand much more. They wanted to take the 100 million away from "the bankers" by having the city stop paying its bonded and other debts for an indefinite period. It was to be a municipal moratorium for their benefit. Nobody was to be allowed to have more than $25,000, and each single man out of work was to get $10 a week, with proportionate increases for family men.

Way Barred by Police.

The mob gathered at 8 o'clock in the morning, and soon the steps of the city hall and the hospitable lawn in front were black with them. Mayor Murphy has followed the English policy of letting the agitators talk all they wanted to and now he was to get his reward. The men tried to crush into the hall, but were barred by the police. There was a little flurry and a lot of booing, and some one sent for the police reserves. When the mayor heard of this he promptly countermanded the order.

The leaders demanded entry.

"Now is the time for action," yelled one orator. "Let's go. All men who are not yellow come forward with me."

There was little response to this and soon the crowd was beguiled by a speech by a Negro mine worker from the West Virginia fields, while some of the more ardent went around telling their comrades they were cowards and deserters.

Council Hears Demands.

Finally it was arranged to let the men fill up the gallery above the chamber where the council was in session, and they trooped in, sitting there quietly except for occasional applause as their leader, Schmies, read a long and carefully prepared communist welfare program on which he demanded action. Among other things demanded were free gas, electricity, food, clothing, milk, medical attention, and dental care, and the city to take over all vacant hotel and private rooms for the unemployed. There was to be no more "forced labor."

To raise this money it was suggested that the sinking and interest fund allotments be diverted, reduction of pay of police 50 per cent, all officials reduced to $3,000, and a ten per cent personal assessment valuation, amounting to $60,000,000, to be turned over to the council of the unemployed.

The council listened to this astonishing proposal in silence, while the noise of the crowd came in the windows. They had no reply to it. They simply filed it and adjourned to lunch.

"We want to eat, too," said a man in the gallery.

Later it was learned that the lodging house which the council had ordered closed would remain open for a night or so longer. The mayor has been opposed to the shutdown of free beds and food. To show that he was unafraid and not in danger he walked out of his office a few minutes after this meeting was over and mingled with the crowds on the street. He was not molested in any way and many shook hands with him.

The city hall demonstrations have become almost a daily habit with the unemployed, who spend all day on the lawns and steps, many sleeping there. They have been growing week by week, a sign of the organizing tactics of the communists. What will happen now, no one will predict. With the mayor and the council at odds over relief work, the industrial situation unrelenting, and the city reduced to appropriating deficits, it is hardly a pleasant prospect from any angle.

A political campaign for the mayoralty is coming on, which complicates matters. State legislative relief, county relief, and the prospect of remote federal relief are talked about. The city in its new budget has attempted to keep its deficit for next year in welfare work down to seven million dollars.

Mayor Orders Survey.

The deficit for the year just closed was $14,500,000 in this department alone. Beside its regular bonded indebtedness, the city has what is called a floating indebtedness of $62,000,000. The mayor has ordered a survey to see if $5,000,000 cannot be cut from the new budget. He has put many economies into effect and has, he says, saved a third of the sums that have been expended for welfare work. The council, a hard headed body of men, seems to think that the welfare department, as dominated by the mayor's committee, does not know just what it is doing or spending. One member said a thorough investigation might cut the roll of those cared for in half.

There are now 132,000 individuals on the welfare rolls, outside the single man contingent which is making things so picturesque around the city hall. The records of welfare investigators show that during six months 292 men and women received relief fraudulently. Of these 233 have made restitution of $10,765, 50 were sent to jail, 9 placed on probation and the other cases settled. One welfare clerk has been sent to prison for defrauding the department and another has pleaded guilty to stealing $207,000, most of which has been recovered.

STATE, CITY REFUSE TO DROP LEA SUITS UNTIL CASH IS PAID

Asheville, N. C., July 8.—(AP)—The state of North Carolina and the city of Asheville today refused to drop civil suits against Col. Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher and financier, and two of his associates, unless ten unless 10 per cent of the amount involved is paid cash in advance.

Luke Lea Jr., and E. P. Charlet of Nashville, another associate, are indicted with Col. Lea in connection with the failure here last year of the Central Bank and Trust company with several millions of dollars in city and county funds on deposit.

Representatives of the bank, the city of Asheville and the state bank commission met today to consider a proposal from Col. Lea that he liquidate his North Carolina indebtedness by a series of regular payments in lieu of the civil actions now pending.

A joint statement issued after the conference said the creditors agreed that after ten per cent of the total amount is paid, consideration will be given Col. Lea's proposition and that a "reasonable system of liquidating the debts could be devised."

The indebtedness includes approximately $1,300,000 which Col. Lea and his associates are said to owe the defunct Central Bank and Trust company and the city of Asheville.

Will Meet Bruening July 25.

Ambassador von Hoesch expressed the willingness of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius to come to Paris to discuss outstanding problems at an early date, but pointed out that, owing to the visit of the English statesmen next week and internal conditions in Germany, it is impossible for them to arrive before July 25.

Premier Laval suggested that in order not to waste time, all the problems to be discussed should be thoroughly studied by both sides and a program for the meeting fixed. This is another way of saying that it is of no use for the Germans to come unless they mean to talk business.

LEGALIZE GERMAN AID

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 8.—Through a special emergency decree, President Von Hindenburg today legalized last night's action of 1,000 leading German bankers, industrialists, and shippers in announcing that they would guarantee foreign credits up to $119,100,000. The decree provides that all German concerns with assets of more than $1,250,000 must guarantee a share in proportion to their assets of a sum up to $119,100,000 for credits which the Gold Discount bank will take up to help Germany over her crisis.

Despite rumors that the discount bank's negotiations for a loan from America have almost been completed, the rates on the German bourse continued to drop and foreign currency withdrawals continued to the tune of between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. The French franc rose, since France is withdrawing funds from Germany and Switzerland.

STIMSON IN ROME TO MEET IL DUCE; FETED BY ITALY

Finds Mussolini Agrees with Hoover Plans.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 8.—Secretary of State Stimson, as unofficial American tourist, tomorrow morning will begin making contacts with European statesmen to determine European readiness to follow up President Hoover's moratorium plan with a general program of disarmament. He will call on Sig. Dino Grandi at the Palazzo Chigi at noon tomorrow and have about an hour's conversation with him.

MR. JOHN W. GARRETT. [U. S. A. Photo.]

The binoculars of all the foreign offices of Europe will be focused tomorrow morning on Mr. Stimson as in cutaway and morning coat he will begin feeling the pulse of Europe, despite the rumors that President Hoover sent him abroad to get him away from the capital while Hoover himself worked out the moratorium plan.

Will Find Italy Docile.

Mr. Stimson will find Italy docile as Premier Mussolini has already put the moratorium in effect and it is acclaimed widely in the press today that Italy's views about hooking up debts and reparations with disarmament altogether coincide identically with Washington's, and therefore no last consultation will be needed here.

While Italy agrees with Mr. Stimson wholeheartedly on his disarmament aims for Europe, it also hopes that Mr. Stimson will take notice of what Fascism has done for the country and every occasion is being taken to give him a good impression. Tomorrow at noon Sig. Grandi will give a luncheon to the American press, and tomorrow afternoon Mussolini will invite all American correspondents to call on him, which invitation he has not attended to them since he came to power.

To Rome From Naples.

Mr. Stimson, fresh from Pompeii and Herculaneum and other cities of archeological interest, arrived in Rome tonight from Naples by motor car and although his visit to Europe is unofficial, he will reside at the embassy. His assistants, Allen Klotz, Carl Rognier and George Ward, an expert in drafting coded messages, were lodged in a neighboring hotel.

Rome is killing the fatted calf and welcoming the secretary like a rich son. He is not dour and silent as he had been thinking, but a fine and gay fellow. Italian songs of praise are ringing tonight, and his biographical accomplishments are given much space in the press. He is depicted as a hard working statesman who begins the day at 5 o'clock in the morning. His temperament is happy and physical harmony has given him mental and moral harmony, to singles say. There is about him, according to the plaudits, an Olympian calm and sympathetic serenity.

Plan Embassy Dinner.

With his cars burning with these praises, Mr. Stimson tomorrow night after his talk with Sig. Grandi at noon and his conference with Premier Mussolini later in the afternoon, will begin his social round with a dinner at the American embassy, at which Ambassador and Mrs. John W. Garrett will be hosts, and where he will again meet Il duce.

On Friday Italy will give the secretary something like a royal reception such as that accorded visiting sovereigns. The whole town is going to be illuminated. Brilliant lights will flow from Capitoline hill and from other buildings and the ancient ruins will be illuminated. A pageant is being planned.

For three days the Borghese palace gallery has been closed, while being put in readiness for the sumptuous luncheon Dino Grandi will offer Mr. Stimson there on Friday. The choice of this museum for Stimson's luncheon is regarded as a signal mark of honor.

PALE AND WEARY, MELLON BEGINS REST ON RIVIERA

CAP FERRAT, France, July 8.—Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury Mellon, looking a bit pale and weary, started his long deferred vacation today on the French Riviera.

The secretary arrived shortly after noon and was taken by motor by his brother, David K. E. Bruce, to the latter's villa. At the request of Mrs. Bruce of Beaulieu, Mr. Mellon refused to see photographers, but he would not permit himself to be quoted except to make a general statement that he was highly contented with the accomplishment of his task in Paris.

AWARDED $10,000

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—[Special.]—For the broken heart she suffered when Albert Fuchs, 66 year old Chicago millionaire, refused to fulfill his promise to marry her, Miss Martha Marie Gullickson, 35 year old Chicago secretary, tonight was awarded $10,000 damages by a jury of eight women and four men. Her suit had been on trial for four days. Miss Gullickson asked for $500,000. Fuchs was not present to hear the verdict returned in Superior Judge Emmet Wilson's court.

Fuchs, testifying today, declared he had called off wedding plans after his fiancée came here from Chicago "because I simply found she didn't care for the things I liked and wanted a bigger property settlement than I offered in a pre-nuptial agreement."

Fuchs told the jurors indignantly that a girl friend of Miss Gullickson's "ran up a phone bill of $64 against me, calling up Martha collect."

STIMSON BEARS DEBT PLAN, LONDON REPORTS

Will 'Ask Europe to 'Name Own Ticket.'

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—When Secretary of State Stimson comes to London at the end of this month, THE TRIBUNE is informed, he will put before the British government a plan for the reduction or cancellation of war debts when or before the Hoover moratorium ends.

The first essential of this plan is that the European powers agree among themselves on what they want and put forward their request to the United States.

Aimed to Help Industry.

The second is that they guarantee that all benefits from reductions in debts and reparations be passed on by each country to its own industries, preferably by reduction in taxation, but in any case in some way so as to contribute to the revival of manufacturing and trade.

President Hoover also demands an agreement for steady and progressive reduction in armaments and that the nations pass on the saving from such disarmament in th same way to industry. If sufficiently strong guarantees are given along these lines, President Hoover is said to have declared he can get congress to agree either to scale down debts heavily or wipe them out.

Experts Meet July 17.

Meanwhile, it was announced today, a conference of treasury experts of all Young plan signatory powers will begin work in London on July 17 to clarify various technical difficulties connected with the moratorium. This meeting will be secret and will prepare a report to be submitted either to a conference of foreign ministers to be held at a later date, or to the ministers separately.

The French are fighting the proposal of a meeting of ministers at London because they fear the "British treasury atmosphere," and fear to meet "hard headed Philip," as they have named Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, who gave them a taste of Yorkshire stubborness when British interests were attacked at the Hague two years ago.

Parley in Berlin, Also.

While the conference of experts is hammering out technical details in London, the real business will be done in Berlin, where Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Minister Henderson will visit on the same week-end. They will discuss the future of Europe with the German statesmen.

The powers to be represented at next week's conference of experts are Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, and Japan, and it is hoped that the United States will send an observer.

MORATORIUM ON ARMS NEXT OF HOOVER'S HOPES

Castle Tells Program in a Speech.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D.C., July 8.—[Special.]—It is the hope of the United States that debt suspension will be succeeded by a general willingness to disarm, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr., declared tonight in an address.

"Intergovernmental debts," he declared, "are, of course, only one of many causes which discourage the striving for renewed prosperity. Even more important, probably, is the stupendous load placed on various nations by unproductive expenditures on armament. We hope that by this temporary relief from intergovernmental debts such good feeling, such a sense of loyal responsibility to each other may be engendered among the nations that all may enter the disarmament conference next year determined to succeed."

First reviewing the reasons which led to the President's determination on the debt suspension plan and the steps taken in its achievement, Mr. Castle again repeated the substance of a statement he had given out earlier in the day, saying: "At no time did the President propose or consider any permanent revision of the foreign debt settlements."

Reparations Right Upheld.

Throughout the discussions, Mr. Castle declared, the integrity of the international agreements as to debts and reparations had, in fact, been constantly upheld.

"Possibly not all men realized just what this bold proposal of the President should do for the world and I am glad to tell you something of what we in Washington who have been in the thick of the discussions believe that it will accomplish," he continued. "Its immediate benefits, of course, affect—most deeply Germany and the Central European countries.

"As a breathing space of a year is given on all these huge intergovernmental payments, Germany will be given an opportunity to put its house in order, and has promised to use the money thus saved for budgetary purposes, that none of it will go into military or naval expenditures.

Collapse of One Hurts All.

"In the complicated interrelationships between nations today, the economic collapse of any one nation must have far reaching consequences on all other nations.

"The President believed, and rightly, that in giving assistance now where it was most desperately needed, the whole world would participate in the benefits. We are beginning to understand that prosperity depends on the prosperity of our neighbors, not on their misery."

The President hoped, said Mr. Castle, that to suspend the debt and reparations payments for a year "might well open the door of hope and thus lead to general economic recovery."

"That," he went on, "I firmly believe it will do if the people of this country will stand strongly back of the government in optimism and in that determination to carry through, which is one of the characteristics of the American people."

INVESTIGATE N. Y. CONTRACTS; QUIZ KIN OF OFFICIALS

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—A nephew of Mayor James J. Walker and a nephew of John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, were supboenaed today for questioning by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the city-wide legislative investigating committee, concerning their activities as salesmen for the Lehigh Portland Cement company.

Both young men, William H. Walker Jr., son of Dr. William H. Walker, the mayor's brother, and Donald Byrne, son of the late James A. Byrne, former borough president of Brooklyn, are said to have been extraordinarily successful in obtaining city business.

Mr. Seabury's assistants have already questioned another of the cement company's agents, Foster Hagan, son of the late James J. Hagan, who was Tammany district leader in the seventh assembly district.

Close friends of both the mayor and of Tammany Leader John F. Curry have been questioned concerning building and supply contracts, but the subpoenas issued today were the first that involved relatives of administration leaders.

CHINESE AIRMAIL PLANE CAPTURED BY MONGOLIANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 8.—A Chinese air mail plane, operating between Nanking and the Siberian border town of Manchouli, was captured by Mongolian soldiers in the town of Beitala, south of the town of Manchouli. Another plane, belonging to the same service, which went to the rescue was riddled by bullets last Sunday, but the aviator escaped.

According to the report received from Harbin, the fate of the German aviators in the captured plane is not known.

The Chinese-European air mail service, which is operated with the cooperation of the German Junkers company, uses German aviators. The captured plane apparently made a forced landing near Lake Dalai-Nor, Mongolia, due to bad weather and was captured by Mongolian military forces which have been threatening the Chinese border for many weeks.

RICHARD J. BARR.

Bills signed included one by Senator Richard J. Barr, Joliet, defining a political party as one which has polled 5 per cent instead of 2 per cent of the vote of the entire state or electoral district in which the nomination is made.

Sanitary District Bonds Approved.

The Busbech bill authorizing the Chicago sanitary district to issue bonds without referendum for improvements totaling $38,000,000 received the governor's approval. Two Igoe bills validating the south park election of Feb. 24, 1931, relative to bond issues for certain improvements, also were signed.

Election bills enacted into law include provisions that the polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 5 p. m.; that votes on propositions shall not be counted until after the vote on candidates; that public policy propositions shall be printed on the main ballot, and nominating petitions must contain a statement of candidacy by the person placed in nomination.

Other Bills Signed.

Among other bills signed were:

H. B. 57-58, Jackson—Provides that nominating petitions shall be filed sixty-six instead of sixty-five days prior to primary.

H. B. 60, Searle—Requires nominating petitions to contain statement of candidacy.

H. B. 63-64, Swanson—Requires that propositions shall be counted after the votes for candidates.

H. B. 271, Ickes—Amends city library act.

H. B. 324, Garriot—Amends motor vehicle law by making reckless driving which does not result in death a misdemeanor.

H. B. 373, Adamowski—Requires building corporations to file annual itemized reports with secretary of state.

H. B. 447, McMackin—Requires railroads to furnish washrooms for employes.

S. B. 417, Barr—Defines political party as one which has polled 5 per cent, instead of 2 per cent of state vote.

S. B. 536, Husbech—Authorizes Chicago sanitary district to issue bonds without referendum for improvements totaling $38,000,000.

S. B. 537, Husbech—Authorizes sanitary district trustees to pass supplemental appropriation ordinance subsequent to approval of a bond issue.

Ten Bills Are Vetoed.

Appropriations totaling $90,975 were included in ten bills vetoed today by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson.

The largest appropriation was $44,860 for paving of drives leading to Lincoln's tomb at Springfield in exchange for three acres of land which the city would give the state. The governor ruled that paving the drives would detract from the beauty of the tomb. For the most part, the vetoes came on bills making small appropriations to persons whose claims had been disallowed by the state court of claims.

The Ickes bill providing for civil service examinations within 90 days whenever vacancies exceed the number of persons listed as eligible was vetoed on the ground that "the bill would provide for holding of more than 450 examinations within six months."

Among the bills vetoed were:

S. B. 26, Cuthbertson—Provides payment of compensation to sheriffs, coroners, and constables and their dependents when disabled or killed while performing hazardous duties. Vetoed because held unconstitutional by the attorney general and in the opinion of the governor.

H. B. 988, Whiteley—Appropriated $2,387 to Charles F. Jennings of East Alton for injuries.

H. B. 861, T. J. Sullivan—Land conveyance for Lincoln monument grounds and $44,880 for paving such grounds. (Vetoed only as to appropriation.)

H. B. 206, Snell—Appropriated $15,000 to Wealthy Fries, Macoupin county, for accident on route 16.

H. B. 858, Branson—Appropriated $5,000 to Geneva Beard, East St. Louis, for accident on hard road.

H. B. 1,172, Allen—Appropriated $2,000 to Union special drainage district, Whiteside and Henry counties, for repair of ditches.

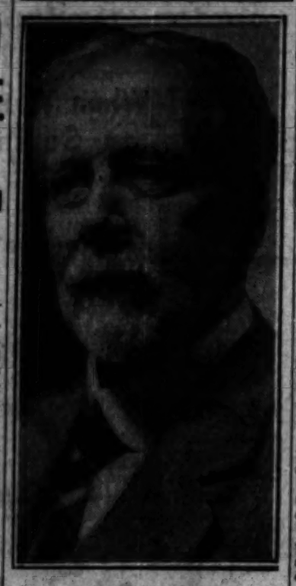
H. B. 360, Ickes—Amended state civil service act as to holding of examinations.

H. B. 994, Bray—Appropriated $5,000 to Thomas W. Connole for injuries while employed by the division of highways.

H. B. 1,107, Hunter—Appropriated $330 for relief of certain persons whose cattle reacted to a tuberculin test and were destroyed by the department of agriculture.

H. B. 977, Lawler—Appropriated $3.98 to Ohio Casualty Insurance company for excess taxes.

STRICKEN



LORADO TAFT.

Muncie, Ind., July 8.—[Special.]—Lorado Taft, noted Chicago sculptor, is in a serious condition here tonight following two collapses within a few hours. On the platform, prepared to give a lecture to students at Ball State Teachers' college here last night, he suddenly complained of feeling ill and collapsed as he left the platform. Taken to the residence of a friend near the campus, he later said he felt better. However, he collapsed again today and was taken back to the campus to Ball Memorial hospital where physicians said he must remain at least several days.

Mrs. Taft was called from Chicago and a consultation with Indianapolis specialists has been decided upon.

Mr. Taft is now 71. His breakdown is attributed to long hours in his studio, on the lecture platform, and to the heat and fatigue of travel.

LEAVE JUVENILE CASES TO STATE, REPORT TO U. S.

Wickersham Commission Completes Survey.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Reporting to President Hoover today on "The Child Offender in the Federal System of Justice," the Wickersham commission on law enforcement recommended that the federal government withdraw almost entirely from the prosecution of juveniles and leave the determination of their cases to state agencies.

Dr. M. Van Waters. [A. P. photo.]

"It is desirable from every point of view," said the eleven commissioners in their summary, "that the federal government be empowered to withdraw from the prosecution of juveniles, where such withdrawal will be in the public interest, and to leave the treatment of their cases to the juvenile courts or other welfare agencies of their own states. The commission recommends the passage of legislation which will have this effect."

The study of juvenile delinquency, which formed the body of the report, was made for the commission by Dr. Miriam Van Waters, consultant to the Harvard Law school crime survey. The study was made under the joint auspices of the commission and the White House conference on child health and protection.

Under the federal law, the commission pointed out, there is no clear distinction between adult and child offender such as is recognized in the laws of the various states.

"The concept of juvenile delinquency," said the report, "is unknown to the federal penal code."

Child offenders, it was explained, are constantly being brought before the federal courts and imprisoned for breaking federal laws. During the last six months of 1930, 2,243 boys and girls of 18 years and under were committed for federal offenses.

The contests will include dead stick landings, parachute jumping, races around closed courses for both men and women flyers, glider contests and competition for builders of model airplanes. One contest will be staged for American Legion men who served in the world war.

698 Homicides in New York in 1930; 494 in Gotham

New York, July 8.—(AP)—There were 698 homicides in New York state in 1930, of which New York City contributed 494. Both figures break all previous records. Dr. Thomas Parran Jr., commissioner of the state's department of health, today issued the statistics with the statement that New York City's killings increased from 425 in 1929 to 494 in 1930, while the rest of the state dropped from 230 to 204.

MacDonald Ill; Suffers from "Internal Chill"

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald was reported tonight to be suffering from "a slight internal chill." He did not attend the house of commons after "question time" and his place was taken by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer. Later it was understood he was feeling much better, but it was said he would rest during the next few days as much as his duties would permit.

DIES OF INJURY IN QUARREL.

Charles Sutton, 62 years old, 329 South Racine avenue, a plumber, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries received Sunday when he was struck on the head during a quarrel.

ACTRESS MISSING 3 DAYS WANTS POLICE TO FORGET HER CASE

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—A formidable delegation of policemen today visited the apartment to which Evelyn Wilson, show girl, returned last night as oddly as she vanished on Sunday, and after an hour emerged, announcing that they had found out nothing.

"Miss Wilson asked that we stop all police investigation," said Inspector Kear. "She was in no condition to be questioned—in a sort of a daze. We could not question her at all until her physician arrived, and then we could not find out where she had been.

"So far as the department is concerned, she was simply a missing person, and if she asks us to cease activities we have little choice but to do so."

Arthur Fitzgerald found Miss Wilson in his cab at 175th street and Broadway when he came out of a restaurant, and drove her to her mother's home.

4 Men and Woman Die After Drinking Alcohol

Brockton, Mass., July 8.—(AP)—Denatured alcohol used as a beverage today caused the deaths of four men and a woman. Three other men were in a serious condition at a hospital. The victims are Mrs. Annie Jacobs, 58; her son, Edward, 36; John E. Blake, 55; George Davidson, 56, and Lloyd Dean, 41. Charles Jacobs, husband of Mrs. Jacobs and father of Edward Jacobs, and Dominic Desormier, 32, and Edward Sullivan, 44, members of the drinking party, were in a hospital.

ICY CONES MAKE WEE WANDERERS LOSE THEIR WAY

Two small girls, wandering alone at Adams and Sangamon streets last night, were taken to the Des Plaines street police station by Patrolman Allan Carroll, lost dog and children expert of the station.

Between ice cream cones and bites of candy they identified themselves as Virginia Rose Hendricks, 7 years old, of Buffalo, Ill., who had been visiting the other child, Wanda Lee Walsh, 4 years old. Wanda Lee told Policeman Carroll that the two had been given money for ice cream cones and as they walked about eating them they became lost.

Carroll took them to the station, plied them with sweets, and finally a call came from Warren avenue station telling of frantic parents searching for the two. Post haste with his charges went Carroll, but in the hubbub of transfer no one thought to get the parents' names or address. Cries of "Mama" and "Wanda Lee" and "Virginia Rose" sufficed to establish relationship to the satisfaction of the station force.

Tobin Starts 6th Term as County School Head

Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools, was sworn in yesterday for his sixth term of office. He was re-elected last November, but in order to avoid administration confusion his previous term of office did not end until the close of the school year. County Clerk Sweitzer, like Mr. Tobin a veteran of twenty years in his position, administered the oath.

SO WASHED-OUT SO UNDERWEIGHT

she wanted to sleep 24 hours a day!

...Now gaining pounds every week—finds work a pleasure

BREAKFAST dishes still in the sink. Beds unmade, marketing to do. Yet she couldn't hold her head up! If only she could get her strength back—only regain the weight she had lost.

She did—in the simplest, quickest way imaginable! But let Mrs. Wolff, herself, tell you how she did it: "When I started to take Ironized Yeast I weighed myself. Weight 110 pounds, complexion sallow, no energy. I wanted to sleep all the time; didn't give a darn if the work was ever done.

"Two days later: complexion clearing, felt more peppy and cheerful, weight 113. From then on I gained at the rate of 2 pounds a week. I now weigh 117 and climbing steadily. I have an amazing appetite. My nights are no longer restless and there is no amount of work too much for me." Mrs. Anna Wolff, 329 S. Albany Ave., Chicago, Ill.

* * *

Don't think this story applies to women only. Just as often men—"all in", sickly, underweight—are caught napping on the job! But thanks to Ironized Yeast, scores are now repairing strength and energy—gaining clear, healthy complexion, sound digestion—as well as adding pounds of firm, attractive flesh!

Builds Weight! Builds Energy!

What is the secret of this double action? How can one tonic put on firm, healthy flesh so quickly—"10 lbs. in 3 weeks", "22½ lbs. in 5 weeks" in actual cases on record—and at the same time invigorate the whole system?

Here's the answer! Ironized Yeast contains brewers' yeast—the kind richest in tissue-nourishing value. Seven times concentrated, this powerful health yeast is then ironized—treated with three distinct types of strengthening, blood-enriching iron.

GUARANTEED! Ironized Yeast is sold on a "satisfaction or money-back" basis. Thus if you seriously want to round out your figure, clear your skin, gain pep and stamina—you can start right in taking this splendid tonic without a moment's hesitation. AVOID IMITATIONS! Illinois took second rank as it did in 1930, its total for the year just topping the $190,264,853 which Pennsylvania turned in this year, as compared with $230,203,064 for the fiscal year 1930.

Chicago's Share.

The treasury figures showed how the receipts from the First Illinois district, containing Chicago, overshadow the receipts from the Eighth Illinois district, downstate. Of the state total, the First district contributed $183,193,839, as against the Eighth district's $7,605,564.

Two states showed an increase during this fiscal year as compared with last. Colorado's total internal revenue receipts were $15,827,235 in the fiscal year 1931, as against $12,468,450 in 1930. And Virginia showed a total of $112,761,372 as compared with $96,694,128 the year before.

Error Delays Hearing in Paschen Tax Fraud Case

Through a clerical error, Christian P. Paschen, former building commissioner, was not notified to appear for his arraignment yesterday on an indictment charging evasion of income taxes. The arraignment was continued until today by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Paschen's notice called for his appearance on Thursday instead of Wednesday, as intended.

U. S. ACTS TO COLLECT $10,000 FINE OF HAFFA

Action was started yesterday to collect a fine of $10,000 assessed against former Ald. Titus Haffa of the 43d ward, who is serving a two years' term in the Leavenworth penitentiary for violation of the prohibition law. He was sentenced in March last year.

The $10,000 fine was to have been taken from Haffa's $25,000 appeal bond. The government has never collected the fine and yesterday Assistant Attorney Lloyd C. Moody filed a motion for a final judgment before Judge George A. Carpenter in federal court.

The motion names the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company and states that by agreement the fine was to have been paid out of the bond placed by this company in case the appeal was lost. Attorneys for the company were given twenty days in which to file an answer. Haffa will be eligible for release from Leavenworth within two months.

AUSTRALIAN BILL TO CUT EXPENSES PASSES, 44 TO 16

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANBERRA, Australia, July 9.—The house of representatives today by a vote of 44 to 16 passed the second reading of a financial bill providing 20 per cent reductions in governmental expenditures, including salaries, and old age and war pensions.

"It is a scathing commentary," W. M. Huges, former prime minister, said, "on present conditions that after 30 years of the most wonderful century the world has known, the commonwealth has to tell the people they must reduce their standard of living in order to live at all.

"The causes of the depression, which are deep rooted throughout the world, will not be cured unless the downward trend of prices is prevented," he continued. "It is hoped that the nations of the world will come together to deal with the world problem and that the United States and Great Britain will lead in an endeavor to cure the world-wide depression."

SPAIN DRAWS UP DECREE TO SEIZE GREAT ESTATES

Will Split Up Land Among Starving Peasants.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 8.—Awake to the threat of a sickle and pitchfork revolt, the government is prepared to begin immediately the seizure of certain great estates.

A decree providing for the "renting" of tracts near towns where the typical combination of peasant misery and unworked fields belonging to absentee owners is most acute, has been drawn up and will be issued even before the cortes assembles next week if the Socialist and radical Socialist ministers have their way. The conservative elements of the government have agreed, but prefer to wait until the cortes meets when it can be put through as an emergency measure.

Government To Aid Farmers.

All the estates scheduled to be "rented" would be turned over to the peasants for collective farming, with government aid and supervision. It is understood that land which is already being worked advantageously will not be touched.

In dozens of communities of Andalusia and Estremadura, stifled for centuries by the indisposition of the great families to farm their land, the estates are now being offered for sale. The owners for the most part have taken villas at Biarritz.

Even the most optimistic ministers now realize that a reform of this country's medieval agrarian heritage will require years of patient labor. The necessity for immediate collective operation in certain districts if a social upheaval is to be avoided, is recognized. The civil guards already have been hard put to keep the hungry peasants from the land.

Agitator Has Bad Luck.

In the village of Alajar, Dr. Vallina, syndicalist agitator, was urging the Andalusian masses to effect an agrarian reform of their own.

"The big estates must go," he shouted. Cheers burst from swarthy throats. The doctor beamed. "But the obstacle to all reforms is the church," he said. "We have got to expel the monks and tame the clergy. Now, the thing for you to do to show your spirit is to pulverize the hideous statue of the Virgin in the village square."

So they just took the doctor and threw him in a pond.

LATERAN PACT IN DANGER AS ROW BOILS UP AGAIN

Duce and Cabinet to Map Policy Today.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 8.—Premier Mussolini and his council of minister will confer tomorrow morning on what policy the government shall adopt in dealing with the recent papal encyclical attacking Fascism and urging those who take the oath of loyalty to Fascism to make "silent reservations."

The strife seems to be boiling up again and in government circles today the situation was described as alarming, with the Lateran concordat in jeopardy. Observers here believe that the Fascist government will be bound to make some retort to the papal denunciation of Fascist principles.

Writes Conciliatory Article.

However, mystification was caused today by an article by Arnaldo Mussolini in Populo d'Italia, il duce's paper, which was mildly conciliatory, almost condoning the pope's angry outburst, and at the same time explaining the benefits and necessity of Fascist education. This article, which may be considered almost as official, contrasts with intimations from the foreign office that the situation is alarming.

In Vatican circles today the Mussolini article caused much optimism and it was considered as an open bid for the restoration of harmony. In fact, the semi-official Vatican news agency tonight predicted that Premier Mussolini, in his speech before the party directorate next Wednesday, will also be moderate and conciliating.

Says Accord Exists.

From this Vatican source assurance is given that Mussolini in this speech will maintain that the manifestations against the pope during the last week of May were exaggerated and that at least some sections of the Catholic Action society were engaging in politics.

Premier Mussolini, continues the Vatican agency, will maintain that, contrary to what has been said in the pope's recent encyclical, an accord already exists between the Fascists and the Vatican on the subject of the education of youth, since the Fascist government accepted the principles on education published by the pontiff in his noted encyclical of January, 1930.

There is something unusual, it is pointed out, about Vatican spokesmen giving out what Premier Mussolini will say at meetings of his own party, and the impression exists that, despite what is called an alarming situation, feelers are being put out again by both sides for a settlement. Otherwise there is neither rhyme nor reason in this lengthy and intriguing controversy.

Gives Liquor to Pupils; Gets 90 Day Jail Term

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—[Special.]—Frank Merino, 34 year old shoemaker, who served drinks to high school students, was sentenced to ninety days in jail and to pass three years without a drop of liquor in his home by Superior Judge Samuel Blake today. Witnesses testified Merino gave liquor to girls of 15 and 16 and a boy 17.

DENIES PETITION FOR WRIT TO HALT REMAPPING PLAN

Gentzel Refuses Plea of Woodlawn Men.

Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel yesterday denied a petition for a temporary injunction to restrain the mayor and city council from dividing Woodlawn district in the proposed ward remapping ordinance. The petition was filed by Attorney Charles F. Burke for two members of the Woodlawn Business Men's association. It was assigned to Judge Gentzel when it was found that Judge Denis E. Sullivan could not hear it.

ROBERT E. GENTZEL.

Judge Gentzel informed the petitioners that a court of chancery had no right to anticipate the action of the city council to which the redistricting plan had not yet been presented. After an ordinance is passed, he said, he would have a right to pass on its constitutionality, but not before.

Oppose Split of Ward.

Attorney Burke argued that the natural boundaries of the Woodlawn district are the Midway, Oakwoods cemetery, Stony Island avenue and Cottage Grove avenue. This district, the present sixth ward, has peculiar social, political, and business interests which would be damaged by the contemplated plan to split at 63rd street.

The attorney charged that the meetings of the council redistricting committee, headed by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], have been secretive and collusive and that taxpayers were given no oportunity to be heard.

Judge Gentzel refused the motion of Assistant Corporation Counsel Martin Foss to dismiss the petition and ordered him to file a demurrer in order to perfect the record for a possible appeal by Attorney Burke. Burke announced that a new bill would be filed after the passage of the redistricting ordinance, questioning its validity.

New Obstacle Arises.

Although the Gentzel ruling disposed of one obstacle to passage of the remapping ordinance, another arose when County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki pointed out that the redistricting of precincts might entail heavy costs through the necessity of rewriting names in the election board records for the April primary.

"As yet I have no inkling of the committee's plans but I would like to know what it intends to do," Judge Jarecki said.

Later in the day Mayor Cermak answered the judge's arguments, declaring that if the redistricting of precincts were deferred until after the April primary, it might be found that ward committeemen elected for one ward were living in another. The mayor indicated that he would give his support to a reasonable redistricting ordinance.

According to Ald. Bowler, forty-two of the fifty aldermen have been lined up for the remapping ordinance. It had been planned to submit the ordinance to today's council meeting but it was decided to withhold it until the next meeting of the council.

BOY LOST TWO DAYS FOUND IN A SWAMP; WATER UP TO HIS CHIN

South Halifax, Mass., July 8.—(AP)—Joseph Rego, 6, stood in mud and water up to his neck today and welcomed a posse which had been searching for him since he disappeared Monday. Suffering from exposure, the boy was hauled from his precarious position in Thompson's bog at Plympton and taken home, where his first demand was for a piece of cake.

Townspeople and policemen were searching the district today when Gilbert Thompson, town surveyor of South Halifax, saw a hand waving. It was Joseph, his head just above the water and mud.

He ate his cake with relish after three days' diet on berries. Joseph disappeared while on a berrying party.

Seek Uniform Laws to Govern Size of Trucks

A move to secure uniform laws regulating the size and weight of motor trucks was started yesterday by members of the National Motor Truck Manufactures' association as they gathered for their annual meeting at the Stevens hotel. The convention will last the rest of the week. According to delegates the heavier tucks are losing popularity and an increasing demand was noted for the one-half ton, two ton, and two and one-half ton trucks.

YOUTH TO DENY RIBBON MURDER ON STAND TODAY

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

William H. Putscher, 20 years old, who used to rob apartments when the housewives were not at home to buy the hosiery he peddled, is expected to take the witness stand today in the court of Peter M. Schwaba and deny that he murdered a housewife who surprised him ransacking her apartment. Putscher, who is under conviction for one robbery and was indicted for three others, is charged with murdering Mrs. Mildred Heising, who was found strangled to death with a silk ribbon in her apartment at 5830 West Lake street on April 1, 1930.

Putscher is a spruce young man. He was dressed yesterday in a freshly pressed plum colored suit, with a red flowered silk tie. He watched the court proceedings with expressionless face until Assistant State's Attorney Harry Busch read to the jury an alleged confession bearing his signature. Then he sat forward, frowning. Assistant State's Attorneys Busch and Joe Revell are prosecuting the case.

Mother Stands by Son.

Excluded from the courtroom with other witnesses who have not testified, Mrs. Esther Putscher, 1315 Wesley avenue, the defendant's mother, and his father, William F. Putscher, paced up and down the corridor outside. Mrs. Putscher wept most of the time, stopping once to declare, "They're trying to get Willie to plead guilty, but he won't. Ha, why should I take the rap when I ain't guilty?' He's a good-hearted boy. He ain't guilty."

With them was 14-year-old Mary Del Pozo, 4340 West Jackson boulevard, a pupil in Crane high school, who is to be his alibi witness.

Introduction of the confession as evidence was opposed vigorously by defense attorneys Cameron Latterer and David L. Madden. Capt. John Stege, then chief of detectives, first took the stand and identified longhand notes written by himself as made at the time of a conversation he had with Putscher on May 20, 1930, four days after his arrest, in the detective bureau. He then identified a statement dictated by him from the notes and signed by the defendant. He testified:

Told Putscher I Believed Mrs. Heising Was Strangled.

"I said to Putscher that I believed he killed Mrs. Heising, this woman on Lake street. He waited about 30 seconds, then said, 'Well, I didn't mean to kill her.'"

Choked Her With Ribbon.

In the alleged confession to Capt. Stege Putscher described how he jimmied the front door of the Lake street apartment, using a saw blade, and was in the kitchen when he heard a noise and, entering the dining room, saw a woman "with dishwater colored brown hair." She grabbed for him, he ran to the bedroom, returning with a ribbon, the statement said. Then choked her, tied the ribbon around her neck and wrapped her in a blanket.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Busch corroborated Capt. Stege's testimony, pointing out a correction of the word "dishwater" on the statement, which correction he saw the defendant make, he said.

MILLIONS SAVED FOR CHARITY BY COURT DECISION

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 8.—[Special.]—Trust funds amounting to several million dollars were saved to charity in United States District court here today when Judge Fred M. Raymond denied the petition of the Chicago Bank of Commerce to declare trust fund provisions of the will of Charles F. Ruggles, multi-millionaire Manistee lumberman, null and void. The suit marked the second attempt to break the Ruggles will.

Among the charity bequests was the creation of a $100,000 fund to care for needy persons in Manistee. Another trustee fund, including practically all of the estate, estimated at $12,000,000 to $50,000,000, provided that the trustees could give the money to any Michigan educational and charitable institutions they saw fit.

The will, after providing for relatives, friends and payments of certain debts, set aside several million dollars for charity. A niece and two nephews each were left $10,000. Last January they started suit to have the will set aside, but the court decided against them.

The trio then sold their claims to the estate, excepting the $10,000 legacies to Arthur Bevan of Chicago, who in turn conveyed his rights to the Chicago Bank of Commerce. Immediately the bank started suit.

TWIN GIRLS LINKED AT BIRTH SEPARATED BY KNIFE; MAY LIVE

Baltimore, Md., July 8.—(AP)—Twin baby girls who were linked together at birth were separated today by a surgical operation declared to be without parallel in local records.

Indications were the operation was a success, but another will be needed, it was said by Dr. Kyle Golley, who with Drs. E. P. Smith and D. E. Pessango performed the operation at Mercy hospital.

"They were just as bright as ever this afternoon," Dr. Golley said, but he would not predict that they would live. The case of the so-called Siamese twins was similar, but they were joined at the back, and these at the abdomen.

The mother of the twins, 26 years old, insisted that the operation be performed, it was said at the hospital. The babies weighed about four and a half pounds each.

FACTOR AIDS GET PRISON TERMS IN ENGLISH COURT

Jury Out Only Hour; Fraud Charge Upheld.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—Sentence was speedily passed in the London Criminal court today on three men charged with aiding Jacob "Jake the Barber" Factor of Chicago to obtain $5,000,000 from British investors through bucket shop frauds.

The jury was out hardly an hour, at the conclusion of a 12 days' trial, before it returned a verdict convicting Frederick Newberry, Hubert Spellen, journalist, and Burnett Elman, a solicitor, for aiding in operations carried on behind the mask of the Broad Street Press. Judge Gregory immediately passed sentences condemning Newberry to three years' penal servitude, Spellen to 18 months' hard labor, and Elman to 12 months' hard labor. Ninety witnesses testified in the lengthy trial. Six hundred exhibits were introduced.

Swindlers Were Swindled.

The trial brought out that the three convicted promoters, who shared in the frauds, were themselves duped while they were alleged to have been aiding Factor, the former Halsted street barber; A. J. Klein, and Harry Green to swindle the public. The prosecutor built his case around Factor as the "arch conspirator." He declared that Factor had managed to skip with most of the money to America, and that the other two, who got most of what was left, also vanished westward. The judge pointed out in his summing up that the defense had not denied the prosecution's charges that Factor was the principal figure in the "serious fraud" perpetrated on the public with the assistance of Green.

Defendants Deny Charges.

All three took the witness stand and denied the charges in the course of the trial.

Judge Gregory declared that the fraud could not have been accomplished without the aid of Newman, who "deliberately brought into existence 2,000,000 shares without the knowledge as to their use." Spellen was found to have taken active part in the ring's operations, and although Elman's rôle was a minor one he was sentenced with the others.

GUARD ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Harry J. Powers, a money truck guard for the McAuliffe Express company, 816 East 61st street, was wounded in the hip yesterday by the accidental discharge of a revolver in the company's office. J. V. Ryan, president of the concern, was examining the weapon when it discharged.

MICHIGAN BUILDS UP 300 MILLION DOLLAR SCENERY INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Manistee, Mich., July 8.—The Michigan Tourist and Resort association today led a party of historians, chamber of commerce representatives and newspapermen from Grand Rapids, Mich., to this old lumbering and salt mining town on the shores of Lake Michigan, 234 miles by automobile from Chicago. It is the beginning of a three day tour in search of local history and legendary lore to interest visiting motorists.

The business of interesting and entertaining visiting motorists is now rated as the second largest industry in Michigan, bringing $300,000,000 a year into the state, so anything to stimulate the business is considered of economic importance.

Chicago automobile owners also benefit from the enterprise in that the marking of the places of interest adds to the pleasures of driving on this east side of Lake Michigan.

TRACE M'GURN TRUNK IN HIS MANN ACT TRIAL

The government's Mann act case against "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, alias Vincent Gebardi, Capone gangster, was again taken under advisement by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday after additional evidence had been presented.

Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson showed by railway records and the testimony of railway employés that the trunks of McGurn and Louise Rolfe, traveled together from the La Salle hotel at Chicago to Biloxi, via Jacksonville and St. Petersburg, Fla., in January, 1929.

The Rolfe woman, now McGurn's wife, is also a defendant. Previous testimony had shown them traveling together and registering in various hotels.

Park Civil Service Test Gets Laborers for 3 Years

As a result of the civil service examinations held at the south park board stables, 57th street and Cottage Grove avenue, yesterday, labor requirements for the next three years have been met, Col. H. C. Carbaugh, superintendent of employment, estimated. Some 3,000 men were examined for jobs as park laborers. One hundred were put to work immediately and two-thirds of the balance were placed on the eligible list. No other such examination will be held for three years, Col. Carbaugh said.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE SCOTTSBORO CASE.

The Scottsboro case involves nine Negro youths accused of rape in Alabama, eight being sentenced to death. One case came to a mistrial. The evidence which was accepted for the conviction showed that the accused had entered a box car in which two white girls and seven white boys were bumming their way back home from Chattanooga, where the girls had tried for work; that the Negro boys had fought the white boys and had thrown them out of the car and had then raped the girls. The defense denies the rape, asserting that the Negroes were arrested for entering the car and that the crime was later framed against them.

In upholding the fairness of the trials the state of Alabama, through its prosecuting officials, seeks to show that the sheriff prevented a lynching by raising a posse of reliable citizens to guard the prisoners until the National Guard could take over the situation, and that, although the trials drew large crowds into Scottsboro, the courtroom was protected from disorders and crowd influences; leased convicts. That Chicago should have a disproportionate share of this duty imposed upon it by the self-regarding policy of other states seems not to concern the superintendent. The more convicts to look after, the more important the Chicago branch of the Central Howard association. We think a survey of conditions of criminal importation should be made by some agency less complacent—for example, the police department. Chicago's problem of crime control should not be increased by a deliberate policy in neighboring states of dumping undesirables upon us. If professional reform agencies are encouraging or conniving at this practice they should be rebuked. Protective legislation may be necessary, but at least a decent comity should be established among the authorities of the states to prevent dumping.

THE MORATORIUM.

President Hoover announces the acceptance of the debtor's year in principle and speaks his confidence in the favorable consequences. He adds that good faith and common sense should now cause Europe to seek still more relief in cutting costs of competitive armaments. The United States has contributed $260,000,000 of its revenue to the moratorium without condition or compensation. If Germany and the rest of Europe respond to this financial medication the United States is supposed to participate in the indirect profits. That is the only suggested benefit to America.

Europe has not been inventive of remedies for conditions which have developed as natural consequences of the kind of peace made after the war, probably because remedies would require a sacrifice of self-interest which is expected of no other country than the United States. It is this expectation which makes the European scene one of such hazardous adventure for this country. America assumes such unusual moral responsibilities on each occasion.

Since 1914 there has been the moral responsibility to enter the war, to give men and money without stint, to accept a peace made in extreme avidity without benefit to itself, to join the league of nations, to adhere to the world court, to cancel the debts, to lend Europe large sums of money, to take down American tariff walls, to remove restrictions on immigration, and now to give up a great deal of revenue. These moral obligations are extraordinary in the history of nations. No compensation ever has been suggested for them. On the contrary, any hesitation in accepting the responsibility has led to critical comment on the American character.

When the United States was putting its money into Europe, first for the conduct of a war and afterwards for the recovery from it, there was little warning from international economists that this was dangerous to world stability; that a settlement of the debts, even with a large element of cancellation, would be impossible. If this had been understood when the loans were being made, as it is explained now when they are to be collected, it might have tempered the lavishness of the creditor nation. It should be important hereafter to take into consideration economic truths which seem to be so apparent after the money is gone, before it goes.

Presumably the law of economic relations does not change from one period to another. If cancellation is the only economic possibility then charity is less costly and more prudent than

THE SIMPLE TOURIST.

"I am just a simple tourist and I want to be let alone."—Secretary of State Stimson in Naples.

Oh, friends across the ocean blue,
Please heed this wistful moan:
"I'm just a simple tourist and
I want to be let alone."

He seeks but rest, this modest man;
That's all he asks of you;
So meet him not with a hundred bands,
Two dozen or so will do.

He's just a simple tourist who
For simplicity simply parches,
So when he passes do not erect
More than fifty floral arches.

Let none be at the station;
He dreads fuss and parade;
Have only the standing army,
The police and the fire brigade.

Free from all noise and pests;
So kindly hold your banquets down
To say—two thousand guests.

He'd like to live in a lonely spot
And hear the birdies sing;
Well, Mussolini's house might do,
Or the palace of the king.

So, friends across the ocean blue,
Please heed this wistful moan:
"I'm just a simple tourist and

ANOTHER WORM MEDICINE.

CASTING about for a safe and effective worm medicine, Caldwell and a group of associates at the Vanderbilt university hit upon hexylresorcinol. This medicine, under various names, has been in use for a good many years as an antiseptic for the urinary tract. When given by mouth it is absorbed into the blood and excreted by the kidneys, being changed by this organ into a powerful antiseptic. If the chemical conditions are right, we have thus an antiseptic applied from the inside and in an excellent position to do good service. In the twenty years of its use many thousands of people have taken it pretty indiscriminately and it has proved to be safe. This was one reason Caldwell and his associates decided to try it as a worm medicine.

So far it has been used only as a remedy for the ordinary round worm. A plentiful supply of round worms is obtainable in any hog pen. They experimented first with worms in test tubes. Having proved the ability of the drug to kill the worm they finally tried it on human beings. The conclusion they have arrived at is that it is both safe and efficient. It produces no symptoms in the man or child who has taken it. Given properly, one round will kill 95 to 100 per cent of all the worms in the digestive tract. Given in half doses, it kills 75 per cent of the offenders.

The dose for an adult is 15 grains of the medicine in crystal form, put up in a hard capsule. It is to be taken on an empty stomach, without alcohol or oil, and the dose is followed three or four hours later by salts. The dose for a child is one-half that for an adult. Oils, glycerin, alcohol, or food in the stomach while the medicine is there greatly decrease its efficiency.

Worms do not try to escape from this medicine as they do from carbon tetrachloride. They seem to be content to remain quiet and absorb it. Eggs probably escape. At any rate, it is advisable to follow, say three weeks later, with a second dose in order to kill the worms that have hatched and matured meanwhile, or that escape the first dose.

The remedy has not been tried against thread worms, trichina, hookworm, or tapeworm. Nor have hog breeders used it with hogs, so far as we know.

CHASING OUT NITS.

Mrs. T. McB. writes:

1. Quite a while ago you wrote an article on how to get rid of nits in the hair. I mislaid the paper and would like very much to have you print that again.

2. My little boy, just past three, was constipated, so I started giving him 1 teaspoonful oil [mineral] in the morning and when he was going to bed. I also give him bran flakes in the morning, and he is all right now. However, when he has a bowel movement he passes a lot of oil. It is orange in color. Am I giving him too much oil?

REPLY.

1. Wash the hair with warm vinegar. Then comb out the nits. Wash it in the vinegar. Dry the hair. Use some grease on it.

2. You should try to get the child away from the oil habit. Whatever mineral oil is swallowed will be passed. It does not absorb.

CLAIMS DISPROVED.

Mrs. J. J. McG. writes: In one of your articles you mentioned a plant that if grown in ponds and artificial pools, would prevent the breeding of mosquitoes in these waters.

REPLY.

I presume you refer to charra, though you misquote me. Several years ago it was claimed that if a water plant, charra, was allowed to grow in ponds, mosquitoes would not breed therein. A few health departments tried it and found some confirmation. A government official in the Canal Zone reported that when this plant grew in certain ponds he knew, the growth of mosquitoes was worse. The plant prevented minnows from getting at the wigglettails. The conclusion is that more than one factor must be considered.

Or, you may have read of the claim that certain plants on marsh ground prevented mosquito breeding. I wrote an article saying this claim had been disproved.

URIC ACID CAUSES.

Mrs. J. Q. writes:

1. What causes uric acid?

2. Will orange, lemon, or tomato juice cause it?

3. Will sodium salicylate, 5 grains, affect the heart if taken for rheumatism?

REPLY.

1. You have reference to conditions that may be due to eating too much of the following: Yeast, sweetbreads, kidney, liver, roe, beef tea, meat extracts, very juicy meats. This statement suggests the answer.

2. No.

3. No.

ANTEDATING CHECKS.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it lawful to date a check ahead or not date it at all, when at the time the check was made there was no money in the bank, and when the check was presented the account had been closed? 2. Is it possible in the state of Illinois for a wife to divorce her husband who is insane? 3. Is it possible to obtain a divorce if he has served time in prison before he married her, and she

1. Before signing the contract, the buyer can insist upon any terms he may choose, no matter how arbitrary. After he has signed, his rights depend on the wording of the contract and he cannot demand a survey unless the contract is so worded.

2. No.

3. It is nearly always advisable for a purchaser of real estate to employ an attorney throughout, and we advise you to employ one now.

MEN'S STYLES.

Chicago, July 5.—A. C. S. asks: "Is there no man with sufficient initiative to design a more comfortable and utilitarian summer costume?"

Well, here's my suggestion for men:

Wear shorts and socks and sandals. Then wear a short sleeved shirt, with a tie loosely knitted—or no tie. Wear no coat, but have a belt with pockets, to carry the necessary things such as pocketbook, cigarets, etc. No coat, no hat [give the hair a chance].

This outfit would not only be more sensible and sanitary and beneficial for both hair and feet, but it would also be much more graceful than our present elephant leg trousers and clumsy shoes.

In winter increase the weight of the material, but keep the same design and add heavy stockings [knee length] if necessary, and instead of our ill-designed ugly overcoats wear a cape [loosely worn]. This cape [or blanket] could be in color, or black with ornaments, and with a clasp at the neck [ornamental, if you please] to hold it. If one must wear rubbers, wear them over the sandals.

No hat, even in winter. A. V. R.

BEHEMOTHS ON HARD TIRES.

Chicago, June 17.—In answer to an editorial "Behemoths on Hard Tires" in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of June 16 please allow me to state the facts:

Mr. Frank T. Sheets, chief state highway engineer for Illinois, has repeatedly stated—both publicly and privately—that the present hard roads of the state of Illinois have been built to carry 9,000 pounds per axle, or 8,000 pounds on a wheel, in accordance with the present vehicle laws, and that such loads can be carried on solid tires if they are not less than ten inches wide.

The highway police have strict orders to enforce this law, and do this without apparent discrimination. For this reason the passage of house bill 1139, which would prohibit the use of solid tires after July 1, 1933, is uncalled for because it would throw a tremendous burden on motor truck users of this state, and particularly of the city of Chicago, in as much as the city is not exempted and millions of dollars' worth of equipment would necessarily be scrapped.

It would seem very simple to change the solid tires on these trucks and trailers to pneumatic tires, but in order to secure sufficient pneumatic tire capacity large tires must be used and two tires must be installed on each wheel. The

The defense denies the rape, asserting that the Negroes were arrested for entering the car and that the crime was later framed against them.

In upholding the fairness of the trials the state of Alabama, through its prosecuting officials, seeks to show that the sheriff prevented a lynching by raising a posse of reliable citizens to guard the prisoners until the National Guard could take over the situation, and that, although the trials drew large crowds into Scottsboro, the courtroom was protected from disorders and crowd influences; that the accused confessed and tried to blame each other, and that of four juries used one remained out all night before reaching a verdict and another all day.

The defense now has the support of various radicals and liberals, organized and unorganized, including a communist group and an organization for the advancement of colored people. The interest of the communists in the case is self-explanatory. It is used to create a consciousness of class oppression among colored people who are to be persuaded that their enemies are not whites as such but whites as capitalists. The Alabama villagers, farmers, and poor whites are the exploiters of the proletariat. In support of this theory European communists have been breaking the windows in the houses of American consuls.

The liberal mind merely assumes that the accused could not have been guilty of the crime. That was the assumption in the Sacco-Vanzetti case and it is also the assumption in the Mooney and Billings case. In liberal opinion society is so organized in Massachusetts, California, and Alabama, as indicated in these three instances, that justice, however careful it may pretend to be of its forms and procedure, is impossible of attainment. In other words, the American people, as revealed in three widely separated sections of the country, are consciously and schematically vindictive and ruthless and appear in their judicial system to be beyond the reach of considerations of humanity and justice. Their courts thus appear to have become mere instruments of folk savagery and give only a veneer of judicial process to the real barbarity of the American character. It must be apparent as a cold and calculating savagery because the brutal instincts do not satisfy themselves in a swift and passionate act which would be merciful, but play their victims through all the procedure intended for the defense of persons accused.

Tedious legal remedies were exhausted in the case of Sacco and Vanzetti. They are being exhausted in the case of Mooney and Billings and there has not been a lynch precipitation in the Alabama case. The liberal mind reaches its conclusions by a simple process of thought. If there are inherent probabilities in a case they become the absolute impossibilities of it. If men are communists believing in the invalidity of private property rights and in the propriety of resisting law by force it is therefore inconceivable, as with Sacco and Vanzetti, that they would take other people's property or kill in order to get it. The addiction to such a doctrine makes it impossible that the addicts should try to apply it. Mooney and Billings could not have blown up the California preparedness parade because, Mooney and Billings being agitators, society and its protections could not have committed such an outrage against their enemies.

The proof of the innocence of the Negro youths is to be found by the liberal mind in the objection prevalent in the south to the outraging of white women. This makes it not only inherently improbable that the accused youths getting into a box car would have raped two white girls but legally impossible for them to have done so. There may be an element of doubt in the minds of Americans not fully informed as to the Scottsboro case whether, considering community sentiment, exact justice was done, but in the liberal mind there is no doubt at all that the accused were innocent and are being lynched by the justice of an American state. No proof of that is needed. It is assumed.

DUMPING CONVICTS.

The superintendent of the Central Howard association says that we have many convicts exported from other states under their parole laws. He considers this quite all right on the ground that society as a whole has a responsibility without boundary lines to supervise the conduct of released convicts. That Chicago should have a disproportionate share of this duty imposed upon it by the self-regarding policy of other states seems not to concern the superintendent. The more convicts to look after, the more important the Chicago branch of the Central Howard association. We think a survey of conditions of criminal importation should be made by some agency less complacent—for example, the police department. Chicago's problem of crime control should not be increased by a deliberate policy in neighboring states of dumping undesirables upon us. If professional reform agencies are encouraging or conniving at this practice they should be rebuked. Protective legislation may be necessary, but at least a decent comity should be established among the authorities of the states to prevent dumping.

THE MORATORIUM.

President Hoover announces the acceptance of the debtor's year in principle and speaks his confidence in the favorable consequences. He adds that good faith and common sense should now cause Europe to seek still more relief in cutting costs of competitive armaments. The United States has contributed $260,000,000 of its revenue to the moratorium without condition or compensation. If Germany and the rest of Europe respond to this financial medication the United States is supposed to participate in the indirect profits. That is the only suggested benefit to America.

Europe has not been inventive of remedies for conditions which have developed as natural consequences of the kind of peace made after the war, probably because remedies would require a sacrifice of self-interest which is expected of no other country than the United States. It is this expectation which makes the European scene one of such hazardous adventure for this country. America assumes such unusual moral responsibilities on each occasion.

Since 1914 there has been the moral responsibility to enter the war, to give men and money without stint, to accept a peace made in extreme avidity without benefit to itself, to join the league of nations, to adhere to the world court, to cancel the debts, to lend Europe large sums of money, to take down American tariff walls, to remove restrictions on immigration, and now to give up a great deal of revenue. These moral obligations are extraordinary in the history of nations. No compensation ever has been suggested for them. On the contrary, any hesitation in accepting the responsibility has led to critical comment on the American character.

When the United States was putting its money into Europe, first for the conduct of a war and afterwards for the recovery from it, there was little warning from international economists that this was dangerous to world stability; that a settlement of the debts, even with a large element of cancellation, would be impossible. If this had been understood when the loans were being made, as it is explained now when they are to be collected, it might have tempered the lavishness of the creditor nation. It should be important hereafter to take into consideration economic truths which seem to be so apparent after the money is gone, before it goes.

Presumably the law of economic relations does not change from one period to another. If cancellation is the only economic possibility then charity is less costly and more prudent than credit. Gifts would have been wiser than loans, being limited to the ability to give away. It is something to be considered in another emergency.

It is only natural that Americans should view with some apprehension the peculiar relation which their country is supposed to maintain toward the rest of the world.

OUR POPULAR COURTS.

The incident in a local police court which has now involved the government of Mexico and our state department will unfortunately have an effect upon Mexican public opinion no official expression of regret can remove and no explanation of the circumstances can diminish. It is especially deplorable occurring so soon after the Oklahoma shooting. What can be done by way of making it known to the Mexican public that the lack of responsibility or self-restraint of a minor local official does not represent American official or public sentiment toward Mexico or the Mexican people, we trust, will be promptly done, and in this effort the proper authorities of Chicago and Illinois should take part. Interests much more important to this community and to the nation than the susceptibilities of a police magistrate are involved and should be protected, as well as appropriate action can protect them, from any repetition of similar incidents.

An inquiry into the conditions of Mexican aliens who are lawfully within our borders may be desirable, apart from any consideration of this particular occurrence or of such diplomatic amenities as are involved in it. And Chicago as a community might also take the occasion to reflect upon the propriety of improving the quality of its popular courts. The administration of justice in these tribunals touches the rights and the welfare of a large number of people day in and day out, and, while its defects do not often get publicity, they are not for that reason less, but rather more demoralizing. It may very well be that it is in the long run more important to the political and social well being of a community that its popular courts be kept on as high a level of responsibility as practicable than that the higher courts should be. The Mexican incident is spectacular and its consequences must be more injurious than a fair consideration of all the circumstances would justify, but obscure wrongs also have an influence upon our social life which in the aggregate is more serious than we realize. We wish the bar would give the problem serious study.

The Other Side

POT AND KETTLE.
[The Beloit Daily News.]

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is editorially exercised by the conduct of "two local Dogberries," rural police officers in lower Illinois, who in chasing a suspect making his getaway by automobile shot at him and hit him.

Here apparently was a grossly overzealous display of authority. The Chicago papers don't have to go so far to find careless gunplay to reprehend, however.

The same issue of THE TRIBUNE which skins the rural "Dogberries," whose perversions it blames to prohibition, presents in its news columns the story of "Spike" O'Donnell, Chicago bootleg baron, cruising the streets of Chicago shooting at his fancied gang enemies, and piloted in his cruise by a Chicago policeman at the wheel of the car.

Through an unfortunate mistake, the people O'Donnell thought were his gang enemies turned out to be a carload of detectives, one of whom he succeeded in shooting. The spectacle of a policeman driving a Chicago gang lord around on a shooting expedition against other policemen rather out-Dogberries some of the overzealous exploits of rural officers.

Of course, the whole business of careless official gunplay, whether in the big towns or the little ones, is to be deplored.

THE SIMPLE TOURIST.

"I am just a simple tourist and I want to be let alone."—Secretary of State Stimson in Naples.

Oh, friends across the ocean blue,
Please heed this wistful moan:
"I'm just a simple tourist and
I want to be let alone."

He seeks but rest, this modest man;
That's all he asks of you;
So meet him not with a hundred bands,
Two dozen or so will do.

He's just a simple tourist who
For simplicity simply parches,
So when he passes do not erect
More than fifty floral arches.

Let none be at the station;
He dreads fuss and parade;
Have only the standing army,
The police and the fire brigade.

Free from all noise and pests;
So kindly hold your banquets down
To say—two thousand guests.

He'd like to live in a lonely spot
And hear the birdies sing;
Well, Mussolini's house might do,
Or the palace of the king.

So, friends across the ocean blue,
Please heed this wistful moan:
"I'm just a simple tourist and
I want to be let alone."

OUR HEARTIEST CONGRATULATIONS to Mr. John D. Rockefeller Sr. on the occasion of his ninety-second birthday. It happened yesterday, but we just heard about it and hasten to offer our felicitations. We sincerely trust that this will be good for one of John's bright new dimes. IT WAS A SURPRISE and almost a shock to read that over twenty millionaires have been created during the long decline in the stock market. When we read day after day of new lows we always picture the people who own that stock not thinking of the crafty bears who are playing the short side to win. Everybody brags when he wins on the market going up and is proud of what he's done. And everybody else cheers him and slaps him on the back and says, "'Atta boy!" But the millionaires who are made by playing on the market going down just slip out quietly and never say a word. Why is that? Is it they're afraid they'd be lynched? Which brings us again to the conclusion that human nature is a mighty curious thing any way you look at it.

EPICURES assembled in solemn conference in London contend that every wine has a food dish for its soulmate; for instance, rare red claret, Chateau Margaux, 1914, takes a grape-fed pigeon and wild mushroom pie, while Winkler Hasensprung, 1925, goes fine with filets of sole cooked in butter and lying on a bed of aubergines. Ho hum, since wine was banished from this country exquisite food has flown, too. Think of meeting a grape-fed pigeon and wild mushroom pie anywhere in the U. S. A., or a filet of sole cooked in butter and lying in a bed of aubergines. Cooks say they simply can't concoct those things without the wine soulmates which must go with each dish. Wonder what the food soulmate of bath tub hootch, 1931, is? Or white mule, also 1931? Never mind, we wouldn't eat the darned stuff anyhow.

In ways and kind.
And I, who am so slated to be wise,
Would be so blind.

ANOTHER WORM MEDICINE.

CASTING about for a safe and effective worm medicine, Caldwell and a group of associates at the Vanderbilt university hit upon hexylresorcinol. This medicine, under various names, has been in use for a good many years as an antiseptic for the urinary tract. When given by mouth it is absorbed into the blood and excreted by the kidneys, being changed by this organ into a powerful antiseptic. If the chemical conditions are right, we have thus an antiseptic applied from the inside and in an excellent position to do good service. In the twenty years of its use many thousands of people have taken it pretty indiscriminately and it has proved to be safe. This was one reason Caldwell and his associates decided to try it as a worm medicine.

So far it has been used only as a remedy for the ordinary round worm. A plentiful supply of round worms is obtainable in any hog pen. They experimented first with worms in test tubes. Having proved the ability of the drug to kill the worm they finally tried it on human beings. The conclusion they have arrived at is that it is both safe and efficient. It produces no symptoms in the man or child who has taken it. Given properly, one round will kill 95 to 100 per cent of all the worms in the digestive tract. Given in half doses, it kills 75 per cent of the offenders.

The dose for an adult is 15 grains of the medicine in crystal form, put up in a hard capsule. It is to be taken on an empty stomach, without alcohol or oil, and the dose is followed three or four hours later by salts. The dose for a child is one-half that for an adult. Oils, glycerin, alcohol, or food in the stomach while the medicine is there greatly decrease its efficiency.

Worms do not try to escape from this medicine as they do from carbon tetrachloride. They seem to be content to remain quiet and absorb it. Eggs probably escape. At any rate, it is advisable to follow, say three weeks later, with a second dose in order to kill the worms that have hatched and matured meanwhile, or that escape the first dose.

The remedy has not been tried against thread worms, trichina, hookworm, or tapeworm. Nor have hog breeders used it with hogs, so far as we know.

CHASING OUT NITS.

Mrs. T. McB. writes:

1. Quite a while ago you wrote an article on how to get rid of nits in the hair. I mislaid the paper and would like very much to have you print that again.

2. My little boy, just past three, was constipated, so I started giving him 1 teaspoonful oil [mineral] in the morning and when he was going to bed. I also give him bran flakes in the morning, and he is all right now. However, when he has a bowel movement he passes a lot of oil. It is orange in color. Am I giving him too much oil?

REPLY.

1. Wash the hair with warm vinegar. Then comb out the nits. Wash out the vinegar. Dry the hair. Use some grease on it.

2. You should try to get the child away from the oil habit. Whatever mineral oil is swallowed will be passed. It does not absorb.

CLAIMS DISPROVED.

Mrs. J. J. McG. writes: In one of your articles you mentioned a plant that if grown in ponds and artificial pools, would prevent the breeding of mosquitoes in these waters.

REPLY.

I presume you refer to charra, though you misquote me. Several years ago it was claimed that if a water plant, charra, was allowed to grow in ponds, mosquitoes would not breed therein. A few health departments tried it and found some confirmation. A government official in the Canal Zone reported that when this plant grew in certain ponds he knew, the growth of mosquitoes was worse. The plant prevented minnows from getting at the wigglefalls. The conclusion is that more than one factor must be considered.

Or, you may have read of the claim that certain plants on marsh ground prevented mosquito breeding. I wrote an article saying this claim had been disproved.

URIC ACID CAUSES.

Mrs. J. Q. writes:

1. What causes uric acid?

2. Will orange, lemon, or tomato juice cause it?

3. Will sodium salicylate, 5 grains, affect the heart if taken for rheumatism?

REPLY.

1. You have reference to conditions that may be due to eating too much of the following: Yeast, sweetbreads, kidney, liver, roe, beef tea, meat extracts, very juicy meats. This statement suggests the answer.

2. No.

ANTEDATING CHECKS.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it possible in the state of Illinois for a wife to divorce her husband who is insane? 3. Is it possible to obtain a divorce if he has served time in prison before he married her, and she is ignorant of the fact until after they were married? E. W. W.

1. It is lawful in the sense that it is not criminally punishable on the bare facts that you state.

2. Yes, on proper facts.

3. The bare facts stated would not be sufficient.

SERIOUS BUSINESS.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can the prospective buyer of a house and lot demand the property be surveyed by the seller? 2. Can the buyer, within the law, hold any or all of $400 still due or to be paid on a $3,000 note until the boundaries are surveyed? 3. Must the buyer engage a lawyer to do this? C. S.

1. Before signing the contract, the buyer can insist upon any terms he may choose, no matter how arbitrary. After he has signed, his rights depend on the wording of the contract and he cannot demand a survey unless the contract is so worded.

2. No.

3. It is nearly always advisable for a purchaser of real estate to employ an attorney throughout, and we advise you to employ one now.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 9, 1915.

NEW YORK.—The Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha is racing back toward the nearest port and is due at Halifax harbor in the morning. It carries 15,000 tons of munitions and foodstuffs consigned to the allies and is afire as a result of an explosion. Atlantic transport officials here are bending every effort to learn if the explosion could possibly have been the work of Frank Holt, who committed suicide in his cell following his attempt to kill J. P. Morgan.

LONDON.—A great aerial squadron numbering 20 allies' airplanes raided Bruges and caused great destruction to the docks, a Rotterdam message says.

CHICAGO.—An open verdict was returned by the coroner's jury which investigated the death of Frank P. Graves, president of the North Carolina Land company, who was found in the garage in the rear of his Lake Forest home with a bullet in his brain.

LONDON.—The Italian army has suffered its first serious loss, an Austrian submarine having torpedoed the cruiser Amalfi in the narrow waters of the Adriatic. About 500 of the crew of 700 were saved.

LONDON.—In southern Poland the Russians, strongly reinforced with both men and guns and with their railways and fortresses of Ivangorod and Brest-Litovsk to draw on, have held up the Austro-German drive on Warsaw from the southwest.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 9, 1901.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Frederick D. White, son of Andrew D. White, United States ambassador at Berlin, shot and killed himself at his home in this city. Ill health and depression following the heat of last week was ascribed as the cause. He was 41 years old and had been an invalid since his graduation from Columbia law college eighteen years ago.

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—Charles Dunn, a well to do lumber mill owner, 65 years old, was arrested at Huntertown, 10 miles north of this city, charged with the murder of 10 year old Alice Cothrell. The little girl's body was found in a cistern under Dunn's house. A week ago she went to the Dunn home on an errand and did not return. Search was instituted which resulted in the finding of the body yesterday.

DES MOINES, Ia.—The engagement of Miss Laura Conger, daughter of the minister to China, to Lieut. Fred P. Buchan of the 3d cavalry was announced from the Conger home here. The announcement is the development of a romance which began in Peking at the relief of the legations during the Boxer uprising, in which Lieut. Buchan participated.

CHICAGO.—Carlile Mason, an old resident of Chicago, was killed by a fall near Plainfield, Ia., where he was taking a vacation at the country seat of his friend, Robert Renfrow. He was 84 years old and had lived in Chicago since 1845. For many years he was president of the Excelsior Iron works and he was president of the fire and police board during the administration of Mayor Joseph Medill. His home was at 907 West Monroe street.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The state board of pardons considered the application for pardon of Coleman and James Younger, the Northfield bank robbers. They are eligible to parole under the new law, as they have served twenty-five years of the life sentence imposed on them.

JULY 9, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The condition of President Garfield, who was shot on July 2 by Charles J. Guiteau, continues favorable. The bulletin issued at 8:15 a. m. by Drs. D. W. Bliss, J. K. Barnes, J. J. Woodward, and Robert Reyburn, the attending physicians, says: "The President is more comfortable than on any previous morning since the shooting. Pulse 96, temperature 99.2, respiration 23. The wound is beginning to discharge laudable pus." The yellow or jaundice symptoms have appreciably diminished within the last 24 hours, but are still marked enough to make it certain that there is a wound in the liver, one of the doctors said. It can now be stated on the authority of Dr. Bliss that the probabilities are largely on the side of recovery. Vice President Arthur received visits today from several cabinet ministers and he said he begins to feel like himself once more. As the President improves the load of anxiety is removed from Mr. Arthur's mind. He will remain in Washington until it is known that President Garfield is entirely out of danger. He visits the White House at least once a day.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is now learned that the papers of Guiteau in possession of the district attorney which he has refused to give to the press consist mainly of editorials from anti-administration newspapers. Numerous lawyers have unsuccessfully endeavored to obtain access to him in order to be retained for his defense, but the district attorney has permitted no one to see him. Insanity, of course, will be the defense.

LEADVILLE, Colo.—The Chronicle contains an interview with Mrs. Theodore Dunsmire, divorced wife of Charles J. Guiteau. She showed a decree of divorce granted in 1874 on the ground of adultery, allowing her alimony and prohibiting Guiteau from marrying until her death. She says he was very cruel to her. When he was a member of Henry Ward Beecher's church he would lead in prayer and as soon as the meeting was over would tell her some of his swindling schemes, she declared.

MEN'S STYLES.

Chicago, July 8.—A. C. S. asks: "Is there no man with sufficient initiative to design a more comfortable and utilitarian summer costume?"

Well, here's my suggestion for men:

Wear shorts and socks and sandals. Then wear a short sleeved shirt, with a tie loosely knitted—or no tie. Wear no coat, but have a belt with pockets, to carry the necessary things such as pocketbook, cigarets, etc. No coat, no hat [give the hair a chance].

This outfit would not only be more sensible and sanitary and beneficial for both hair and feet, but it would also be much more graceful than our present elephant leg trousers and clumsy shoes.

In winter increase the weight of the material, but keep the same design and add heavy stockings [knee length] if necessary, and instead of our ill-designed ugly overcoats wear a cape [loosely worn]. This cape [or blanket] could be in color, or black with ornaments, and with a clasp at the neck [ornamental, if you please] to hold it. If one must wear rubbers, wear them over the sandals.

No hat, even in winter. A. V. R.

2,160 FEET.

Chicago, July 1.—In answer to J. L. F.'s problem printed in your paper July 1, wish to satisfy him with the answer. By using geometry you will find that the answer is 2,160 feet. PAUL COPLAN.

845 FEET.

Chicago, July 1.—J. L. F. neglects to state whether his man took the shortest cut by walking around the base of the pole or not, but as he did say this all started 40 years ago, no doubt they took the harder method of grasping the rope at the end and walking away from the pole in a constantly widening circle until it was unwound.

In the latter case he would travel 15,1546 plus miles and be carrying 585.488 feet of rope weighing 147.03 pounds when he finished. Quite a load for a hot day.

But in the present day where walking is taboo, he could unwind it by the simpler method of walking around the base of the pole, a distance of 3,780 feet or .716 minus of one mile. I recommend this method for hot weather.

F. W. TUTTLE.

4,785.81 FEET.

Chicago, July 1.—We get the noble sum of 4,785.81 feet. But I am afraid that the good man does not travel all of that distance, for there seems to be a joker! Did you know that of 1 inch rope, there go about 4 feet to the pound and who could haul a steadily increasing weight of this dimension? C. O. R.

9,360 FEET.

FROM A RAILROAD EMPLOYE.

Chicago, July 3.—As a railroad employé for the last 25 years and a small stockholder at the same time, I most sincerely hope that the Illinois commerce commission will not grant the 15 per cent increase asked in freight rates. Competition in the transportation field is keen, and any increase would divert more business to buses and trucks.

There is no reason why a well managed railroad could not deliver 10 or 50 tons of freight to St. Louis, Omaha, or any other city cheaper than a truck could. Efficient and aggressive management could easily compete with bus and truck and put them out of business.

Our federal and state governments should relieve the railroads of some taxes which have increased year after year. A great many of our high salaried positions could be abolished and operating expenses reduced materially. J. B. K.

BEHEMOTHS ON HARD TIRES.

Chicago, June 17.—In answer to your editorial "Behemoths on Hard Tires" in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of June 15 please allow me to state the facts:

Mr. Frank T. Sheets, chief state highway engineer for Illinois, has repeatedly stated—both publicly and privately—that the present hard roads of the state of Illinois have been built to carry 10,000 pounds per axle, or 5,000 pounds per wheel, in accordance with the present vehicle laws, and that such loads can be carried on solid tires if they are not less than ten inches wide.

The highway police have strict orders to enforce this law, and do this without apparent discrimination. For this reason the passage of house bill 1188, which would prohibit the use of solid tires after July 1, 1932, is uncalled for because it would throw a tremendous burden on motor truck users of this state, and particularly of the city of Chicago, in as much as the city is not exempted and millions of dollars' worth of equipment would necessarily be scrapped.

It would seem very simple to change the solid tires on these trucks and trailers to pneumatic tires, but in order to secure sufficient pneumatic tire capacity large tires must be used and two tires must be installed on each wheel. This together with the extra width of the old style frame of this equipment, brings the width, from outside to outside, of such tires beyond the 96 inch width now allowed motor truck equipment. The highway department has refused to increase this width. Therefore there is no way in which such pneumatic tires may be installed on the old style equipment.

Chicago city pavements are designed to carry loads of 24,000 pounds gross per axle and if the vehicle tax money is properly spent our pavements will be kept in excellent repair. It is because this vehicle tax money has not been properly spent that our streets are in the condition they are today. It is to be earnestly hoped that our new administration will carefully administer the vehicle tax funds and with the proper expenditure we may all of us again ride on good pavements.

As to the country highways, long distance hauling prohibits the use of solid tires owing to the slow speed possible and, therefore, more than 90 per cent of this equipment is pneumatic tired and very soon pneumatic tired equipment will be substituted where solid tires are now used on these country highways.

HARRY B. YERRO.

BARRY.

Chicago, July 4.—Considerable space in the Voice of the People has recently been devoted to contributions by one MacCartie, who goes to some length to tell us of his ancestry.

Now, on Independence day, of all days, we find a letter from MacCartie, who contemptuously describes Commodore John Barry as "a fat man" in referring to a statue of the founder of the American navy. John Barry may have been corpulent, but he did not carry his fat around his ears.

MacCartie never heard of John Barry and is evidently too lazy or uninterested to find out. MacCartie's ignorance is typical of his kind and he cannot be blamed for something he can not help. His facetiousness, however, is typical of his ilk—characteristic of a deplorable and increasing lack of respect for the traditions of our nation and the great men who founded it and fought for it.

For your information, MacCartie, and all others like you, John Barry was born in Ireland and entered the service of the United States in 1776. He commanded the Lexington. His record during the revolution was such as to place him a valorous and patriotic officer and he was honored by the rank of commodore in 1794.

Believe me, I am in favor of more Barrys and fewer MacCarties.

FINDS HIS WIFE WITH WAR PAL HE BEFRIENDED

Friendship Vow of 1919 Told to Judge.

Huddled together in the trenches in France thirteen years ago, Bill Hassett and Tom Mahoney endured hardships which bound them together in true friendship.

"Tom," said Hassett, "any time, anywhere we meet again, everything I have is yours." And Mahoney returned the sentiment.

The years passed and William P. Hassett became a motion picture operator with a substantial income. He had a young and pretty wife and a well furnished home at 8052 Harvard avenue. One bitter day last December he was approached by a ragamuffin whose hands were blue with cold and whose teeth chattered. Hassett, now 46 years old, recognized his old friend, Tom Mahoney, unemployed.

"My pal!" boomed Hassett. "Remember what I said? Come home with me."

Takes Buddy Into Home.

Hassett took Mahoney to his home, clothed him, fed him, and warmed him.

"This house is your home," said Bill to Tom. "Everything I have is yours. And, by the way, meet the wife, Blanche."

Blanche was 28 years old. Tom was 31.

Six months passed. Tom remained a welcome—and free—boarder in the Hassett home. Hassett gave him $2 a week spending money.

On May 15, Hassett, returning home from work, found the door locked against him. The following day Mrs. Hassett filed suit for divorce against her husband, charging drunkenness.

Pair Sent to Jail.

Mrs. Hassett and Mahoney were fined $200 apiece by Municipal Judge Thomas Green and were lodged in the county jail when neither was able to pay the fine.

Hassett's attorney, Peter M. Bolger, told his client's story to Superior Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday in opposing Mrs. Hassett's plea for $35 weekly alimony.

"Under the circumstances, judge," said the lawyer, "Mr. Hassett doesn't feel such like paying alimony. Moreover, he's going to file a cross bill for divorce, naming his old pal and ex-buddy, Mahoney."

YOUTH RESCUED AFTER 13 HOURS ADRIFT ON BOAT

Douglas Cooper, 19 years old, son of R. Cooper Jr., 2430 Lake View avenue, was rescued yesterday from the marooned motor cruiser owned by his father, which ran out of fuel off Waukegan. The youth, a Culver Military academy student, spent 13 hours alone on the craft after the crew of two had put to shore in a small boat.

After eight hours of rowing the pair reached Waukegan and notified Cooper's parents who went in haste to Kenosha and borrowed a private yacht to search for him. Exhausted by his long vigil, young Cooper was sleeping on the boat's deck when the rescue party, including coast guardsmen under Capt. Alfred Christopherson of Kenosha, appeared. The youth was no worse for his experience and last night was engaged in soothing his mother, whose nerves were badly shaken by the ordeal. The boy's father represents the General Electric refrigerator business in Chicago.

Two other youths clung to an overturned canoe for half an hour yesterday afternoon until they were rescued by James Nestor, pilot of a Rapid Water Transit speedboat. The boys are Gilbert Youngberg, 20 years old, 6212 North Sacramento avenue, and John Gillard, 21 years old, 6123 North Francisco avenue. They were canoeing with Martin Malloy, 22 years old, 6334 Glenwood avenue, and when the craft overturned off the Edgewater Beach hotel, Malloy swam to shore. Nestor saw the pair clinging to the canoe and pulled them in.

EX-SECRETARY FOUND GUILTY OF $70,000 FRAUD

Adolph Wachs, 31 years old, former private secretary for Keith Dunham, wealthy chemical manufacturer, was found guilty of embezzlement yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court and sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary.

In his trial it was brought out that Wachs had diverted some $70,000 of the company's funds over a period of several years by means of padded pay rolls, fictitious credit memoranda and confiscation of checks. With some of this money, it was charged, he built a fine residence in North Hermitage avenue. The residence, was recently offered for sale for $54,000, which was said to represent one-fourth of the value of the house and furnishings.

Since Wachs' arrest $12,000 of the money taken has been recovered.

Judge Burke overruled a motion for a new trial. Wachs was prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and John Holman.

WRIT FILED TO SEEK RELEASE OF REV. YARROW

After two weeks imprisonment in cell row in the county jail a writ was filed yesterday seeking the release of the Rev. Philip Yarrow, chief investigator for the Illinois Vigilance association. Mr. Yarrow has stated that he prefers to stay in jail rather than to pay a judgment of $5,000 for false arrest secured by Walter Shaver, book seller.

In an effort to obtain the minister's release Yarrow's attorney, John J. Wilhelm, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus yesterday before Acting Chief Justice Joseph Sabath of the Criminal court. The writ was returnable this morning. In the petition the Rev. Mr. Yarrow asserts that he is being held in jail contrary to law and he denies that he maliciously signed the complaint which resulted in Shaver's arrest on a charge of selling obscene literature. It was the guilty count in Shaver's judgment for false arrest that caused Yarrow to be imprisoned.

Charge Suspended Park Cop Drove Stolen Auto

An automobile which West Park officials say has been driven by Morgrin Patrolman Herbert E. Rasmussen, suspended on a charge of stealing another car, was found in Austin park yesterday and was identified as having been stolen on May 1 from Victor Hamlin, 302 South Parkside avenue, Oak Park. Hamlin said he had parked it at 15th street and California avenue, the spot from which the first car was taken. It is a block from Rasmussen's post. The suspended park policeman is held on five charges of receiving stolen property.

WIFE TELLS HOW REDHEAD 'WOOED' HUBBY AND WON

Asks $100,000 for Loss of His Love.

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—The amorous adventures of a gorgeous red head were narrated to a Supreme court justice in Brooklyn today. The red head is Mrs. Laverta McCormack Goudess, wife of a broker, Charles G. Goudess Jr., manager of the Spring Lake branch of M. J. Meehan & Co. She used to be a showgirl.

Mrs. Sally M. Winn, wife of Herbert M. Winn, has brought suit for $100,000 against Mrs. Goudess, charging that Mrs. Goudess stole the love of her husband. Today she asked also for an order for the arrest of the red headed lady to prevent Mrs. Goudess from leaving the state pending the trial of the alienation of affections suit.

According to the story told by the indignant Mrs. Winn, red haired charmers believe in direct action. She married, Mrs. Winn states, on Jan. 21, 1914, and for 16 years no serpent of jealousy or suspicion entered their domestic Eden. Everything was ideal, Mrs. Winn asserts, until the red haired woman bounced over the horizon and "willfully, maliciously, and flauntingly pursued my husband and debauched him."

The Winns went to a party on New Year's Eve, 1929, in the Sun Eagles Country club at Eatontown, N. Y. Mickey Walker, the toy bulldog, light-heavyweight prize fighter, who is to enter the ring with Jack Sharkey on the night of July 22, was there with Mrs. Maude Walker, who subsequently gave him the divorce count, and with Jack Kearns, his manager. A lively time was had by all, as is common on New Year's Eve parties at country clubs, and gossip buzzed amid the cigaret smoke.

"Every one at the party talked about Laverta as Jack Kearns' sweetheart," says Mrs. Winn sweetly in her complaint, "but later I was to learn that she was actually known as Herbie Winn's sweetheart."

When the party at the Sun Eagles Country club faded many accepted an invitation to revive it by moving over to the Mickey Walker home nearby. Mrs. Winn tells the court that the "gorgeous red head," Mrs. Goudess, wasn't invited, but went, anyway, and that when she was asked by Mrs. Walker why she had come to the house without an invitation she calmly replied that she intended to stay all night and asked Mickey Walker to get one of Mrs. Walker's nightgowns for her. At that, according to Mrs. Winn's lively account of the affair at the Maison De Walker, Mrs. Walker became furiously angry and ordered Mrs. Goudess out of the house. Did she go? She did not.

Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Byrne reserved decision on the application for an order of arrest. No answer has been filed by Mrs. Goudess in the alienation suit.

Report New True Bills Voted Against Bankers

The grand jury yesterday was reported to have voted new true bills against the three Flower brothers and five others connected with the defunct Roosevelt-Bankers State bank. Alexander Flower, chairman of the board of directors; Frank Flower, president, and Sam Flower, vice president, as well as Louis Frank, cashier, were named in a series of embezzlement and conspiracy indictments returned by the grand jury some months ago. They were tried and acquitted on one of the indictments by Judge Joseph Burke.

ARREST BROKER IN ALLEGED FRAUD THROUGH LETTER

A postcard and a letter written to his office, led to the arrest in Phillips, Wis., last night of William J. Baker, head of a brokerage concern bearing his name at 10 South La Salle street. The concern was closed early last week and is suspected, police say, of having fleeced Chicagoans out of $200,000.

The day before the company closed, Sergts. John Drury and John Howe arrested Reginald Franco, Baker's chief salesman, who was wanted in New York for alleged stock swindles amounting to $500,000. Later Howard R. Cates and E. S. Fedor, salesmen, were arrested. Franco was sent to New York. Baker was not found.

Yesterday Drury and Howe returned to the Baker offices and found a postcard and a letter from him. On the back of the letter his return address was given as Phillips, Wis. Police there were asked to arrest him. Notice of his arrest was received at the bureau here last night. Apparently, police said, Baker was not aware of the closing of his concern.

JUDGE FOILS ALLEGED PLOT TO BLOCK TRIAL

Judge Joseph Sabath, acting chief justice of the Criminal court, and State's Attorney Swanson took official cognizance yesterday of charges that bribery and intimidation had been attempted to prevent John Erwin, an alleged holdup man, being brought to trial.

Judge Sabath placed the case on his own call for trial today. The state's attorney instructed his assistants to speed the prosecution.

Erwin was arrested on the complaint of Erwin Kolar, a Yellow cab driver, who charged that Erwin robbed him of $17 and his cab on May 12. Kolar charged that subsequently Erwin's mother offered him $250 to drop the case and threatened his life when he refused.

Thereafter, he asserted, he was menaced on several occasions and beaten once. Earl Hartsberger, 5126 West Madison street, another Yellow cab driver, told authorities that last Saturday night while he was driving a cab formerly assigned to Kolar he was kidnaped by men who threatened to kill him, under the impression that he was Kolar.

REJECT PETITION TO EXHUME BODY OF GEORGE WHITE

Prosecutor Opposes Plea Made by Son.

Judge Joseph Sabath refused yesterday in the criminal court to allow the filing of a petition for the exhumation of the body of George Hastings White, suburban rental agent for the Chicago Title and Trust company, who died on June 2.

ELFRIEDA PRESTEL.

The petition was presented on behalf of a son, Stanley Warner White. The son is seeking to break the will by which his father left his estate to Miss Elfrieda Prestel, 1309 Newberry avenue, his former secretary. The estate amounts to $500,000, the son contends, but attorneys for Miss Prestel say it is worth only between $15,000 and $25,000.

Prosecutor's Aid Objects.

Stanley White's petition alleged that his father came to his death by "unlawful means." The same charge was made to Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, in an attempt to obtain a rehearing on the probate proceedings. Judge Caplan refused the rehearing; however, and admitted the will to probate.

Yesterday Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse objected to the filing of the petition, stating that its charges were based entirely on hearsay. This statement drew an objection from Attorney Harry A. Berman, representing Stanley White, who had obtained a continuance of a previous hearing on the promise to produce evidence in substantiation of the charges.

Attorney Denies Charges.

"You have many words, but you have produced no evidence, although this hearing was continued to allow you to produce it," the prosecutor replied.

Attorney Luther D. Swanson, representing Miss Prestel, objected to several counts in the petition. The elder White's will, he asserted, was drawn up in the office of the Chicago Title and Trust company, and was authentic beyond a doubt. Stanley White charged in the Probate court that it was a forgery.

C. W. LEHMANN, ELGIN ATTORNEY 30 YEARS, DEAD

Charles W. Lehmann, 56 years old, a practicing attorney in Elgin for more than 30 years, died in his home there yesterday after a lingering illness. He will be buried in Bluff City cemetery at Elgin tomorrow afternoon after funeral services at the home, 418 East Chicago street.

Mr. Lehmann was born in Roxbury, Mass., was educated at Harvard, Heidelberg university, and the Kent College of Law. His first law practice was in Chicago, with the firm of Pam, Donnelley & Glennon, but he opened offices in Elgin in 1900. He was active in Masonic circles of northern Illinois and was a director of the Elgin National bank and a member of the Harvard club of Chicago. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Janet B. Lehmann; a son, Ranstead Lehmann; and a brother, Alvin B. Lehmann of Parkland, Wash.

OTTO TISCHER DEAD; VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR

Funeral services for Otto Tischer, 83 years old, who died on Tuesday in the Edward Hines hospital, will be conducted Saturday in the Graceland cemetery chapel. The body will be cremated.

Mr. Tischer was one of four veterans remaining on the membership roll of the Benjamin S. Butler post, No. 754, G. A. R. He had been in good health until the recent hot wave.

Mr. Tischer was born in Leydenburg, Schwartzburg, Germany, March 10, 1842, and came to this country as a youth. He entered the Union army on March 8, 1865, enlisting in company C, 35th New Jersey state volunteers. Out of the army, he came to Chicago, married Clara von Obstfelder, and engaged in the real estate business. The great fire of 1871 wiped him out financially and in later years he became a general contractor.

Mrs. Tischer died in 1915 and since that time he had made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Winona F. Warnock, 1524 Jonquil terrace. Two other daughters also survive—Mrs. E. Palma Neal, Gary, and Mrs. Ada C. Posthuma, 1108 North Shore avenue.

Scouts Pay Last Tribute to Their Crippled Leader

Ernest Stone Jr., 12 years old, 6437 University avenue, known to Boy Scouts throughout Chicago and the middle west as one of the gamest troopers despite the fact that he has been confined to a wheel chair since he was 5 years old, was buried yesterday. Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian church and were attended by hundreds of scouts. The youth was scoutmaster and helped teach scouting to many boys.

John Griffin Funeral Services to Be Today

Funeral services will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at the home at 2020 Indiana avenue for John Griffin, veteran state legislator, who died on Tuesday following a long illness. COLONEL LEAVES HIS FORTUNE TO ARMY SERGEANT

New York, July 8. — (AP) — Col. Charles Hermann Paine, retired army officer, who died a year and a half ago in Beverly Hills, Calif., left $6,000 to Sergt. Peter E. Boyle, who served in his company when Paine was a captain. The money is to be paid tomorrow to Boyle, who is now stationed at Governor's Island in the organized reserve office, by Ernest B. Tracy.

Colonel Paine's estate, it was said, included oil fields in Oklahoma and real estate in California and Vermont. He retired from the army after 30 years of service. Sergeant Boyle will retire next June after a similar service.

"I haven't the slightest idea why Col. Payne should leave this money to me," Sergt. Boyle said today. "I didn't do any favors for him. He was the sort of man who would not ask anything more from those under him than duty required. I guess he just took a liking to me.

"He was captain of Company C, 29th Infantry, at Fort Porter, Buffalo, when he made me first sergeant of the outfit. I was with him at Camp Gaillard, Panama Canal Zone, too, until 1916. I haven't seen him since I was commissioned a second lieutenant and sent to Fort Riley, Kansas."

DUKE OF AOSTA IS BURIED AMONG COMRADE HEROES

TRIESTE, Italy, July 8.—(AP)—Thirty thousand heroes of the third army, lying in Redipuglia cemetery, received into their midst this morning their late leader, the duke of Aosta.

The great men of the nation gathered at the cemetery to see his body laid to rest in ground which once echoed with the thunder of marching, fighting hordes. Comrades of the dead thirty thousand, many of them sadly mutilated, thronged the burial ground.

The duke's widow, the duchess of Aosta; his cousin, King Victor Emmanuel; Crown Prince Humbert, the duke's two sons and his two brothers, four government minister and generals of the allied armies came from Turin on a special train which followed the funeral train.

The bishop of Castrense celebrated the field requiem mass, the principal passages announced by a burst of artillery. As the casket was lowered, a bugle sounded and an infantry company fired a volley which reverberated over the Piave river, now quiet and peaceful, but thirteen years ago the dividing line between two desperate forces.

"Only War We Have, So Why Not Enjoy It?"

That's Refrain of Flyers' Clinking Glasses!

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

ELLIOTT WHITE SPRINGS, who because of his own war record is ably qualified to perpetuate some of its happenings in type has written a new book, "The Rise and Fall of Carol Banks" [Doubleday-

ELLIOTT WHITE SPRINGS. [Drawn for James M. Fiske.]

Page, 1931], which is published today. It's a story of youth which, like the launching of a boat, should be baptized with a bottle before it can be launched. Carol Banks, himself, is described as "the Don Juan of war birds who emerges through war and peace with one in his chest and a cocktail in his hand." An expert at shooting down Huns, he was an artist at other things. "He could make egg nog from lemons and gin powder and gin from mint chewing gum. He could make gump oil taste like Napoleon brandy. As a bartender he never quite got over the war." His was the little sun dial of the aviation corps; good spirits followed him wherever he went.

Elliott Springs uses this jovial Carol to tell his stories on. Carol moves through each episode and so relates it as the hero, which otherwise would have nothing in common with it. The book is not a novel, but really a series of short adventure stories, each one full of vitality and the grim humor that comes from tragedy by our war birds. They lived such close neighbors to death that they joked about it, poked fun at what they considered their very small reward for flying. To each it was merely a question of when will death call for number, not how or why.

And when your best friend went west or left your squadron got wiped out by Huns you took another drink and carried on. And you sang this ditty [unmanned by many Marines]:

Take the spinders out of my kidney,
The something rod out of my brain;
Take the smell of my back take the snakehafts,
And assemble the engine again.

Even after the war you kept on drinking. After the first few stories the author shows you Jerry, Carol, Hal, Tex Carter and Maurice Campbell back in America in Volstead days. Each has a tale of adventure or romance to relate and these episodes make up the remainder of the book.

There is not a dull moment nor a truly stupid line in the entire piece. Yes, "The Rise and Fall of Carol Banks" is not a great work, in any sense. No one will put it down on the list of the ten, fifteen or twenty-five "best books about the war." It doesn't pretend to delve into psychology; it is not concerned with deep problems of any sort. But if you're one of those readers who still relish a story that are at the same time exciting, gay and debonair, you'll be genuinely pleased with Mr. Spring's collection of narratives about our airmen.

There's the story of Carol and his pal, the German Von Koch, and their joyous little fiesta in Paris, when Carol was ordered to be "drunk and disorderly" so as to loosen the tongue of his enemy. But Von Koch is a dead dinner for him and actually flies over to Carol's own plane, wearing Carol's own uniform and taking both the watch and his girl. Von Koch then wants leading a bombing squadron over the territory in which Carol is captured and you may be sure the American aviator burns with but one desire to bring down the guy who stole him and ran away.

It's an exciting story, amusing and sad by turns, too, and the end has a twist that is as unexpected as it is clever. This is one of the best episodes in the book.

Then there's the account of the post war flying school in Texas, run by one of Carol's old pals. It is on the verge of bankruptcy when an elderly man with a fat roll of bills appears on the field one day and demands lessons in flying. He wants to learn everything in six weeks and, much to the surprise of the ex-war birds, he does. In fact, he takes to flying like a duck to water.

Finally he wants to go up and do combat with his teacher. The author realizes this mock battle that becomes altogether too real, and its tragical ending. Once more there's a surprise on the last page, a la O. Henry.

"For such a thing as that could never happen," some one is bound to say about this last tale. What of it? It makes a good story, and besides, who's to say that "could never happen" did happen, during the war, and after? There's Lindy's solo to Paris, there's the depression. But why read into it?

Good morning!

Here you have the romance between a daring Deutsches Mädchen who drives racing cars, and a gentleman who picks her up and puts her together again after her car has gone over a cliff.

So far, so good. Everything appears simple. But, you see, you don't witness Allez. The heroine, unconscious when rescued, doesn't fully regain her senses until her succorer has disappeared and she finds herself in the bosom of family and friends. She does, however, vaguely realize that a big, strong man, whose features she cannot remember, had been kind to her, and she yearns to meet him once more.

Now, this Fräulein Bettina Bang is the child of the chief engineer of the Diavolo Motor Car company in Berlin. The accident had occurred while she was trying out the Diavolo's latest model on the Targa-Florio course in Palermo, Sicily, for the imminent international sweepstakes. Her hand is desired in marriage by Herr Marten, president of the company. She likes him a lot—but thoughts of her rescuer persist.

Then—he comes! His name is Herr Bredow and he proves to have been a world war buddy of Marten's. The latter gives him a position in the factory.

Thenceforth events move rapidly. The arrival of a dark lady, regarding whose identity I shall keep you in the dark, throws a couple of monkey-wrenches into the works . . .

"Die Nacht Gehört Uns" is a good, though not a great, movie. The acting is excellent, but the continuity is somewhat jerky and there's an awful lot of yelling for various reasons at divers times. But photography and scenery are pleasing, and there are ingenious and unexpected bits of "business" introduced here and there.

China Seizes Relics Worth Millions; Hits Foreign Collectors

PEIPING, July 8.—A great howl has been raised both by Chinese dealers in curios and by collectors for foreign museums because of the arbitrary confiscation by the Kuomintang government of all curios and other ancient relics. Many well known men who for years have been gathering relics from ancient ruins of some of the Chinese dynastics have suffered greatly as a result.

There seems to be little hope of getting any return for the money expended, running into millions of dollars, taking China as a whole, and particularly about this city, which for a century or so has been the center of such work.

A particular sufferer recently is Gen. Wilhelm Munthe, a noted collector, who for years has represented museums in Los Angeles and elsewhere in America, as well as private collectors. Gen. Munthe is a Norwegian. He was associated with the Russian army in China at the time of the Boxer troubles.

Boy's Plane Hits Window as Hoover Sees It Work

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—An airplane crashed into the window of the President's office today, but failed even to break the glass. It was a tiny ship propelled by a spring and belonged to Emanuel Feinberg of Detroit, winner of the outdoor fuselage event in the fourth contest of the Airplane Model League of America. Feinberg was showing the President how the plane worked.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 8.—[Special.]—Printed copies of a letter addressed to Paramount Publix corporation, makers of the film version of "An American Tragedy," have been received here, and on behalf of Theodore Dreiser, author, threaten the film corporation with vigorous court action if an attempt is made to release the film in a version which Dreiser challenged here last March, following quarrels with the film director and executives of the Paramount studios over treatment of his story.

Paramount's official stand toward fighting a suit, or placating Dreiser could not be secured here tonight other than that the studio has within the past week previewed "An American Tragedy" to local audiences with beginnings, endings, and other differences in scenes from its earlier previews.

The letter from Dreiser's attorneys, Arthur Garfield Hays and Arthur C. Hume, is dated June 26 in New York and serves notice: "Before taking action we should like to know whether you intend to produce the picture substantially as exhibited to him [Dreiser] in New York June 15."

The letter charges that the film version is "an utter misrepresentation and libelous distortion of Dreiser's book," and quotes nine literary men and critics in the same view. The attorneys' letter, which was handed in typed form to numerous persons in Hollywood, alludes to quarrels between Josef Von Sternberg, director of the picture, and Dreiser, and quotes Sternberg, on March 3, 1930, as follows:

"He is reported as designating G. B. Shaw as antiquated and old-fashioned, who emptied himself twenty years ago, and then apparently as a gratuitous insult, adding that also applies to many of the so-called literary giants, in particular, Theodore Dreiser."

When June, the month of brides, ended with no orange blossoms for Lupe Velez, it marked the end of the much publicised romance between the Mexican brunette and lanky Gary Cooper. No official announcement has been handed out about the sundering of his close and idyllic association, which provided the movie writers with gushes for two years, but the word has been passed privately and definitely that a Cooper-Velez wedding, in anticipation of which the bridesmaids' gowns and morning coats were dusted o ffa couple times, will never get as far as Lohengrin's strains.

Lupe is returning to Hollywood to work in Lawrence Tibbetts' next picture. Joseph Schenck, that maker and unmaker of movie stars, is said to have his eye on the steaming senorita's film future. Cooper is in Morocco, or somewhere else, seeing how close the movie sets in which he has worked approach the real sights and sounds. When he comes back to Hollywood the Lupe Velez incident may be as definitely in the past as the Clara Bow chapter—hectic while it lasted—in his life.

The first of what may be a succession of suits growing out of the studio retrenchment programs, is in court, with Hobart Henly suing Warners for $7,000, stipulated as two weeks' salary at $3,500 a week. He says the film company tried to make him accept two weeks' vacation without pay, when his contract called for forty weeks of continuous work beginning last February.

Tala Birell, Viennese blond, has arrived at Universal City for the second time in her film career, this time accompanied by her sister, Gabriella, to carry out a contract. She was at Universal for one picture, a German version, last year, and made such a good impression they signed her up as soon as a Vienna stage contract would permit. Several years ago she was Marlène Dietrich's understudy in a Berlin theater.

Here's a peek at past, present, and future, as they rate the box office values of their own stars on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot—three years ago—biggest box office asset—John Gilbert. Two years ago—Bill Haines. Last year—Joan Crawford. Now—Greta Garbo. Next year—(they are guessing)—possibly Clark Gable.

They can "double" anything except real salt water, ablebodied seamen, with the result that the seaward cruise of the old windjammer, Indiana, was delayed here while a sailing ship crew was rounded up to take the schooner out of port with Noah Beery, Sally Blane, and other members of the "Then Hell Broke Loose" company aboard. Sally's the only girl, except for her maid and two script girls, on the ship. Once at sea the old sailing ship's name, already erased in port, became "The Golden Bough" for film purposes.

Peggy Shannon, in playing herself and her own mother in Paramount's "Silence" averages twelve water waves and one hundred hair adjustments a week, keeping her head in shade for her rôle.

Bad Weather Blocks John D.'s Birthday Golf

He's 92 and Spends Day in Guarded Home.

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Protected like an old feudal baron in his castle, with all of the nine gates guarded and extra guards at other points of the stanch walls to make sure that no strangers entered, John D. Rockefeller today began his 92d birthday with a prayer of thanks for his many blessings and with a word of forgiveness for his enemies.

"It must be the aim of a Christian to make his enemy love him" is the principle of Mr. Rockefeller, who today is having another birthday cake at his Tarrytown estate, behind a 20 foot wire fence. "It is not my supreme business to secure my safety, but to remove his ugliness. He may have injured my reputation; but, far worse, he is blighting his own character. Therefore I must seek to remove the greater thing, the corrosive malady in his own soul."

Mr. Rockefeller's birthday message, however, is addressed more to friends, and he assures them that he is in excellent health."

Mr. Rockefeller was to have played golf today, as usual, but this was called off because the weather was unfavorable. Tonight a birthday dinner was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., their daughter, Mrs. David M. Milton; her husband and 3 year old daughter, Abby Milton, and their five sons, John D. III., Laurence S., Winthrop, David, and Nelson A. Rockefeller, with Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

An hour of dictation, a nap after lunch, and a drive restricted to the estate were also on the day's program.

Yesterday Mr. Rockefeller toured the estate with his son, John D. Jr., and expressed great satisfaction with the $1,000,000 improvements that have been made since last autumn. There were new roads and new bridges, the construction of which, incidentally, has helped to relieve unemployment in Tarrytown. Usually the force of the estate numbers about 250, but for months now 600 men have been at work every day.

American Children Guests of Envoy Edge in Paris

PARIS, July 8.—(AP)—America's good will group of 11 boys and girls were received at the Paris city hall this afternoon by Rene Fallliet, vice president of the municipal council. They later were guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Edge at a reception at the American embassy.

"MARTHA" AT RAVINIA, CHARMING AS EVER, WELL CAST AND SUNG

It was midsummer form for both performance and audience at Ravinia last night. The opera was "Martha," the performance was a little more charming than ever before, the audience was larger and more enthusiastic than has always been the case this summer.

"Martha" is an opera of which I am sincerely fond, and the fondness is increased when its pretty tunes are sung by such experts as Florence Macbeth, Ina Bourskaya, Mario Chamlee, and Virgilio Lazzari. This is a quartet that would transfigure a set of scales if they sang them in public. When it comes to a set of tunes, the effect is nothing short of magical.

Somehow or other, the Ravinia performances of "Martha" in addition to their fine singing become more amusing than is sometimes their custom. Vittorio Trevisan, the Sir Tristan of the cast, is one of the most comic singing actors on earth, always preserving an air of distinction, but always being funny as well. And there was uproarious comedy in the scene of the fair where Louis D'Angelo, the sheriff, and Edward Alexander, the clerk, both looking as though they might have stepped out of a Hogarth cartoon, added their assistance to the proceedings. Louis Hasselmans conducted the performance in the same mood of enjoyment as was being projected from the stage.

The second of the American Conservatory of Music summer programs at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon presented Elaine De Sellem, mezzo soprano, and Edward Eigenschenck, organist, in joint recital. Mr. Eigenschenck is a skilled technician not only in the color registration of the organ, but able to play with unwonted rhythmic effect, and a fine interpreter of music as new as Eric De Lamarter's "Prelude on a Gregorian Theme" and as old as a Bach Fugue. Miss De Sellem, also skilled and experienced and with a highly responsive voice, made an excellent effect in a pair of arias and later in costumed groups of songs from Russia and Spain.

F. B. and Mrs. Noyes Back After Motoring in Europe

New York, July 8.—(AP)—Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press and publisher of the Washington Star, returned with Mrs. Noyes today from a two months' European tour. They motored through England and parts of France, stopping for a time in the Pyrenees. During their journey through England they were accompanied by their son-in-law and daughter, Sir Willmott and Lady Lewis.

Father Resigns Home Throne, Preacher Says

He's Commoner Now, Avers Episcopal Rector.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

King Alfonso of Spain and other European monarchs are not the only kings who abdicate their thrones in these modern days. According to the Rev. Harold Holt, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Oak Park, all men have been dethroned as "kings" of their own households. He spoke yesterday before the 15th annual summer conference of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago now in session at St. Alban's school, Sycamore.

The Rev. Mr. Holt was formerly head of the social service department of the national Episcopal council, New York, and is regarded by churchmen as an expert on modern social problems. As he spoke of leading problems of the day, the Rev. Mr. Holt pointed to the dethronement of man as the undisputed head of the family as being one of the factors in the breakdown of "the familiar, old-style home."

The happy and contented family is the exception today rather than the rule, the Rev. Mr. Holt said, and declared something tragic has happened to the American family.

"The family is beset with restlessness, perhaps the real reason for which is the change of our civilization from an agricultural or small town sort to an industrial or urban type," the Rev. Mr. Holt explained.

But one of the chief factors in the new family arrangement results from the demotion of the father from king or patriarch to commoner in the household, the Rev. Mr. Holt contended. He held that a father nowadays gets only the authority his intelligence and ability merits.

That, the Rev. Mr. Holt argued, is due to the fact that a family no longer is a "miniature community," but "a rather loose federation of individuals, each member of which is seeking his or her own advantage rather than sacrificing his own desires for the good of the family. The authority of dominance by natural right has given way to an authority ceded to that member of the family who shows the best ability to exercise it."

The Oak Park rector defined the modern family as being a coöperative or comradeship type of federation. In the new family he asserted the job of the modern husband is "to adjust himself to the new attitudes of the rest of the family and try to adjust his own attitudes so that the rest of the family will stick by him. He is a dethroned king trying to become accustomed to being a common citizen in his old empire.

The Rev. Mr. Holt contended that the church must give training in right social attitudes to people before marriage.

"We must show them what tensions are likely to develop in married life and how they can be solved," said the Rev. Mr. Holt.

"Household financial problems," the Rev. Mr. Holt said, "cause 50 per cent of the discord found in families.

"The second cause of discord is sexual, due either to dense ignorance of that problem or wrong information, together with obsessions, due to previous repressions and secretiveness.

"The third cause of discord is parental—the attitudes of fathers or mothers-in-law, or their interference in the method of rearing children."

BETTER METHODS OF COLLEGE WORK THEME AT EDUCATORS' SESSION

Educational reforms, undertaken chiefly by midwestern institutions, were the chief topics of discussion among educators, meeting yesterday at the University of Chicago for a three-day session.

Those at the conference are administrative officials of colleges and universities. They are giving special attention to recent changes at the Universities of Chicago and Wisconsin and at Bennington college in Vermont.

Dr. Henry Gideonse, in charge of courses in social sciences, spoke of methods of studying the impact of the industrial revolution on social, economic and industrial institutions. Dr. Gideonse quoted J. B. S. Haldane as saying: "The conditions of life today differ more from those of 1830 than did the 1830 conditions from those of the time of Noah's flood."

"When we come to study the conflict between individualism and internationalism we shall refer them to Norman Thomas' 'America's Way Out' and to Herbert Hoover's 'American Individualism,'" Dr. Gideonse added. "We are including in our reading lists such works as Boas' 'The Mind of Primitive Man,' Sumner's 'Folkways,' Tawney's 'Acquisitive Society,' Graham Wallas' 'Human Nature in Politics,' and others of the same type."

Students in the humanities course also will go to original sources, Dr. Ferdinand Schevill said. "The object of this course will be to acquaint the students with such selected works of thought and imagination as have by the common opinion of mankind won immortality. In the study of the personal values springing from religion, philosophy, literature, and the arts we shall study masterpieces not only in the light of the social conditions which gave them expression, but also in terms of their relevance to midwestern American life in 1931."

Changes at the University of Wisconsin were described at yesterday's session by Prof. Warren Weaver of that institution. While not as broad in scope as the plan of President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, the Wisconsin curriculum has the same general aim, adaptation of the university to the students' individual needs.

Brilliant students at the University of Wisconsin may be freed from regulations, except from the supervision of an advisor, and may pursue their studies on their own initiative, Prof. Weaver said. The plan places increased emphasis on proved attainments rather than on formal credits.

Women Meet, Make World Peace Appeal

Professional and Trade Leaders Talk.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Richmond, Va., July 8.—[Special.]—American business and professional women, in convention here, today turned temporarily aside from their contemplation of the national unemployment crisis and looked across the Atlantic at the working women there.

A French hotel keeper and an Italian diplomatic attaché; a Canadian business woman, and a Swedish executive were honored tonight at the international relations banquet. As a further symbol of its cosmopolitanism the federation received telegrams from Mrs. Herbert Hoover of the White House, and from Lady Astor of the British parliament.

Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, former president of the federation, speaking at the banquet, made a plea for political internationalism as well as for an individual interest in the individual woman who works in another country.

"It is not enough," she warned, "to study and to know traditions and conditions which encompass the women of other countries. Tomorrow's salvation and security rest deeper still. We must break the straws of tradition and prejudice which bind us, so that we may get a clear vision. We must care for the welfare and happiness of all men.

"As we seek equality we must accord it. We must lay aside fear and stand for peace and the welfare of all. Thus we shall become, not nationalists, but internationalists."

But it was at this afternoon's international peace meeting that the first flutter of discord came to this convention.

The controversy which reared its head so abruptly in the midst of a good will meeting came about this way: Miss Phillips produced a packet of petitions, addressed to the Geneva disarmament conference of next February, urging the conference to put the present disarmament pledges into immediate effect.

She asked that these petitions, sponsored by the cause and cure of war conference, be circulated by federation members. She asked for 50,000 signatures. During the discussion that followed, Miss Margaret Garmand of Alexandria, Va., first vice president for Virginia, took exception to some of the statements made about America's alleged militaristic preparedness. Then, suddenly, she jumped up and announced:

"Well, I can tell you right now that Virginia will never sign that petition."

Out in the corridor there was a hurry up call for the Virginia president, Mrs. M. Edna Holmes, and she and Miss Phillips held a conference at the back of the hall. Virginia, it seems, is split into factions over this question, but had not wanted to let the controversy reach the floor.

The petitions have been passed out. But action on their circulation will not be taken until tomorrow at the general convention meeting.

Later this afternoon another problem came to disturb the delegates. This was a more local one—what happens to the job when a woman's hair begins to get gray?

Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth of President Hoover's emergency unemployment commission came to the convention to urge the women to make a careful research study of the "age factor in business."

She pleaded with them to do all they could to bring about the success of the elaborate research now going on at Bryn Mawr college under the auspices of the federation regarding the economic success of the women past 40.

Whatever the result of this survey, Dr. Gilbreth is optimistic about the general business outlook.

"We have passed the depth of the depression," she declared, "and we will never again reach those depths, thanks to the bitter lessons this one has taught us, and thanks to the various coöperating agencies now in operation."

Earlier today the women forget the woes of gray hair to listen and laugh as women in unusual occupations gathered at breakfast and told of their jobs.

There were morticians and ministers; there was a gold miner and a lady who loved to clean buildings with a sand blast. There was the first woman judge of this, and the first woman clerk in that public office. There was a woman who raised a large family and kept a job; and there was the director in birth control research. But the prize in unique occupations went to Miss Helen Roth of South Bend, Ind. She is interested in making garters for bow legged men. She is associated with Mrs. Mineola Koepne, who started the business.

They have a special "flexible bulge" which is worn inside the knee by bow legged men, and outside the knee by knock kneed men.

"We have customers all over the country," Miss Roth announced. "We have several royal princes; hundreds of actors and ministers; lots of politicians, too. They are all very grateful."

Woman's passion for organizing was outlined by Helen Bennett of Chicago who insisted that "men organize for a particular reason, but women organize just for the fun of it. Put three women on a desert island and in almost no time, you'll have three women's clubs. They love it. But this energy is valuable. It makes them splendid as executives."

HOW LITTLE ASTEROID BECAME PLANET AND THEN SHRUNK RAPIDLY

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, July 8.—The large planet, reported to have been found yesterday by Japanese astronomers, has been found to be only a small asteroid.

The facts, as ascertained by Prof. Shigeru Kanda of Tokio observatory, are that Prof. Nakamura of Kyoto observatory, while developing a plate photographed on June 3, observed a small new asteroid in the region of the constellation Scorpio.

After making and checking the customary calculations, he reported the discovery to the international bureau at Copenhagen on June 25. The asteroid is 200 million miles from the earth, and 310 million miles from the sun. Its diameter has not been exactly calculated, but, according to Prof. Kanda, it is less than 100 miles.

Since numerous asteroids are discovered annually, some of them in Japan, Prof. Nakamura's find consequently received no notice, except five lines in the Astronomical Herald. But the newspaper Yomiuri, in lifting the item, inadvertently magnified its diameter into 12,000 miles, making the minute asteroid into a planet larger than the earth, the diameter of which is about 8,000 miles.

Children's Bureau Offers Health Hints for Summer Months

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

This department makes at various times its own suggestions on summer health, but reinforcement comes from other sources. Now that vacation time is here the children's bureau at Washington is sending out hot weather reminders to parents of small children. Here they are word for word:

In planning vacations, be sure the house to which you are going is clean and well screened and that the milk and water supplies are safe.

If traveling to a place where typhoid may be, have the children inoculated.

Do not let the children drink water from roadside springs, or other sources not known to be safe. For short excursions, carry safe water with you. Boil all drinking water not known definitely to be safe.

See that the child drinks three or four glasses of cool, unflavored water daily. Fresh fruit orangeade and lemonade and tomato juice may be given, also, but not tea, coffee, and some bottled drinks which contain a stimulant which children should not have.

Use no raw milk. If pasteurized milk is unobtainable, boil the raw milk. For children under 2 years all milk must be boiled. Keep cold and well covered.

Do not buy food for children from street carts or from counters where it has been exposed to dirt, dust and flies.

Give the child plenty of fresh, green, leafy vegetables, and ripe, fresh fruits. Be sure that those to be eaten raw are washed in water known to be safe. Children over 18 months may have meat or fish and a fresh egg daily.

Every child should be outdoors 5 to 6 hours daily, except on rainy or very windy days. In the hottest weather children should stay in the shade during the middle of the day.

Children under 6 need a midday rest with at least one or two hours' sleep.

Let the child get well tanned gradually, but not sunburned. Sun suit and sandals are all he needs for a large part of the day. In cooler summer weather he will need cotton underwear, a cotton suit or dress, short socks, shoes, and a sweater when he is not in the sun. Clothing that is too warm makes a child perspire too much and take cold easily.

A list of suggestions for care of the baby at home and traveling during hot weather may be had on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My little nephew, age 3, is very much interested in reading. Recently he was looking through some old magazines which he had found in the basement. I noticed that he had not turned a page for a long time, but was concentrating on one alone, so I asked him what was so entrancing about it. He answered in a rather puzzled one: "Auntie, it says 'Watch this column,' and I've watched it for a long time, and nothing's happened yet!"

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last member of an old southern family, lived with her grandparents at Oakleigh plantation, the heart of the Rutherford family pride. The Rutherford family "don't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Samuel Forman Winstead is the only son and heir of his father, Henry Winstead, down bankers. Henry had hoped his son would go into finance, but Sam prefers to be an agriculturist and have a model dairy farm.

The night of Sally's graduation she receives the news of her grandfather's death. The shock has caused her grandmother to have a stroke.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A GALLANT SPIRIT.

Sally bathed her face, put on a fresh dress, and went downstairs. Moses had a tempting little lunch arranged for her in the darkened dining room, and she ate mechanically and drank her hot tea, the while he hovered around her silently. Then she sought Mr. Sinclair in the library.

The lawyer was sitting before grandpapa's desk, stacks of papers piled neatly before him. The room shared with the rest of the house that still, dim atmosphere, charged with the presence of death. Even the sunlight seemed permeated with it. A dreadful conscious hush hung over Oakleigh.

"I hardly know how to tell you, Sally," began Mr. Sinclair, a tall, thin man with a long, pale face and kind brown eyes, just now full of distress. "It is a very painful duty. To begin with—your grandfather's affairs are in a most involved state—I never imagined anything so bad as this——"

The old lawyer suddenly covered his face with his thin hands.

"How could poor Rupert have been so foolish?" he cried. "He was ruined. Why didn't he listen to reason? O, my God; how am I to tell this to Colonel the truth?"

"Were things so hard for him, Mr. Sinclair? And to think of me, heedlessly enjoying myself!" cried Sally, remorsefully.

Mr. Sinclair lifted his gray head and regarded her mournfully.

"Things were so bad for him that he was ruined. Everything, everything. Nothing left him—but disaster. He was swept clean. Oakleigh mortgaged to the roof." He spread out his hands helplessly. "He told me nothing. He hid the truth from me—until it was too late." He groaned.

"O, poor grandpapa! And it killed him!" exclaimed Sally. For very unaccustomed tears flooded her eyes. "And I'm partly to blame, Mr. Sinclair. I'm sure it was on account of me he made those investments. Because of me he wasn't satisfied with what we had. He always said the Rutherford must have plenty of money; that Oakleigh and just enough to live on decently wasn't enough for me. I didn't pay very much attention, for I thought we had so much. What more could I ask for than I already had? I'm going to him now, Mr. Sinclair, please. I want to tell him how much he really gave me, how much I have, how much I love and honor him." She wept.

"Sally—Sally." He had risen from his chair, pallid, trembling. "My poor little girl—I've known you from your babyhood, Sally. For the love

Little Harbor Club to Open Season Saturday

THE Little Harbor club, that popular rendezvous for Chicagoans at Harbor Springs, Mich., will open its second season on Saturday.

A program of entertainment and sports, similar to that of last season, is planned for this year. Most of the members who have cottages there will be present at the opening dinner dance.

There will be swimming contests throughout this month and next, and the Michigan State Tennis championship tournament will be played at the club on Aug. 24.

Since last season landscape gardeners have been enhancing the attractiveness of the place with a good many finishing touches, and a number of additional tennis courts have been built.

The Chicago members who will be hosts at the opening include Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Ericson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hyman, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr., Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, J. Sidney Burnet, Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Joseph E. Otis Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. James Offield, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Russell. Mrs. Emma Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hickox, and Mr. and Mrs. James B. Barry are among the New York members.

An Electric Auto, Some Rare Fish and Beach Sights.

Did you know—that Mrs. Xavier L. Otis of the Drake is the lady you see driving one of the now rare electrics? . . . that Warren Wright Jr. is the fond and proud possessor of some Siamese fighting fish? . . . that

WILMETTE BRIDE-TO-BE

Daily Invigorating Eye Baths Offset Summer Sunshine

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was attracted the other day by a headline, "Glass Eyes Call for Feeling." My mind jumped to that familiar ad about false teeth being O. K. but it's better to hold on to your naturals—only L paraphrased it to read eyes instead of teeth. Maybe that was far fetched since it takes an accident to inspire a glass eye purchase. And, anyway, the article was about glass eyes for animals, museum preserved ones, and glass eyes for toys—teddy bears, dogs, dolls, and so on.

Incidentally, the manufacturer of glass eyes interviewed for the article spoke with regret about the disappearance of birds from women's hats. The younger generation never heard the song about the bird on Nellie's hat. That bird (glass eyed with feeling) and poised for flight on Nellie's hat was supposed to have gotten in some nice, clean dirty work for Nellie. But that's all ancient history.

The girls don't need birds any more. But they have eyes of their own that had better receive a bit of warning if they're going to be exposed to long hours of automobile travel, long hours on the beach, or in the water. That summer sun can put a few sad and blighting years into a good pair of eyes, unless they're buoyed up betimes with a boric acid wash, or some eye wash solution is used.

Just one more little beautifying article you should have on your toilet table or cabinet shelf—an eye cup. You can relieve eye tension with just warm water turned on the eye with one of these handy little cups.

The mild boric acid solution is good, too. You know how your eyes feel from just the eye solution treatment you get with a facial. It's not much of a job to lie down and apply to the lids a tiny cloth soaked in a good eye lotion and rest the eyes for 5 minutes. This, before you go out for the dinner engagement after a day of hard driving on the road or at the office, is youthifying.

SALLY'S 100 GUESTS SEE CHARLIE CHAN SOLVE CRIME TODAY

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Our baseball party day is just a week distant but so anxious am I to see this Cubs-Giants game that a week seems a long time to wait. The hundred guests who will accompany me to Wrigley field on that day will be selected this morning so I hope that every one who wants to be invited has his or her letter written and on the way to my office.

I hope, too, that you didn't forget to tell me your age and your full name and your address. So many times I find perfectly splendid letters in my mail and I cannot invite the writer because one of these items was neglected. You see, they are important.

Today's the day of our party at the Oriental theater where we'll see that incredibly wise man, Charlie Chan, solve all the mysteries of "The Black Camel." Invitations have been sent to all the girls and boys who will accompany me and I hope that nothing will interfere with their coming. You have the directions for meeting and don't forget that it's the Oriental theater where Charlie Chan is holding forth. I'm looking forward to a marvelous time, are you?

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—The Canadian minister, Maj. Herridge, who spent only a few days in Washington last month when he came to present his credentials, returned here today for another short visit at the legation.

The former American ambassador to Mexico, who is now chairman of the tariff commission, and Mrs. Henry P. Fletcher, have leased a cottage at Newport. Mrs. Fletcher already has gone there for the summer.

Senator and Mrs. James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who have spent

Courage, Confidence. Get One the Breaks These Modern Days

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A recipe for popularity gathered from a college girl symposium on the subject and presented in a current periodical, striking this reader as among the best offered, stresses the value of a lack of false pride. False pride prevents a girl from doing things for fear she will be laughed at, or for fear she will make a mistake, or that she might not win.

Admitted that it isn't easy to plunge into a new game or stunt with a new crowd, still this popularity formula referred to advises just that procedure as a way to get about and make oneself liked.

It wouldn't be possible to estimate how many girls have lost out on opportunities because they lacked the nerve to jump right in with both feet and forget all about criticism. Anyway, young women are living in a period where nerve is needed. Whether you don't care whether you are laughed at or not. Where you decide you're going to break through barriers no matter how formidable they seem when you first hang back. Possibly nerve is not the right word to use. It's courage, rather. And faith in self. Whether you've been born with or without these two qualities, you've got to have them in order to be one of the group whose company you aim to share.

There's no time for the shrinking violet or for the girl who hasn't any confidence in herself. If you're the least bit observant you can see for yourself that women who have the courage to break in not only manage to get in but to hold their places there. There's a difference between courage and cheek. But it is better as the pursuit of happiness is practiced by our young today to have cheek than not to be sold on oneself.

Girls will hold back from joining clubs. Maybe they wouldn't be wanted, they argue. If that's the way they feel about themselves, they're not wanted. No one has re-

The Rutherford pride "don't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined theirs, owns banker, Henry had hoped his son would go into finance, but Sam prefers to be an agriculturist and have a model dairy farm. . . . On the night of Sally's graduation she receives the news of her grandfather's death. The shock has caused her grandmother to have a stroke.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A GALLANT SPIRIT.

Sally bathed her face, put on a fresh dress, and went downstairs. Moses had set a tempting little lunch arranged for her in the darkened dining room, and she ate mechanically and drank her hot tea, the while he hovered around her silently. Then she sought Mr. Sinclair in the library.

The lawyer was sitting before grandpapa's desk, stacks of papers piled untidily before him. The room shared with the rest of the house that still, heavy atmosphere, charged with the presence of death. Even the sunlight seemed permeated with it. A dreadful conscious hush hung over Oakleigh.

Mr. Sinclair, with a long, pale face and kind brown eyes, just now full of distress, looked up. It is a very painful duty. To begin with—your grandfather's affairs are in a most involved state—I never imagined anything so bad as this——"

The old lawyer suddenly covered his face with his thin hands.

"How could poor Rupert have been so foolish?" he cried. "He was warned. Why didn't he listen to reason? O, my God; how am I to tell this child the truth?"

"Were things so hard for him, Mr. Sinclair? And to think of me, heedlessly enjoying myself!" cried Sally, remorsefully.

Mr. Sinclair lifted his gray head and regarded her mournfully.

"Things were so bad for him that he was ruined. Everything, everything. Nothing left him—but disaster. He was swept clean. Oakleigh mortgaged to the roof." He spread out his hands helplessly. "He told me nothing. He hid the truth from me—until it was too late." He groaned.

"O, poor grandpapa! And it killed him!" exclaimed Sally. For very unaccustomed tears flooded her eyes. "And I'm partly to blame, Mr. Sinclair. I'm sure it was on account of me he made those investments. Because of me he wasn't satisfied with what we had. He always said the Rutherford must have plenty of money; that Oakleigh and just enough to live on decently wasn't enough for me. I didn't pay very much attention, but I thought we had so much. What more could I ask for than I already had? I'm going to him now, Mr. Sinclair, please. I want to tell him how much he really gave me, how much I have, how much I love and honor him." She wept.

"Sally—Sally." He had risen from his chair, pallid, trembling. "My poor little girl—I've known you from your babyhood, Sally. For the love of God don't, don't go in and look at him!"

"I don't understand." Something menacing, a smothering horror, a ghastly presence approached, and, as it were, clutched her shrinking soul with a ghastly hand. She got to her feet and started across the room. He caught her before she could open the door and held her back.

Her grandmother heard the shot and the fall and ran to the sound. Mercifully, the stroke fell upon her even as she screamed. Poor dear little girl, my poor child, when Rupert saw he was facing ruin—everything was gone—he—he shot himself." He wouldn't tell her "to blow his brains out!"

She reeled, but again she did not scream. She mustn't be so frightened—she mustn't. Only let her get free of this smothering blackness. For the time being she couldn't comprehend. What could any disaster mean to her except as it touched him personally? Except as it swept away that splendid, beautiful presence, closed his kind eyes, silenced his handsome lips?

"I must see him," she insisted agonizedly.

Soothingly he led her to the closed room and himself raised the coffin lid. At her look on the poor, shattered, bandaged thing that had once been the handsome, courtly, honored, envied Rupert Rutherford.

"O, poor darling! And this is what has come to you!" whispered Sally, touching his folded hands gently. And she wept for him, never thinking of herself. She had never before been called upon to weep for a Rutherford, and it was a bitter experience. It bewildered her that this terrible thing could befall grandpapa and the sky not fall, the world come to a ruinous end. It made her panicky that the sun went on shining unconcernedly, as though nothing had happened.

"Darling, darling grandpapa, don't you worry about me. I'm young. I'm strong. I can work. I promise you I'll take care of grandmamma for you. I'll carry on. I'll do the best I can always."

Then all over the state letters and telegrams of condolence and sympathy poured in. Mounds of flowers and an endless line of cars from the city from all the county streamed up the great oak avenue. People felt a sort of consternation—the colonel had always appeared to be the very butt-in Fortune's cap, and now this ghastly ending of an honorable career.

After the colonel had been laid away in the family vault under the trees at Oakleigh, in the presence of a vast concourse of people who were deeply stirred by the tragedy of his passing, and the house was at last free of guests, Sally had another interview with Mr. Sinclair.

"My nerves are quite steady and my head is clear again, Mr. Sinclair. I have heard the worst news I shall ever hear, so nothing you can tell me will overwhelm me," she said composedly. "Now, to begin with, grandpapa would expect me to take care of grandmamma. I am going to do so. I must do so. I want you to tell me exactly how our affairs stand, so I shall know how to begin."

"You are a brave child, Sally, and a good child," he said gently. "I wish to heaven I had better news for you—you deserve it. But I can't tell you how to begin the task you have set for yourself. The fact is, dear girl, there isn't anything to begin with."

"Everything is gone, Mr. Sinclair?"

"Everything," said he, with a hopeless gesture.

"Isn't there any hope of salvaging something—enough for poor grandmamma, at least?"

"The question is," said he miserably, in a low voice, "whether both of you won't have to leave Oakleigh."

She clasped her hands mutely. The place was heavily mortgaged—she knew that much. But that wasn't so fatal, was it? Didn't people manage to keep mortgaged homes? Not keep Oakleigh? But that was home. The Rutherfords had always kept Oakleigh. Oakleigh was part of Rutherford history. She looked so young, so stricken, so startled, that the lawyer could not help going on.

"The interest is paid up for the past six months—it is due every half year." He did not tell her that several members of the bar, himself among them, the colonel's friends, had paid the amount among them, though it was more than some of them could afford; that they had paid for the colonel's funeral, and set aside, in addition, a small sum to run the household for the time being, and that he himself was paying the servants out of his own pocket. It was the last thing he could do for Rupert. "After this there is nothing to pay it with—there are other debts besides, so there must inevitably be a foreclosure. I have spoken to Mr. Winstead, the holder of the mortgage, and I find him very sympathetic and kindly. He reminded me that he had ventured to advise the colonel—had actually warned him—but poor Rupert wouldn't listen. He was too sure he had a fortune in his grasp."

"How much did grandpapa borrow from him?"

"Approximately about forty thousand dollars. There was also money raised on his life insurance," he added, vehemently. "It is unbelievable."

"And the interest?"

"Ten would have to meet somewhat more than three thousand dollars with nothing to meet it with. My child, you must resign yourself to the place go."

"Mr. Winstead knew that those weren't safe investments, even while poor grandpapa the money, didn't he?"

"He warned your grandfather not to make them, Sally."

"But he loaned him the money to do so, Mr. Sinclair, because he knew in the easiest way—the only way—for him to get Oakleigh."

"Somebody must have gotten it sooner or later, my dear. If anybody had loaned Rupert even half so much as he got from Henry Winstead it would have been the same in the long run. Rupert couldn't resist it. Oakleigh would have had to go."

"What do you mean," Sally faltered, half rising from her chair, "that Mr. Winstead can take Oakleigh away from us? But, Mr. Sinclair, this is grandmamma's home! It's ours. It has always been ours. Can a Winstead take Oakleigh away from the Rutherfords, Mr. Sinclair?" She looked horrified, incredulous, unbelieving.

R. C.: USE AN ORANGE STICK in cleaning the nails. It is preferable to a pointed instrument, which is apt to cause a roughening of the under edge of the nail, where the dirt lodges. To overcome this roughening rub cold cream at night and allow it to remain on during the night.

There will be swimming contests throughout this month and next, and the Michigan State Tennis championship tournament will be played at the club on Aug. 14.

Since last season landscape gardeners have been enhancing the attractiveness of the place with a good many finishing touches, and a number of additional tennis courts have been built.

The Chicago members who will be hosts at the opening include Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Ericson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hyman, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr., Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, J. Sidney Burnet, Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Joseph E. Otis Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. James Offield, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Russell. Mrs. Emma Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hickox, and Mr. and Mrs. James B. An Electric Auto, Some Rare Fish and Beach Sights.

Did you know—that Mrs. Xavier L. Otis of the Drake is the lady you see driving one of the now rare electrics? . . . that Warren Wright Jr. is the fond and proud possessor of some Siamese fighting fish? . . . that Gold Coasters who own field glasses, binoculars or telescopes are wont to pass the time away on hot days by training the glasses on the Oak street beach and watching the sights? . . . that George Wittbold made $1,500 on $2 bets last Saturday at Arlington and that so far he's had tickets on every long shot that'd come in? . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Willett are giving dinners in their penthouse on warm evenings at which only iced food, such as duck in aspic, melons cooled with ginger ale, iced vegetables, etc., are served? . . . that Mary Tilt's engagement ring [at least she was wearing it on her engagement finger the other night] is set with a large and illustrous black pearl?

Exciting Polo Matches Planned for Sunday at Oakbrook.

The polo at Oakbrook is to be extra exciting this Sunday. Two of the strongest teams of polo players that can be selected from the Chicago territory will play, and the Old Alken and Argentine teams will be present to see a fine sample of polo as it is played in the middle west.

Mrs. R. R. McCormick will give a luncheon for the visitors before the game, and afterwards high tea will be served at the club.

The probable lineup will include Capt. Paul Butler, William Mitchell Blair, Edward Hillman Jr., Barney Balding and Tex Crites.

Proceeds of the Sunday game at Onwentsia benefit the Hinsdale Infant Welfare society. The committee in charge is headed by Mrs. Paul Butler and Mrs. W. W. Kimball, co-chairmen, and Mrs. H. H. Holcomb, ground supervisor.

Actress' Burns Now Treated by Light to Avert Skin Grafting

New York, July 8.—(AP)—The floodlights under which Eva Le Gallienne earned national fame as an actress are now to be used to hasten her recovery from the severe burns she suffered in a recent explosion at her summer home in Norwalk, Conn.

This form of treatment for burns is of recent development. Its advantages are relative painlessness and a marked reduction in the disfigurement due to scar formation.

The injured skin reacts favorably to the stimulating effects of the light. Where, as in the case of Miss Le Gallienne, the burn is not too deep, exposure of the affected area to light causes the fairly rapid growth of new skin. This obviates the need for the difficult, painful and trying operation of skin graft, in which operation minute bits of skin are shaved off other portions of the body, the thigh, for example, and are implanted on the denuded burnt area.

The actinic treatment of burns, as this method is called, is relatively new, and is a by product of the recently developed science of heliotherapy, the use of light from natural and artificial sources in the treatment of disease.

Black Gown Displays Latest Style Points

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is concentrating a great deal of her sartorial interest on or around the armholes of her new evening gowns. Trick décolletés are being simplified, a great many smart frocks having plain, square-cut or rounded necklines, while decoration gives importance to the shoulder straps.

Paul Ploret's flower garland armholes are significant of this trend. Many of Lucien Lelong's new evening gowns for late summer and early autumn wear have their armholes surrounded by circular flounces of lingerie or mousseline that give an airy butterfly effect to the upper arms, which, by the way, makes the waist look very slender by widening the shoulders without making them bulky.

The Augustabernard evening gown, sketched today, is one of the most charming ever seen in Paris and it unites a number of the very latest style points. It's black crêpe de chine with shoulder interest expresed in bias folds of pale pink crêpe de chine that are twisted round the shoulder straps and pass under the arms.

A contrasting sweeper-fold of the pale crêpe de chine peeps coquettishly from beneath the black skirt hem. A softly draped girdle of pink and black crêpe de chine is drawn through a slit in the front of the bodice and fastens by being tucked under in back.

Daily Invigorating Eye Baths Offset Summer Sunshine

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was attracted the other day by a headline, "Glass Eyes Call for Feeling." My mind jumped to that familiar ad about false teeth being O. K. but it's better to hold on to your naturals—only L paraphrased it to read eyes instead of teeth. Maybe that was far fetched since it takes an accident to inspire a glass eye purchase. And, anyway, the article was about glass eyes for animals, museum preserved ones, and glass eyes for toys—teddy bears, dogs, dolls, and so on.

Incidentally, the manufacturer of glass eyes interviewed for the article spoke with regret about the disappearance of birds from women's hats. The younger generation never heard the song about the bird on Nellie's hat. That bird (glass eyed with feeling) and poised for flight on Nellie's hat was supposed to have gotten in some nice, clean dirty work for Nellie. But that's all ancient history.

The girls don't need birds any more. But they have eyes of their own that had better receive a bit of warning if they're going to be exposed to long hours of automobile travel, long hours on the beach, or in the water. That summer sun can put a few sad and blighting years into a good pair of eyes, unless they're buoyed up betimes with a boric acid wash, or some eye wash solution is used.

Just one more little beautifying article you should have on your toilet table or cabinet shelf—an eye cup. You can relieve eye tension with just warm water turned on the eye with one of these handy little cups.

The mild boric acid solution is good, too. You know how your eyes feel from just the eye solution treatment you get with a facial. It's not much of a job to lie down and apply to the lids a tiny cloth soaked in a good eye lotion and rest the eyes for 5 minutes. This, before you go out for the dinner engagement after a day of hard driving on the road or at the office, is youthifying.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Reprimand Wasted.

Last year while I was on traffic duty at a busy intersection a motorist attempted to make a left turn against regulations. I called to him and pointed to the "Right Turn Only" sign. He paid no attention to my signal, continued his turn and, in so doing, drove directly into me.

By this time I was angry. I went up to the driver's window, which was partly open, and proceeded to inquire just what the big idea was. Hardly had I opened my mouth when a woman in the back seat leaned forward and said something to me. I could not make out what it was she said because of the traffic noise but I took it for granted that she was just another back seat driver, so I informed her that my remarks were entirely for the benefit of the driver, and that if she would remain quiet she would favor me greatly.

I resumed my lecture. For several minutes I raved on, going over the regulations from one end to the other. Finally the rear door opened, the woman put her head out and said, "Pardon me, officer; this man is deaf and dumb." I had not given the poor fellow a chance to say anything, even if he could. Although I was embarrassed this struck me funny and the woman and I had a good laugh so I waved them on, the driver still with that dumb look on his face.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Our baseball party day is just a week distant but so anxious am I to see this Cubs-Giants game that a week seems a long time to wait. The hundred guests who will accompany me to Wrigley field on that day will be selected this morning so I hope that every one who wants to be invited has his or her letter written and on the way to my office.

I hope, too, that you didn't forget to tell me your age and your full name and your address. So many times I find perfectly splendid letters in my mail and I cannot invite the writer because one of these items was neglected. You see, they are important.

Today's the day of our party at the Oriental theater where we'll see that incredibly wise man, Charlie Chan, solve all the mysteries of "The Black Camel." Invitations have been sent to all the girls and boys who will accompany me and I hope that nothing will interfere with their coming. You have the directions for meeting and don't forget that it's the Oriental theater where Charlie Chan is holding forth. I'm looking forward to a marvelous time, are you?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A recipe for popularity gathered from a college girl symposium on the subject and presented in a current periodical, striking this reader as among the best offered, stresses the value of a lack of false pride. False pride prevents a girl from doing things for fear she will be laughed at, or for fear she will make a mistake, or that she might not win.

Admitted that it isn't easy to plunge into a new game or stunt with a new crowd, still this popularity formula referred to advises just that procedure as a way to get about and make oneself liked.

It wouldn't be possible to estimate how many girls have lost out on opportunities because they lacked the nerve to jump right in with both feet and forget all about criticism. Anyway, young women are living in a period where nerve is needed. Where you don't care whether you are laughed at or not. Where you decide you're going to break through barriers no matter how formidable they seem when you first hang back.

Possibly nerve is not the right word to use. It's courage, rather. And faith in self. Whether you've been born with or without these two qualities, you've got to have them in order to be one of the group whose company you aim to share.

There's no time for the shrinking violet or for the girl who hasn't any confidence in herself. If you're the least bit observant you can see for yourself that women who have the courage to break in not only manage to get in but to hold their places there. There's a difference between courage and cheek. But it is better as the pursuit of happiness is practiced by our young today to have cheek than not to be sold on oneself.

Girls will hold back from joining clubs. Maybe they wouldn't be wanted, they argue. If that's the way they feel about themselves, they're not wanted. No one has respect for the personal "belittler." She's too uncomfortable to be with.

Food Talk.

Mrs. I. H. writes, "Please advise which way cucumbers are best for one to eat, with or without vinegar. Some say they are poisonous if eaten just as they are, sliced and without having been soaked in vinegar."

There are many tales that have been told about cucumbers but I have never heard that vinegar possessed any magic for ridding the vegetable of its supposed poisonous constituent. Many hold that salt water draws the "indigestible something" out of cucumbers. I once knew a chemist who insisted that unless cucumbers were sliced thinly and soaked in salt water for several minutes before they were put into their seasoned vinegar dressing they would make him very ill. It may have been that imagination or circumstantial evidence led him to believe that the cucumbers were the offenders. Another food eaten at the same time the untreated cucumbers were eaten might have been the mischief maker.

There are some people, however, who do find cucumbers truly poisonous. They are sensitized to this particular vegetable. And the only thing for them to do is to avoid them. But thousands eat cucumbers without any salt water treatment and without any ill effects. My advice is to eat them in the way that seems to be compatible with good digestion.

Another belief is that the green peeling of the cucumber is poisonous and should always be peeled off before the vegetable is used in any way. But this theory has been disproved. In homes and hotels where the most skillful cooks prepare salads the whole cucumber is often sliced. The green rim of the cucumber disc is attractive and it impairs the flavor of the salad in no way. And I've never known such a salad to make any one ill.

Letting sliced cucumbers stand a while in salt water is an old practice. Salt water draws out a bitter flavor that many cucumbers have. Salt water also draws out water, making the cucumber slices flabby. These flabby pieces may be restored to their usual crispness by soaking again in plain ice cold water. Of course, it must be remembered the more soaking one does the more of the mineral salts and the more of the cucumber flavor is drawn out.

Cucumbers may be sliced, cubed, or julienned and eaten with salt and pepper. They are also delicious cooked. They may be creamed, fried, escalloped, or made into soups. In all cooked forms they are delicious.

APRICOT GELATIN.

½ cup boiling water
1 cup apricot sirup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Few grains salt
1½ tablespoons granulated gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1-3 cup seedless raisins
½ cup boiling water
2-3 cup canned apricots, cut in pieces

Boil in water and sugar 1 minute. Add apricot sirup, lemon juice, salt and gelatin soaked in cold water. Cook raisins in boiling water until raisins are plump. Add to jelly mixture with apricots cut in small pieces. Turn into mold, chill thoroughly and serve with or without whipped cream.

CUCUMBER JELLY SALAD.

Grate enough cucumber to fill one cup. Add 2 tablespoons vinegar and a pinch of salt. Dissolve a package of lemon flavored gelatin in ½ pint boiling water. When cool and beginning to thicken, add the cucumber mixture, press through a sieve, add a few drops of green coloring and turn into a pan. When firm, cut in squares. Serve on sliced cucumbers with salad dressing.

BUSINESS MAN BEATEN; BLAMES A RIVAL FIRM

Cleveland Contractor Is Waylaid on Street.

Cleveland, O., July 8.—[Special.]—A New York sewer construction company hired gunmen to beat up Joseph Kalill, 37, president of the Kalill & Jackson Construction company, Kalill told police today, following an attack during which he was slugged over the head with a lead pipe.

The contractor explained to police that his concern recently had underbid a New York sewer company on a project there and that he had received threats. He told police the name of the firm, but it was not made public.

Last December two employés of Kalill's company were killed in a mysterious explosion of dynamite, which nearly wrecked a sewer construction camp in Brooklyn village, a Cleveland suburb. The contractor told police here tonight that he believed the same New York firm was responsible for that blast.

Kalill was assaulted today by three men as he was approaching his garage. One of the thugs held a revolver and a second stood watch while a third slugged the contractor over the head several times with a piece of lead pipe.

His cries brought Deputy Marshal Walter J. Moore of Fairview village. The thugs escaped after a wild chase to the city limits of Cleveland.

A cap dropped by one of Kalill's three assailants and found by Moore bore a tag indicating it was purchased at Coney Island, N. Y., the officer said.

HANGS HIMSELF IN GARAGE.

EX-WIFE WINS POINT IN LEGAL FIGHT FOR WRITER'S CHILDREN

Evansville, Ind., July 8.—[Special.]—Judge Benjamin Buente today granted Mrs. Helen Jones the custody of her three children, now in California with her divorced husband, Henry Bedford Jones, writer.

Though Henry Bedford Jones is beyond the reach of the Indiana state courts, if the order of Judge Buente turning the children over to the mother is presented to the federal court of California, the writer may be ordered to return them here, Mrs. Jones' attorney stated.

By a previous order of Judge Edwin C. Henning, following a hearing on their custody, in which the children took the stand for their father against their mother, the children were placed in the court's custody.

The writer and his divorced wife have been involved in litigation over the children since their divorce in 1929.

Files Appeal to Court's Order to Deport Volpe

Charging that Tony "Mops" Volpe, a Capone henchman, did not get a fair hearing before immigration authorities, the gangster's attorney, John Elliott Bryne, yesterday filed a bill of exceptions and assignment of error in the appeal of Volpe from a deportation order issued by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Volpe is free on bonds pending the outcome of the appeal which will likely not come up before the United States Circuit court of appeals until October or November.

Mrs. Hoover to Christen New Dirigible at Akron

Washington, D. C., July 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover has accepted an invitation to christen the navy's giant dirigible, "The Akron," at Akron, O., on Aug. 8. The big airship is being constructed at the Akron plants of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation.

BROWN REFUSES DOHERTY PLEA TO BAR NEWSPAPER

Washington, D. C., July 8.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Brown today replied to Henry L. Doherty, head of Cities Service company of New York, who asked that the Kansas City Star be barred from the United States mails because it had printed "colored" stories that resulted in certain Cities Service stocks being banned by the state of Kansas.

Doherty's request was received this morning in a 3,000 word telegram.

Mr. Brown cited the federal laws pertaining to his authority to exclude from the mails matter of a libelous, scurrilous, defamatory or threatening character, and advised Doherty that the postoffice department had no evidence with respect to the manner in which such matter referred to had been carried in the mails.

It was later learned from postoffice officials that nothing else would be done about the complaint, unless it was shown that the stories objected to by Doherty were obscene. If they were of a libelous character, it was held, the proper action would be a court action.

Hoosier Committee Visits Grounds of World's Fair

Members of the Indiana world's fair committee visited Chicago yesterday to look over the ground on which the Century of Progress exposition will be held in 1933 and to make plans for the expenditure of the $50,000 which their state has appropriated for participation in the exhibition. Led by Chairman A. Murray Turner of Hammond, the committee inspected the Travel and Transport building and the reproduction of Fort Dearborn. Then they were luncheon guests of Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, in the trustees' room of the Administration building.

Son of French Admiral Dies in Submarine Test

TOULON, France, July 8.—(AP)—Lieut. Paul Jehenne, son of Admiral Jehenne, who commanded the French marines at Dixmude, was suffocated today while experimenting with a new diving apparatus from the French submarine Calypso. As first officer of the vessel he went down to the bottom of the bay wearing the apparatus. He fainted and died shortly after he had been hauled to the surface.

REVOLT IN PERU ENDED; LEADERS FACE ARMY COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, July 8.—The termination of the revolt in the south, with the capture of Cusco Monday, is generally accepted by the Lima public as the conclusion of the latest Peruvian revolutionary adventure.

From its inception the Cusco revolt appeared sporadic. The outbreak failed completely to develop its ramifications elsewhere in the republic. The energy of Col. Gustavo Jiminez, who is now minister of war, and formerly chief lieutenant of Lieut. Col. Sanches-Cerro, is credited with the prompt restoration of order.

The number of dead is estimated at between 40 and 50, and 150 wounded. The action of the loyal artillery group in holding the Cusco cathedral against the rebels in that city was largely responsible for the collapse of the rebel morale.

It is understood that a drum head court martial has been ordered for all the captured rebel officers. The rebels who escaped are reported to have fled into the jungle territory of the Madre de Dios river section.

TOWN'S MEN ALL EMPLOYED; TWO JOBS GO BEGGING

Leland, a town of 848 inhabitants 30 miles south of Aurora, apparently has no unemployment problem. M. K. Madison, a section foreman for the Burlington railroad, needed two hands and he spent all yesterday and last evening searching for jobless. But at last he was forced to wire his division office: "Have looked all over town and was unable to hire men anywhere. Everybody in this town is employed. Kindly hire men elsewhere and send them to me at once." Two weeks ago a call to the Illinois Free Employment office at Aurora requesting a farm hand was unavailing. All had been put to work.

Fresno, Cal., July 9.—[Special.]—The eighth successive day of 100 degree heat blistered crops and saw the invasion of vineyard and alfalfa regions by myriads of bugs today. Bakersfield had a temperature of 110 yesterday.

HEINE PITCHES SHUTOUT BALL FOR 8 INNINGS

Hornsby Moves Over to Third Base.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 8.—Manager Dunn's attempt to lure the Pirates to defeat by the use of second string hurling today wasn't a success. They opposed Lon Warneke and Jakie May in the first two innings for enough runs to fatten the Cubs for the fourth time in fourteen games played between the two teams this season. The score was 6 to 2 and it stretched the interval between the Chicagoans and vanquishing Cardinals to four games.

The brief but eventful pitching lives of Warneke and May were only part of several complications developed during the unhappy struggle. The kids' attack was as weak as their wire pitching. The lad with the tuneful name of Heinie Meine gave them only six hits and half of these didn't show up until the ninth when the Cubs got busy and staved off a whitewash. The only consolation was that Heinie was doing what he had done in other good teams of the league. He gave heads of nine victories, three of them shutouts.

Hack's Slowness Aids Pirates.

Some of the blame for the scoring of five Pirates in the first two innings can be charged to Hack Wilson. Hack was woefully slow getting up to a pellet which started the two run rumpus in the first. He was a small cog in for a short fly which produced the trouble in the second. Similar fielding occurred in both the third and fourth to put May in trouble, but he managed to overcome the deficiencies.

Heinie's experiment in playing third base so that there would be no wear and tear on his weak right by was just enough of a success to warrant continuing it. He came in but never perfectly on two bunts and pounced up one tough grounder. The Pirates also aimed several other shots at him, all going foul, but abandoned that mode of attack when they discovered the old fellow could still play third base after being away from the post for 15 years.

Tearbout Starts Today.

Despite the failure of Warneke to establish himself as a winner or even a near winner today, Hornsby intends to start another member of his bull pen corps tomorrow. Bud Teachout, the rookie who flashed so brilliantly but briefly when the regulars faded, is to get a summons. The excuse for this method of conducting the pitching department is that the stars of the staff—Root, Malone, and Smith—must be rested for the St. Louis series which follows. Smith has a split bone in his left thumb, but the injury will not stop him from working about next Monday. Glen Spencer probably will be the Pirates' choice tomorrow.

The youthful Warneke fanned Lloyd Waner, the leadoff man, before the Pirates took up the business of scoring five runs in the first inning. Jensen and Sent English, who slowed down the ball just enough to let Jensen speed around before Wilson could get it, started things singled through short on the first pitch and Jensen scored. Warneke then walked both Traynor and P. Waner. Grantham's line drive to Stephenson permitted Grantham to score.

INDIANS DEFEAT SOX, 10 TO 6, IN ELEVEN INNINGS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Thoughts of raising their winning streak to four straight and the idea of achieving two extra inning successes on consecutive days proved too much for the nervous White Sox yesterday. They swooned in the eleventh and permitted the Cleveland Indians to surge over five runs to break a 5 to 5 tie.

JOHNNY KERR.

After the strain was relieved the Sox came back like wildcats in the eleventh and made a run which would have been rich gold in the tenth, but was strictly Chinese coinage in the eleventh. When the thing was over the Cleveland club had won, 10 to 6.

The Sox were fortunate to force the contest into extra innings, seeing as how they operated for the regulation nine innings with a hitless outfield. The outfielders are supposed to furnish hitting punch, but until Reynolds doubled with two out in the tenth there was no evidence that the Sox outer line ever had been a baseball bat.

Outfielders Are No Help.

The Indians gained a 3 to 0 lead in the first inning after two were out, when Vosmik drove in three runs with a homer, but the Sox tied it in the second inning without any assistance whatsoever from the outfield punch. The Indians made a run in the third and another in the fourth, but in the seventh the Sox, again without aid from the outfielder sluggers, tied the score and had runners on third and second before the Sox gardeners could supply enough fade-outs to retire the side.

The Sox infielders were in sprightly contrast to the nonhitting outfield. Little Johnny Kerr had an especially active day with a single and a double and a dozen accepted chances at second base. In the third inning Johnny played both second base and right field when it became apparent the sun was bothering the right fielders.

The Sox lost no ground in their

Hunk Anderson Is Operated on for Appendicitis

Rochester, Minn., July 8.—(A)—Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, senior football coach at Notre Dame, who had been recovering here from an attack of meningitis, was operated on late today for acute appendicitis.

Several hours later Anderson's condition was reported as "fairly good," although Dr. Waltman Walters said it was too early to determine definitely.

Anderson came here more than a week ago for examination to determine the cause of severe headaches, from which he had been suffering since last May.

Physicians' diagnosis was meningitis. He had been receiving treatment for the last week, and the headaches had nearly disappeared.

RUTH'S 4 HITS RETURN HIM TO SLUGGING LEAD

Babe Ruth's twenty-first home run, plus three other hits off the Red Sox pitchers, sent his batting average soaring to the top of the American league yesterday. Morgan connected three times but he trailed the Babe by three points while Webb, the third of the American league leaders, kept in front of his National league rivals in the big six by also pounding out three hits and boosting his average two points. The standing:

JONES RETURNS TO WEST POINT; ASSISTS FLEMING

West Point, N. Y., July 8.—(AP)—Capt. L. M. [Biff] Jones, former Army football coach, reported for duty here today after having spent a year at the Field Artillery school, Fort Sill, Okla. He was immediately assigned by Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent, as assistant graduate manager of athletics.

Biff will serve as Maj. P. B. Fleming's assistant for the coming year and on expiration of Fleming's term as graduate manager next June will succeed him to that post. Capt. Jones is thoroughly familiar with the Army athletic system, having been football coach from 1926 to 1929.

SCHMELING WILL BOX CARNERA IN EAST NEXT FALL

W. L. Praises Blake

MACON, Ga., July 8.—(AP)—W. L. Stribling Jr., beaten by Max Schmeling last Friday night, was welcomed home informally today at a meeting of the Macon Kiwanis club. Speaking briefly of the fight, Stribling praised Schmeling's sportsmanship and congratulated Referee George Blake for his action in stopping the fight.

"I could have stuck it out," Stribling said, "but I appreciate Blake's position. He did not wish to take chances on having me seriously hurt."

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling will defend his world heavyweight championship against Primo Carnera, Italian giant, in a 15 round bout to be held in the early fall, probably in Jersey City.

Definite announcement that Schmeling-Carnera bout will be held in the fall came today following a meeting attended by William V. Saxe, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois; Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, accompanied by his legal advisers; and Leon See, Carnera's manager, who was also accompanied by his lawyers.

At the conclusion of this meeting, Saxe issued the following statement:

"In accordance with the agreements made last January, a bout for the heavyweight championship of the world has been arranged between the new heavyweight champion and Primo Carnera, challenger.

The agreement referred to is a contract signed at the time Schmeling committed himself to the recent bout against Young Stribling in Cleveland, in which Schmeling agreed to defend his title in September against Carnera under the direction of the Illinois corporation. This contract provides specifically for a 15 round bout.

Since it is unlikely Jacobs would consent to a reduction of the number of rounds, Chicago and Philadelphia are eliminated as possible battle sites.

This indicates the bout must be held in the extreme east, leaving only Connecticut and New Jersey as likely sites. In Connecticut bouts of 20 rounds are possible, and in New Jersey 15 rounds is the maximum.

Strawberry Pop Must Go! Let's Keep Marbles Clean

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—A lady who served as assistant coach, or trainer, for a group of young athletes contesting in the recent tournament for the national marbles championship at Ocean City, N. J., brings the disquieting news that attempts were made to load some of the boys into dissipation in order to bring about their defeat.

Nothing as evil as the kidnaping and forcible feeding of intoxicants to Mr. Flint Rhem, the pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, during a crucial series in Brooklyn last year, has been resorted to as yet, but there was a case in this year's tournament of a young marbles player who was practically drugged with nine sacks of pop corn and five bottles of strawberry soda. Only the young man's remarkable skill and doses of bicarbonate of soda availed to pull him together and also pull him through his match that afternoon.

Relatively, the seduction of the innocent marbles player, who came from Kentucky, amounted to the same thing as the dastardly treatment of Mr. Rhem, who was kept up all night and forced to drink highballs under such threats as "What about another drink, old boy, drink, old boy, old boy?" and "Rhem, rhum, whatever your name is, what about another small touch?"

Victim of Glib Stranger.

The young marbles player reported that a glib stranger, possibly a Philadelphia gambler, plied him with popcorn and strawberry soda until he was almost unconscious. Obviously, steps will have to be taken to keep the game of marbles free from taint. Or, as James J. Walker, the author of the prize fighting law in New York, declaimed at a historic luncheon just before the law went into effect, if the grand old game cannot be kept clean, then let it die.

At this point I become aware that in writing about little boys I am being terribly winsome. They are sure fire material by which, or whom, to prove that one may be sophisticated and yet retain a sweet, sympathetic quality. The motif of the barefoot boy in journalism, for reliability may be compared to the comedian's fall on the sole of his pants.

Two of the most memorable stories in sport are the incident of the little boy who plucked Joe Jackson by the sleeve when the sins of the Black Sox had suddenly found them out and murmured, "Say it ain't true, Joe; say it ain't true," and the reformation of the Babe that time when he raised his glass and said that out of regard for the little, dirty faced kids in the streets he was never going to raise it again.

Mr. Wiggins Does His Bit.

Chuck Wiggins, the prize fighter, made a similar gesture one night, but whether in a spirit of mockery or mere confusion I was unable to decide. Mr. Wiggins, engaged as a sparring partner for Gene Tunney, was training for his work on Canadian ale. At half-past three in the morning, with the last bottle on the table, he raised his glass and said:

"This is my last drink tonight; I am doing it for the little dirty mouthed kids in the streets."

Another classic developed only the other day, when Billie Burke, who won the open golf tournament at Toledo, in his maiden essay for the papers, told of the caddy who plucked him by the sleeve and said: "Aw, gee, Bill; you gotta win for me. I got a dollar bet on you." The winner—and now journalist—thus won for his piece a more prominent position in the papers.

It Is a Wild Tournament.

Reverting to the winsome, my informant says the conduct of the marbles tournament is so loose that some of the athletes have been known to go roaring along the boardwalks eating hot-dogs, apple pie, salt water

SPENDS WINTER IN TRAINING FOR TRIBUNE'S SWIM

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[ENTRY BLANK ON FOLLOWING PAGE.]

Valentine Vosen, 1322 South 54th court, Cicero, is a booster for THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard swimming championships, which will be held Sunday, July 26, at Lincoln park lagoon.

ELAINE FEIGENBAUM.

"I don't think there is anything finer than for children to get the spirit of competition," Vosen wrote yesterday. "Therefore I am entering two of my children (I have four) and two of our neighbor's, who are their playmates, in the swimming races."

Virginia Vosen and Helen Hotke will compete in class B for girls 13 and 14 years of age. Evelyn White, 12 years old, will swim in class A. Valentine Vosen Jr., 12 years of age, is entered in class A for boys.

There will be ten sprint championships decided on July 26 in the second annual swimming meet. Separate races, of course, will be held for the boys and girls in five age divisions. The classifications follow:

Class A, 11 and 12 years of age.
Class B, 13 and 14 years of age.
Class C, 15 and 16 years of age.
Class D, 17 and 18 years of age.
Class E, 19 years of age and over.

Coach William Cavanaugh of the Raymond T. O'Keefe Boosters club yesterday forwarded the first team entry. Mr. O'Keefe is a state representative and interested in sponsoring amateur sports. The entries submitted by Cavanaugh follow:

Michael Howlett, team captain, age 16; Bill Nurney, 21; Edmund Moran, 12; George Spehm, 15; Orrin Bassett, 17; John Malone, 23, and Ray O'Keefe Jr., 13.

"Watch my speed." This is the slogan of Elaine Feigenbaum, 1000 Loyola avenue. Elaine competed last year and finished second in her qualifying heat. This year, competing in Class B, she is certain she will reach the finals at least. She is a junior life guard and has practiced all winter for the 100 yard sprint.

MODERN QUEEN IS SECOND, FIVE LENGTHS BACK

BY FRENCH LANE.

Top Flight, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's two year old filly, proved to 18,000 at Arlington Park yesterday that she is an excellent race horse, worthy to be classed with the long list of Whitney champions, by winning the Lassie Stakes from a field of fourteen other fillies. The race carried a gross value of $22,625.

Top Flight won by five lengths, just galloping, like a champion, even though the best of her age and sex were trying with all their might to overhaul her. And when she had finished, 17,999 of the 18,000 who saw her run were willing to go into the race horse business if they could start out with Top Flight as a shoestring. The other person was young Mr. Whitney, her owner, who came from New York to see her triumph.

Modern Queen Is Second.

Conquered completely, but in second, came Modern Queen, owned by Hal Price Headley, also of New York. Beaten even more decisively in third place and stopping near the end after she had tried in vain to catch Top Flight, was Princess Camelia, from the Joe Leiter stable of Chicago. Thundering home fourth was the brilliant Polonaise from the east, winner of Belmont's Fashion stakes. Dark Seeker, another easterner, from the Kilmer stable, was fifth.

Back of them badly strung out, all floundering and staggering, came 10 other fillies, the fleetest in the land their owners thought until they hooked up with Whitney's Top Flight.

Mrs. John Hertz's Seven Veils broke in front at the start. Steffen, the most alert boy at the post at Arlington, was riding her. But Seven Veils, fleet as she was in the early stages, couldn't hold the pace long. Before they hit the turn Jockey A. Robertson had hustled Top Flight up into the lead.

Top Flight Pays $5.80.

Rounding the turn, Top Flight opened up a lead of four lengths. They might have paid off there, for the others were completely humbled. Top Flight had run the quarter in :22 1-5, the half in :45, and was past the five furlong mark in :58 2-5. She wound up the five and a half furlong gallop in 1:05 1-5, a fifth of a second short of the record. She undoubtedly would have bettered the mark had she been pushed at any stage of the race.

Top Flight's ability wasn't overlooked by the 18,000, the largest week day gathering of the season at Arlington. New Yorkers bet on her confidently. So did many westerners, and if they had known how easily she was going to win, they would have backed her even more.

In the mutuel betting Top Flight paid $5.80 to win, $4.50 to place and $4.10 to show. Modern Queen returned $5.80 on place tickets and $2.70 to show. Princess Camelia was at $3.30 to show.

Risque Loses.

At Sunrise and Butter Beans, generally regarded as the western champion, never at any time figured in the running. They were always far back.

It was a day of thrills at Arlington. Risque, running in the John Hertz silks, at 2 to 5 in the betting, was beaten badly by Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Dark Magnet in the Fort Worth purse, a mile event engaging Arlington Oaks candidates.

Dark Magnet, at 10 to 1, raced past the tiring Risque midway down the stretch. She went on to win by two lengths. It wasn't a fast race, Dark Magnet's time being 1:38 3-5, far off the track record. Rock Belle was

Miss Frances Wood and Miss Narcissa Swift take a stroll about the Post and Paddock club in the fashion parade that takes palces during each inter-race lull.

Up and over they go! The field takes the first jump in the two mile steeplechase, which was the second event on yesterday's program. Not Clyman won and Gracie finished second. Tod Sloan came in third without any trouble because the other three horses entered lost their riders on jumps like this.

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Joseph E. Widener's Prowler won his second race of the meeting today when he galloped in front from start to finish of the Bayside steeplechase handicap at Aqueduct to earn $2,750 and bring his season's jumping score to three victories and one second place in five starts.

There were only three starters and Prowler was so much the best that he was being eased up at the end of the two miles by Jockey A. Bauman. Still he won by a couple of lengths.

The brush for second place between the Flying Horse farm's Toreador II. and E. R. Bradley's Mirbat was close and the place went to Toreador II. by half a length. The general grumbling which went on immediately after the finish because of Jockey Thornalike's lassitude on Mirbat found reflection in his indefinite suspension for an indifferent ride.

Prowler was a well backed favorite despite the slow track and the fact that under 142 pounds he was conceding nine to Toreador II. The price against him opened at 2 to 5 and closed at 7 to 10. It was a safe investment as events turned out, for Bauman merely rated in front much of the way.

The speed of Prowler on the flat appeared no greater than that of Toreador II., but he outjumped the other horse at every obstacle and picked up half a length or more each time.

She even mentions the case of a boy in the quarter-finals one year who was approached by some other boys, not competitors but apparently apprentice gamblers, with an offer of 50 cents to refrain from bearing down. The lady who described the deplorable affair could not substantiate it; however, as this year's tournament was her first and she had only heard the story from a man, who had heard it from a man.

"The training conditions are very lax," reports my informant. "The boys are allowed to sign checks for anything they want to order from the restaurants in the hotels and when we would come home at night to check up on our boys we would find them with dozens of empty soda bottles and ice cream glasses in their rooms. There would be signs of charlotte russe and chocolate eclairs on the plates and half empty boxes of candy strewn about the place. One of our boys, 13 years old, said he hoped his match the next day would end early as he had to keep a date.

Forget Their Underwear.

"Our team was not very well equipped for travel. Most of the boys had only one shirt, two suits of underwear and two pairs of socks. It was impossible to launder the shirts for the one shirt boys and have them dry in time for the morning, but I did wash one suit of underwear and one pair of socks for each boy and hang them in windows to dry. When the time came to leave for home the clean underwear and socks were still hanging in the windows. They had forgotten to change.

"Another thing was the matter of baths. I always thought athletes were fond of baths, but although we had showers in the rooms, the young men of our team took only one bath on the trip and that one when we put a man over them to see that they did after the train ride from the west.

"I am convinced now that if a marbles tournament is to be conducted properly it will be necessary to bring each athlete's mother along to make him wash his neck and hands before meals, take a bath at night and change his clothes and regulate his popcorn and strawberry pop. It is not the same as traveling with a college team, although I must admit that I have never been a trainer for a college team. But I understand that they dismissed some boys from the Yale boat crews this year because they ate ice cream and smoked a few cigarets.

"But when traveling with a marbles and you say, 'Now boys, not more than one bag of popcorn,' they yell, 'That is a lot of baloney' and eat all the popcorn they can hold. And at 1 o'clock in the morning they are still awake, banging one another with pillows and eating chocolate eclairs."

SMITTY—PA PUTS HIS FOOT IN IT.

Twenty Grand Off Tomorrow for Arlington

New York, July 8.—[Special.]—Unless unforeseen trouble develops before tomorrow night, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand will be shipped to Chicago to race in the $75,000 Classic at Arlington Park. The colt has apparently completely recovered from the strain he suffered in the Dwyer stakes on Saturday and Jimmy Rowe, his trainer, plans to ship him on Friday.

Except that he was greatly improved, no announcement came from his stable, but it was learned Mrs. Whitney and Rowe were immensely pleased with his condition and that they agreed he was in good enough shape to resume training.

Shipping the colt west doesn't necessarily mean he is a sure starter in the Classic, however. Only a stiff workout there will determine that. There is a chance he might again suffer a strain when put to a speed test. In that event he will be shipped to Saratoga for a long rest.

But whether Twenty Grand starts or not, Mrs. Whitney's pink and black silks will be represented in the stake, for Rowe also will send St. Brideaux to Chicago and race him if Twenty Grand fails to recover his top form.

Bag Smasher was shuffled back early, but, apparently much the best, came fast when clear and drew away from the others in the last sixteenth to win easily. Kulaman was never far from the pace and outfinished Bourbon Maid. Latter held on fairly well after showing good early speed. Cherry May acted badly at the barrier, followed a fair effort. Hypnotism and C. M. McKenna tired badly. Holiday was all over the track.

Top Flight, racing as if easily best, took command soon after the start and, lengthening her lead as she went, won by a good margin. Modern Queen showed good speed from the start and outfinished Princess Camelia. Latter came out of the pack to become a serious contender after racing a quarter and was close up throughout. Polonaise bounced up dangerously at eighth turn but, tiring slightly in the final run, Dark Seeker was going well at the finish. At Sunrise was shut off in the first quarter. Princess Ivre displayed a flash of early speed. Seven Veils tired. Nevada Queen acted badly at the barrier, refused to run and was taken off the track. Bubola also closed well.

Knight Commander moved up gamely on the inside to head the field after going half the distance, and racing in his best form, held away to the finish. Dark Sea made a game effort in the stretch but was no match for the winner. Battleship was on the inside in the early stages and did not threaten the first two in the final run. Lady Capulet showed a fairly good effort. The others retired when the real racing began.

Dark Magnet, always close to the pace, saved ground where possible, and coming strongly when called upon in the stretch passed Risque with but little trouble and won easily. Risque, under restraint most of the way, caught Maid of Honor after going half the distance, was permitted to lay lightly and, after dropping back to second place approaching the stretch turn, came again to take a short lead, but displayed little when challenged by the winner in the stretch. Rock Belle was always close up. Michigan Girl went fairly well. Maid of Honor tired in the last furlong.

Lahor was saved close up in the early running and responding gamely when called upon in the stretch, headed the field and showed the way to the finish. Amyvale, despite bearing out slightly in the stretch run, closed with a rush to best Suitor. Latter weakened slightly after making the pace. Jem also tired. Montanaro and Galahad were shuffled back soon after the start, but the former saved ground thereafter and had no excuses. Galahad made up some ground in the last quarter.

MISS HIGGET, DEITRICH ENTER PARK NET MEET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 8.—Ollie Deitrich, last year's men's singles champion, and Alice Higget, wearer of the women's crown, tonight were in the field of 125 tennis players which on Saturday will start play in the annual Humboldt park tournament. Deitrich, who also won a share of the doubles' title, this season has a new partner and will be paired with Alice Kingsley in the absence of Art Hendricks.

Fifty-five have entered the singles competition, thirty the men's doubles, fourteen the junior doubles, and fifty-three the girls' singles. Entries closed today. Play is expected to continue for more than one week.

For Old Aiken

ELBRIDGE T. GERRY.

The Old Aiken polo team arrived in Chicago yesterday for the series with the Santa Paula four of Argentina, which begins Saturday at Onwentsia field, Lake Forest. Joseph Rathborne is captain and No. 4, and Elbridge Gerry, captain of the Yale team, plays No. 1.

Barnes Beats Boldenweck in State Tennis

Competition for the Illinois state tennis title moved into the quarter final brackets yesterday at the Chicago Town and Tennis club, with play in all divisions stiffening considerably.

While most seeded players remained unscathed at the close of the day's competition, Jack Harris of Chicago was defeated by Ander Newsom of Wheaton, who is seeing action in his first major tourney. Newsom surprised the gallery by returning the best Harris sizzled across the net and taking the first set, 8-6. The Chicagoan won the next, 6-3, and although he tried gamely in the closing series, Newsom lacked control and finished 6-4.

Burwell Is Extended.

Ted Burwell, high ranking southern star, was extended to the limit by Frank O'Connell, veteran Chicago player, but left the court victorious after flashes of superb tennis. In the opening set, with the score 5-4 against him and the tally of 40 love in O'Connell's favor, the young southerner won out, 5-6.

The remaining favorites—George O'Connell, Doc Barr, and Karl Kamrath—continued to advance, although Barr was extended to defeat Robert Clarke, youthful Michigan university player.

The only other seeded casualty was Ed Lejeck, who dropped his match to Scott Rexinger, Big Ten singles champion. After losing control in the opening of the first set, Rexinger settled down and won the contest after playing 31 games to decide the victor.

Miss Sampson Injures Ankle.

In the women's singles Mae Ceurvorst and Eugenie Sampson, seeded in top positions, breezed through to easy victories. Miss Sampson's final afternoon engagement proved costly, however, as she stumbled on a drain while returning the final point and suffered a strained ankle. The injury is not serious enough to keep her from further competition, but may slow up her play considerably.

Frank Parker kept his record clean again yesterday by winning his tenth love set in the boys' and junior divisions. The 15 year old Milwaukee star, who recently won his home city's senior tournament, has scored five victories without dropping a single game.

Play in the men's and women's doubles also got under way yesterday with no upsets recorded. Bruce Barnes and Karl Kamrath, a duo of Texans, are seeded first on the draw, and should continue through the finals unmolested.

In the matches today, George O'Connell will meet his most serious competition thus far in the tournament, when Karl Kamrath, lanky Texan youth, opposes him on the court. Bruce Barnes will run into Scott Rexinger, the Big Ten player who recently pushed Marcel Rainville in the Western championships, for admittance into the semi-final bracket.

struggle to emerge from the American league cellar. Detroit, topping them by a few percentage points, lost to St. Louis. The Indians will present their star, Wes Ferrell today. Moore will try hard in behalf of the Sox.

Indians Score at Start.

There were two out, none on, and two strikes on the third batsman in the Indians' first inning when things started to happen to Mr. Caraway. Averill used his third strike to propel a single to right and went to third when Morgan also singled to right. Pat then elected to throw a slow curve inside to Vosmik. Joe just loves slow curves inside. He knocked this one into the left field stands for his fourth homer of the year. Averill and Morgan walked in ahead of him of course. Porter relieved the great distress by popping to Kerr.

Blue started the home half of the first with a single to left, but it was no more than a warmup for the Sox's second inning, when they tied the score. Appling pushed off with a single to left and stopped at second on Kerr's single to right. Jeffries forced Kerr, Appling pulling up at third. Tate singled to center, Appling scoring and Jeffries going to third. Caraway forced Tate and Jeffries scored. Blue sent a long one to right which Seeds lost in the sun and it fell for a triple, Caraway scoring.

Cleveland Regains Lead.

The Indians resumed the lead in the third inning because Seeds beat out an infield single, went to second on a passed ball, and scored on Morgan's single to center. In the fifth the visitors added their fifth run with two out on successive doubles by Brown and Burnett.

After being complete strangers with second base in the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, the Sox broke loose in the seventh, made two runs to tie the score, and had runners on third and second when Reynolds tapped to Burnett to end the incipient festival. With one out Jeffries beat out a bunt toward first and scored on Tate's double to left center. Fothergill batted for Caraway and hit Brown's first pitch for a single to left. Tate slowed rounding third on the hit, but went into high gear again when Vosmik's throw to the plate got past Sewell.

Tate scored on Sewell's error and Fothergill proceeded to second. Lyons was put on to run for Fothergill, but before Ted did any running Hudlin relieved Brown and walked Blue. Hudlin grabbed Simon's bouncer and, when he saw first was uncovered, ran to the bag for the putout. Lyons and Blue advancing. It was at this point that Reynolds tapped to Burnett.

McKain Goes to Work.

McKain took over the pitching job in the eighth and held the enemy far away from the plate until the blowoff in the eleventh.

The Sox were helpless against Hudlin except in the tenth, when Reynolds doubled with two out and Fonseca got an intentional pass. The inning ended when Appling chased a third strike several feet across the plate.

After the Indians had made their five runs in the eleventh the Sox came back in their half with a rally which meant nothing at the time, but which would have meant the ball game ten minutes earlier. Kerr doubled and came in on Watwood's single, but all the tardy run meant was that the Sox were beaten, 10 to 6, instead of 10 to 5.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

THOSE CUBS.

LET'S see, wasn't it just about a week ago that many Cub sympathizers had about given up hope for the 1931 pennant? Yes, and a few, perhaps very few, wondered whether Hornsby's crew would remain in the first division. And there was talk of a certain center fielder being through as a leading swatsman.

Just three days changed that picture of diamond woe. Incidentally, what a nice spot the north siders chose for their rally. Of course, New York and Brooklyn are up there to be considered, and Boston, although fading, is not out of it, but if any one else is going to bag that gonfalon, the champion St. Louis Cardinal, have to be bumped off by some one. So those Cubs took three out of four from the Cardinals.

Fans, however, had been completely alienated by previous disappointments. So much so that only 45,000 were within Wrigley field before the gates were closed Tuesday, half an hour before game time, and so many more were outside that an extra detail of police was required to keep order.

So it doesn't look as if any one is justified in closing the hope book on those Cubs yet. Three out of four from the Cardinals by no means assures a pennant or means much at this stage except that the Hornsby players have it in them to rise to occasions. The uprising revives confidence which, it must be admitted, was beginning to wane.

Johnny Kilbane.

Referee of a preliminary bout to the Schmeling-Stribling contest at Cleveland was a well built, compact little chap whose hair showed unmistakable streaks of gray. It was Johnny Kilbane, now 42 years old. Kilbane was featherweight champion for 11 of his 16 years in the ring, from his twenty round decision over Abe Attel until his defeat by Eugene Criqui in 1923. Kilbane retired after the bout with Criqui, whose own tenure of the title was short-lived.

I'd Like.

I'd like, when summer time comes 'round,
To own a little piece of ground;
On it I'd have a garden spot,
With vegetables, sinnies, and what not;
A tiny orchard—apple trees
With blossoms and the hum of bees.

A bit of woods I'd own with wild flowers,
Where birds would nest in leafy bowers,
And on some low-hung branch in tree
Would come each day and sing to me.
Then, a domestic air to lend,
Some chickens I would like to tend.

And there I'd loaf, with fancy free,
And wondrous hopes and visions see
In all these things upon my ground,
And envy not the world's mad round.

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Margery Roesslein of Belleair featured the third day of play in the thirteenth annual women's city golf tournament at Marquette park yesterday by defeating Mrs. M. C. Lubin of Jackson park, 3 and 2.

Miss Roesslein, hitting her usual long drives, took the lead on the second hole, which she shot in one under par. She also shot birdies on the third and fifth, and was 2 up at the turn.

Mrs. Placek Wins.

Mrs. Cecil Placek of Jackson park defeated Mrs. J. Baltrusis of Columbus park, 2 and 1. Mrs. Baltrusis' iron shots were accurate but Mrs. Placek's superior putting decided the match.

Mrs. Rose Long, Jackson park champion, was an easy victor over Mrs. B. Solomon, also of Jackson park, 3 up. Mrs. Long sank a 20 foot putt on the tenth hole, and continued to eclipse her opponent's work on subsequent greens.

Sister-in-Law Match Off.

Mrs. Rose Marshall of Marquette park won by default from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Marshall, who was unable to play because of illness. Mrs. Marshall will meet Miss Roesslein today.

The date for the annual Chicago Police department golf tournament was set yesterday for July 20 at the Olympic Country club at Wheeling, Ill. About 300 policemen are expected to participate in the 18 holes medal play. Lieut. Michael Lahart of the Kensington station, who won the title last year, will be back to defend his laurels.

Another 36 hole medal competition will be held at Mid City tomorrow to decide the personnel of the Chicago team which will compete in the annual public links tournament at St. Paul Aug. 4 to 8. The first competition was held at Evergreen a week ago. Out of the 30 golfers turning in the best scores in the two qualifying rounds will be selected a team of six men. Those playing tomorrow need not necessarily have played at Evergreen.

after which Phillips fanned to end the inning.

Warneke Taken Out.

Warneke began to fade but when he walked Thevenow in the second. Meine sacrificed and when Lloyd Waner singled into center to send Thevenow home, Hornsby rang the curfew for Warneke. May stepped forth for the first time since he was injured in an automobile accident several weeks ago and for the next few moments it looked as if he still belonged in the cripple class. Jensen fouled out, but Grantham dropped a single at Hack's feet. Or Hack's throw in Grantham took second and followed Waner over the plate on Traynor's single to left.

May's escape without being scored on in the third is deserving of explanation. Grosskos led off with a long fly to left center and Hack and Stephenson couldn't come to a decision about catching it. It landed safely for a triple. May then filled the bases with passes to Phillips and Thevenow. Meine relieved the tension by striking out. The inning ended without profit to the Pirates when Lloyd Waner tapped to May for a double play catcher to first base.

Cubs Fill Bases; That's All.

One of the few big opportunities which loomed before the Cubs in the course of their futile swinging against Meine occurred in the fifth. With one out Stephenson doubled off the right field screen which was erected to eliminate bargain homers. Traynor made a great stop on Hemsley, but threw wild to first, putting Stephenson on third and Hemsley on second. Grimm walked, loading the bases, so Hornsby figured it a good spot for a pinch batter. Moore was elected, but he hit into a double play.

The Cubs turned up with their second hit in the seventh. Wilson and Hornsby went out on hoppers to Grosskos and Traynor. Stephenson walked. Hemsley bounced a single between Grantham and Grosskos. Something might have come from this situation if it hadn't been for Thevenow. He went back onto the grass back of third to pick up Grimm's grounder and whip it to second in time to force Hemsley. The next Chicagoan to see base was English, who doubled in the eighth, but aid was not forthcoming from Cuyler.

Cubs Score Two in Ninth.

Baecht turned out three excellent rounds of pitching before being sidetracked for a pinch batter, and Blake was brought forth to try his luck in the eighth. He got by, but not impressively. He fanned Meine, but Lloyd Waner singled and Jensen was hit on the shoulder. Grantham bounced into a force play and Traynor walked, filling the bases, but English stopped P. Waner's grounder to end the attack.

The Cubs' ninth began with a single by Hornsby after Wilson had been called out on strikes. Rogers was forced by Stephenson, Hemsley tripled to right center, scoring Stephenson, and Grimm's single sent Hemsley home. Then Blair batted for Blake and popped to Traynor.

AUTO PICTURE IS BRIGHTER THAN EXPECTED

BY O. A. MATHER.

It isn't so long ago that some of the gloomy prophets were consigning the automobile industry to dire straits. But Americans have continued to buy new cars despite depressed times and the automobile companies have done fairly well this year, all things considered, as evidenced by reports issued yesterday by the General Motors corporation, the Nash Motors company and the Auburn Automobile company.

General Motors reported larger sales last month than had been anticipated. In fact, the June sales to dealers were larger than a year ago, making the first gain this year in comparison with the corresponding month in 1930. Dealers' sales to consumers also were larger than a year ago. Total domestic and foreign sales by General Motors totaled 111,668 cars and trucks last month, compared with 97,440 in June, 1930. Sales in the United States were 100,270 cars, compared with 87,595 a year ago.

Regular Dividend for Nash.

Rumors that Nash Motors might discontinue dividend payments were dispelled last night when the directors announced the regular quarterly payment of $1 a share. During the second quarter of the fiscal year, which embraces March, April and May, the company had net earnings of $1,586,573, equivalent to 46 cents a share on 2,701,000 shares of stock.

While these earnings fell below dividend requirements, they were better than during the preceding quarter, when net earnings were $1,099,193, or 40 cents a share. In commenting on the current report, President C. W. Nash pointed out that the company was practically out of production for a month prior to going into production on its new line of cars.

Expects Better Business.

"The third quarter should produce much better results than either the first or second quarters, owing to the fact that orders in hand are very satisfactory and sales are being made in large volume," Mr. Nash added. "The company's business should be increased to a point where 1931 should prove very satisfactory to the stockholders."

A considerable upturn in sales and earnings was reported by the Auburn Automobile company. Sales for the second quarter of this year totaled $19,847,934, compared with $10,495,197 a year ago. Net profits were $2,158,764, or $11.06 a share on 195,234 shares, compared with $769,385, or $3.94 a share, for the second quarter of 1930. Net profits for the six months ended May 31, were $2,361,715, or $12.09 a share, compared with $990,909, or $4.44 a share, for the corresponding period in 1930.

Rail Loadings Climb.

General news of trade and industry was conflicting yesterday. The most cheerful feature was a further expansion of the movement of commodities by railroad. Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended June 27 totaled 759,290 cars, an increase of 20,174 over the preceding week, although falling 177,400 below the corresponding week last year. Loadings for the first 26 weeks of 1931 totaled 13,979,994 cars, a decline of 4,329,592 cars, or 18.2 per cent, from the first half of 1930.

Production of electricity both in the United States and in the Chicago district last week made a comparatively favorable showing.

The midweek steel trade reviews reported further seasonal slackening in steel production, with the Iron Age estimating output at 32 per cent of capacity, compared with 35 per cent a week ago. However, it was said that operations are making a quick recovery from the July 4 shutdowns and belief is voiced that this month will see the low level of production and that August will bring an upturn.

High Taxes Seen Burden on Ultimate Consumer

BY SCRUTATOR.

In these days of extravagant public spending the individual property owner is not the only one who suffers from the effects of high taxes.

The big corporation likewise has to dig deeper into earnings to pay a vastly inflated tax bill. And taxes do not vary in sympathy with ability to pay. During the last two years the average company's earnings have declined sharply but its taxes have gone upward instead of downward.

Higher taxes out of smaller profits means more than reducing the stockholder's return on his investment. It means curtailment of the company's costs. And this is reflected in reduced employment and smaller spending for supplies, equipment, expansion and improvement, which, in turn, cuts employment and earnings of other concerns from which it buys.

Cites Railway Example.

The railroads are a case in point. For forty years railroad taxes have steadily gone up. That was to be expected. During that time the value of their property and equipment was constantly increasing and earnings were mounting. The significant fact, however, is that taxes have steadily consumed a larger proportion of earnings.

Last year out of every dollar received for passenger or freight service the railroads paid out 6.6 cents in taxes. In 1929 the ratio was 6.36 per cent; in 1920, 4.39, and in 1910, 3.77.

Those figures compare taxes with revenues. When taxes are placed beside figures for income they loom much larger. It has been estimated that thus far in 1931 railway taxes are almost equaling the net operating income available for interest and dividends on their securities.

A condensed income account of the railways of the United States, taken as a whole, shows that in 1929, a good year, total net income available for dividends was $585,817,390 after they had paid an aggregate tax bill of $405,878,257.

It may be argued that the burden of high taxes is not absorbed by the railroads, that it is passed along to the public in higher rates than would be allowed if taxes were less. That is debatable ground.

Pays 6.6 Cents Premium.

But assuming that the shipper's bill does not include the full tax load, what happens?

Simply this. Ninety-three and four-tenths cents of the dollar he paid for transportation in 1930 covered the cost of that transportation. The 6.6 cents remaining was a premium he paid for using the taxed railroads. In 1929 the premium would have been 6.36 cents; in 1920, 4.39 cents; and in 1910, 2.77 cents.

And if it is assumed that the railroad can pass its tax load along to the shipper, then it can be assumed with equal reason that the shipper can pass along not only the railroad taxes but also his own to the man who buys a necktie, a radio, or a can of beans.

Boosts Living Costs.

Every dollar that is spent by a governmental body either in attempts to regulate commodity prices, pave an alley, or pad a bureau pay roll must come out of somebody's pocket. To the extent that it is absorbed by an industry that industry's power to spend money for employment and the purchase of goods is curtailed. The part which is passed on to the ultimate buyer increases the latter's living costs by exactly that amount.

Any government has certain indispensable services to perform and those services require the expenditure of money. But extravagant and unjustified expenditures merely add to the cost of doing business and the cost of living and puts those companies and individuals who pay high taxes, either directly or indirectly, at an economic disadvantage in competing for business with other communities or other nations.

GROUP OF DEPOSITORS SEEKS REOPENING OF SHERIDAN TRUST BANK

Thomas D. Bell, realtor at 1106 Leland avenue, announced last night that a group of depositors of the closed Sheridan Trust & Savings bank, 4752 Broadway, have organized to prevent the appointment of a receiver and consequent liquidation of the bank. It is their intention to seek means of bringing about its reopening.

The depositors have retained Lewis F. Jacobsen of the law firm of Jacobsen, Merrick, Nierman and Silbert who announced that demand has been made on all officers, directors and stockholders to pay up their contractual and statutory obligations to the bank immediately. More than $90,000 has been promised in subscriptions and surplus for a reëstablished bank, it was stated.

Support to the extent that the bank is entitled to following an examination of all assets has been assured by certain loop banking interests, Mr. Bell said. Headquarters of his group have been established in the lobby of the bank with a secretary in attendance.

Humble Oil Cuts Crude Prices in Texas Markets

New York, July 8.—(AP)—The Humble Oil and Refining company, today announced reductions of from 9 to 17 cents a barrel in prices of crude oil in Texas markets. This is the second cut made this summer. On June 3 the company made a reduction throughout Texas, excepting east Texas, where it withdrew from the market entirely. The Texas company announced that it had met the price reductions instituted by Humble. Atlantic Refining company announced it has met the gasoline price reduction of one cent a gallon in all territories recently made by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Picks 8 Industries to Do Best in Last Half of '31

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—Among the nation's varied industries, eight appear to be situated most favorably with respect to operations in the last half of the current year, a forecast by Standard Statistics, made public today, reveals.

These trades include beverages, chain stores, cigarets, dairy products, package foods, refrigeration, gas and electric utilities and telephone utilities.

Barring the occurrence of unexpectedly cool weather this summer, sales and earnings of beverage companies are expected to compare favorably with those of 1930. More favorable income comparisons with 1930, it is felt, should be witnessed during the remainder of the year by chain stores, and, in a few instances, last year's results are expected to be exceeded.

Expect Good Sales.

With respect to cigarets the authority expects a second half sales record, comparing well with that of 1930. Considering the advantages secured from the recently instituted wholesale price advance, the 1931 trade income, it is believed, should rise about 10 per cent above the 1930 level. Narrower profit margins and reduced demand are seen reducing dairy product producers' earnings moderately, but these are expected to hold up relatively well.

In the package food field, it is pointed out, consumption of the leading brands is well sustained, and 1931 earnings of leading companies should nearly equal those of the preceding year.

JUNE CHAIN SALES RISE

Gross sales of the first thirty-six chain store companies reporting for June aggregated approximately $126,614,328, an increase of 1.6 per cent over sales of $124,611,749 for the same companies in the month last year.

Thirty-three of these companies reporting also for the first six months show aggregate sales of $755,071,025, against $761,860,571 in the 1930 period, a decrease of 18 per cent. These compilations do not include companies with mail order business.

The Simmons company, exclusive of subsidiaries, had June sales of $2,170,815, compared with $2,967,932 in the month last year, a decrease of 26.4 per cent. Sales including subsidiaries in June were $2,565,451, against $3,633,258, a decrease of 30.2 per cent. For the six months the sales were $16,614,244, compared with $23,515,158, a decrease of 29.3 per cent.

S. H. Kress & Co. reports June sales of $5,466,952, compared with $5,220,761 in the month last year, an increase of 4.7 per cent. For the six months sales were $30,343,342, compared with $30,314,678 in the period last year, an increase of 1.7 per cent.

Increase in Sales.

Sales of Interstate Department Stores, Inc., in June were $2,163,830, against $1,810,808 in the month last year, an increase of 19.5 per cent. For the six months sales were $10,607,924, against $9,971,134, an increase of 6.4 per cent.

Sales of Safeway Stores, Inc., in June were $17,679,219, against $17,709,127 in the month last year, a decrease of .1 per cent. For the first six months sales were $104,539,365, against $110,186,373 in the period last year, a decrease of 5 per cent.

National Shirt Shops, Inc., for June, 1931, reports gross sales of $329,237, against $360,905 for June, 1930, a decrease of 6 per cent. Total sales for the six months ended June 30 amounted to $1,781,955, against $2,014,606 for the corresponding period last year, a decrease of 11.55 per cent.

FOX FILM EARNS $1,124,704 NET IN MARCH QUARTER

Fox Film corporation yesterday reported net income for the quarter ended March 28 of $1,124,704 before federal taxes as compared with $4,354,213 in the corresponding period last year. Total income was $25,458,223 against $26,975,744, it was reported.

The increase in operating expense, it was stated, was occasioned by the fact that during the 1931 quarter 70 theaters were acquired, the accounts and receipts of which were not in the corresponding period of 1930. The 1931 quarter also shows $1,228,284 for interest and amortization of discount and expense which did not appear last year.

General Theaters Equipment reports net income after all charges available for preferred and common stocks was $498,710, exclusive of undistributed earnings of non-consolidated controlled companies. Comparable earnings for the same period last year are not available because of the acquisitions made in 1930.

Brig. Gen. Abel Davis yesterday complemented his distinguished military service with new business laurels when the directors of the $41,000,000 Chicago Title and Trust company elected him chairman of board. He succeeds Harrison B. Riley who, after fifty years with the company, assumes the less arduous post of chairman of the executive committee, a newly created office.

GEN. ABEL DAVIS. [Wallinger Photo.]

Gen. Davis, who holds the American distinguished service cross and the distinguished service medal as well as the ribbon of an officer of the Legion of Honor for his services in France with the United States army, became associated with the Title and Trust company nineteen years ago as a vice president and director.

Although his duties will be considerably augmented by his new position, Gen. Davis proposes to continue his active work as chairman of the forest preserve advisory committee.

"Of course, a business man's first duty is to the company he serves," the general said, "but after that he most certainly owes something to the community in which he lives and earns his livelihood. Holding to this idea I shall continue my civic work.

"As to the affairs of the Title and Trust company we are well satisfied with the results of our predecessors and contemplate no changes in policy at this time."

Other changes in the executive organization of the company made by the directors follow: Justin M. Dall, forty years with the company, becomes vice chairman of the board and and retains the office of senior vice president; Holman D. Pettibone becomes president, succeeding A. R. Marriott, who died recently, and Donald Riley becomes a vice president and also assumes the position of trust officer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 8.—With the debt holiday question at last tucked away out of the way, the stock market found itself once more at the beck and call of the mill run of miscellaneous news today. And, generally speaking, the gist of developments were not entirely to its liking. Certainly the late cable advices bearing on the internal situation in Germany could not be interpreted as altogether bullish—in spite of the anticipated aid of the moratorium—telling as they did of the continued flight of capital out of that stricken republic, necessitating the setting up of a huge guaranty fund for the Reichsbank by private financial and industrial concerns.

There were several untoward items in the domestic news budget, moreover. The fresh break in the price of copper metal to 8 cents, for instance, the drop in the silver rate, generally lower commodity prices, with cotton falling off $2 a bale or so, and, finally, renewed talk from the bear side of the store of unfavorable earnings reports awaiting the market just around the corner. Not a picture calculated to carry on for the bulls, lately so enthusiastic over the debt influences.

Meets Some Support.

Selling went on pretty steadily throughout the list, although it was evident that the market was meeting with some measure of support. The buying was not of an aggressive character, by any means. Rather, it ap-

Louis E. Dent, of the law firm of Dent, Dobyns & Freeman, yesterday transferred title in the old residential property at 70-104 East Oak street, to the 100 East Oak Street Building corporation, of which he is president. The property fronts 60.25 feet on Oak street and has a depth of 150 feet. This is in the block between Lake Shore drive and Rush street.

Yesterday's transfer is the first step in a plan Mr. Dent has for eventually improving the property with a tall apartment building, of the de luxe type. He states, however, that construction will not start for at least another year. No architect has yet been engaged.

"Y" Borrows $600,000.

The Y. M. C. A. of Chicago has borrowed $600,000 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for ten years, at the rate of 5½ per cent for five years and 5 per cent for the balance of the term. The loan is secured by the Y. M. C. A. hotel property at 816-28 South Wabash avenue. The funds are to be used in connection with the Lawson Memorial Y. M. C. A. at Chicago avenue and North Dearborn street.

The three story public garage building at 6824 Dorchester avenue, lot 80x165, has been sold by the Dorchester-Sixty-third Garage Co., of which Henry I. Holton is president, to Raymond Picquet, of St. Louis, Mo., for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $71,000. Patterson & Hartrich were brokers.

Will Build on North Clark.

The American China and Glassware company, now at 351 North Clark street, has purchased a 20x30 site at 408 North Clark street and within the next six months will erect a three story building. The property was bought from Oscar W. Brecher for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $36,000. Arthur Grossman was attorney.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad has transferred title in the southeast corner of Taylor and Wells streets, containing 25,272 square feet, together with other property, to the Baltimore & Ohio Terminal railroad company for a stated consideration of $365,936. This was made in connection with the river straightening project.

Walter D. Krupke, manager of the sign department of the Federal Electric company, has purchased the residence at 5620 Blackstone avenue from Mrs. Zella R. Weary at a reported $27,500. J. Alton Lauren, of J. Alton Lauren & Co. represented the purchaser and A. L. Allen the seller.

WHEAT GAINS IN EARLY TRADING; RECEDES LATER

July and September Touch New Low for Season.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat made a feeble attempt to advance to a higher level in the early trading yesterday, and at the top showed around ½c above the finish of the previous day, only to reverse its action later and drop 1@1¼c from the top, with the July and September selling at a new low for the season and since 1896, with the near future showing the most weakness, touching 24¾c, while September sold at 55¼@55¾c. Weakness in the stock and cotton markets had some effect on local sentiment, although the latter remains generally bearish, and few operators can see anything in either the domestic or world situation to bring about a sustained upturn in prices.

In addition to the weakness in the stock and cotton markets there was hedging pressure against the movement of new winter wheat in the southwest, as well as reports of some improvement in the crop outlook in the Canadian northwest. A local operator was credited with buying September wheat and selling September corn to close spreads, which helped the former delivery at times, but the close was about the bottom, with net losses of ¼@1c. July finishing at 54⅜@54¾c, September 55⅜c, and December 55⅝@59¾c.

Expect Record Low Prices.

Grain traders who have made a careful analysis of the wheat situation expressed the belief that some time during the crop year prices will drop below the low figures made in 1894, when the July delivery was sold at 84¾c, while in January, 1895, contract grades of cash wheat sold at 49¾c. In 1852 cash wheat in Chicago sold below 40c. The dominating influences, as the trade sees it, are economic conditions and superabundance of supplies, even though the department of agriculture estimates that the world's stock for the 1931-'32 season may be 200,000,000 bu or more below the total of the previous year.

Kansas City July wheat joined in the procession of lower grain markets by selling off 1¼c and closed at 45c, a new low for the season, but Minneapolis was strong and ⅞c higher at 61¾c. Winnipeg showed more strength than Chicago and finished unchanged, with the July at 80¼c, houses with season connections buying on scale orders in that market. Liverpool finished ¼d higher to ¼d lower, with July at 59¾c.

The amount of export business passing in wheat was reported as very small in comparison with the expected 400,000,000 bu or more available from North America this season, the aggregate for the day, largely Manitoba, being around 400,000 bu. Reports from Illinois points claimed that farmers expected to use more or less wheat for feed this season owing to the low prices.

Corn Reacts from Bulge.

Corn futures were higher early, with short covering in the July which lifted that delivery to a new high on the present movement, but selling against offers and the weakness in wheat and stocks caused a reaction of 1¼@2c from the top, with the September leading, and the finish was unchanged to ⅛c lower, with the July closing at 59⅜@60c, September 64@64¼c to 64¼c, and December 48@48¼c, the July-September difference being nearly 6c at the least, the widest so far.

Oats showed independent strength, due to buying by cash and commission houses, and closed unchanged to ⅛c higher, with July 27c, September 27¼@27¼c, and December 30¾@30¾c. There was a moderate export business under way in Canadian barley. Rye was ¼@½c lower with wheat, the July finishing at 35¼c, September 35c, and December 42c.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

There was a fair business under way in hard winter and Manitoba wheats yesterday, with sales in all positions finally estimated at 400,000 bu or more. No. 1 hard winter wheat at the gulf was quoted at ⅛@1c under Chicago September, depending on date of loading.

Chicago handlers sold 7,000 bu wheat, 225,000 bu corn, 40,000 bu oats, and 3,000 bu rye to the domestic trade, with 100,000 bu wheat sold to go to store. Purchases to arrive aggregated 50,000 bu wheat for quick shipment, 42,000 bu corn, and 8,000 bu oats. Deliveries on July contracts were 112,000 bu corn, 4,000 bu oats, and 13,000 bu rye.

Offerings of cash wheat in the local sample market were somewhat larger, with the basis showing little change. No. 1 hard sold at July price, with No. 2 red at ⅝ over and No. 2 hard at ¼@⅝c under the future. At Kansas City the basis was unchanged, ordinary No. 1 hard selling at 1¾@2c under the September.

Demand for cash corn was somewhat less active and sales showed a decline of ⅛c as compared with the July. No. 1 mixed was ⅛@⅜c over and No. 2 mixed July price to ⅛c over, while No. 1 and No. 2 yellow brought ⅝c over; No. 1 white, 1⅛c over, and No. 2 white, 1¼c over July, with No. 3 mixed, ⅛@⅜c under; yellow, July price to ⅛c over, and white, 1c over July.

BUTTER AND EGGS EASY

Butter market on the Chicago Mercantile exchange reacted contrary to statistical reports which were favorable. Selling credited to recent holders, causes a decline of ½c from the previous day. There was some support from shorts and from dealers that felt that the ultimate outlook did not warrant the present weakness. The twenty-six market storage report showed somewhat bullish figures, but the market opened ¼c below the previous day and closed ⅝c lower. There was light pressure on the potato market, and prices were steady to 1c higher, the latter on round whites. Sales on Butter, 63 cars; eggs, 61 cars; potatoes, 10 cars. Deliveries—1 car butter. COTTON OFF $2 A BALE

Cotton prices dropped practically $2.50 a bale at the extreme low point yesterday as compared with Tuesday's close, due to a combination of bearish influences, which left the market comparatively bare of support with increased pressure from sellers. The close was at a small rally from the extreme low level, with net losses on futures in Chicago of 41@46 points, or more than $2.00 a bale, while New York lost futures and 45 points on spots to 9.35c, with New York spots off 40 points to 9.55c, while Galveston was 9.55c and Houston 9.35c. Liverpool closed 20@21 points net lower, with spot sales 2,000 bales American.

Depressing influences were the break in stocks, grain, and the government report giving the acreage 41,491,000 acres, a decrease of 4,587,000 acres, or 10 per cent from last year, making the area planted larger than expected. In addition, there were reports from Berlin of serious complications there. Buying appeared to come from shorts who were taking profits, while selling was scattered and seemed to emanate from various sources.

The largest reduction in acres is said to be in the eastern states and Oklahoma, while in Texas a cut of only 8 per cent was estimated.

On the break trade buying was strikingly in evidence. The weekly government weather report was not as favorable as expected, but apparently had little effect. The impression prevailed at the close that prices may go some lower. Prices follow:

NEWS OF CROPS

"Winter wheat harvest is progressing and threshing is proceeding in more southern parts, with yield and quality satisfactory," says the weekly government crop report. "Late winter wheat continues to improve in the Pacific northwest with cutting commenced in the early districts. In parts of Montana wheat was cut for hay. Rains in the spring wheat area were too late and much wheat is reported headed short in North Dakota and Wyoming. Where crop was not too far advanced rains were of general benefit. Corn mostly is in excellent condition in principal producing sections. Tassels are appearing about 10 days earlier than normal in Iowa. In the southwest, especially in Oklahoma the crop is urgently in need of rain."

Reports from Waterloo, Ia., to Beach, Wickham & Co., say half of the oats in that section have been cut and will not be threshed on account of being so light in weight.

A wire from Quincy, Ill., says wheat threshing just started and will be general within a few days. Not enough is yet threshed to get a good line on yields, but there are reports of 12 to 30 bu. wheat, dry and testing from 57 to 61 lbs.

A Melbourne cable to Broomhall says weather in Australia now is fine and if it continues seeding will be resumed. Official estimates of the Russian crop place wheat at 112,456,000 bu against 124,800,000 bu a year ago; barley, 77,410,000 bu, against 102,053,000 last year. Corn acreage increased and condition good.
